 Capital: Simla; Strength of Territorial Council: 41.

The centrally administered territory of Himachal Pradesh comprises 22 former Punjab Hill States and their 9 tributaries. The 22 States are Baghal, Baghat, Balran, Bilaspur, Bushahr, Bhaji, Bija, Chamla, Darkoti, Dhani, Jubbal, Keonthal, Kumarsain, Kunihar, Kuthar, Malhot, Mandi, Manal, Sangri, Sirmur, Suket and Tharoch.

The 9 tributaries are Delath, Dhadi, Ghund, Khanet, Koti, Madhan, Ratesh, Rawlugarh and Theog.

The State came into being on April 15, 1948; the consolidation was achieved with the full agreement and support of the Rulers and the people.

Bilaspur was merged into Himachal Pradesh on July 1, 1954.

Himachal Pradesh lies between North Latitude 30° 30' and 33° 10' and East Longitude 75° 55' and 79° 50'. It is bounded on the north by the Jammu and Kashmir State, on the south by Tehri-Garhwal and Dehra Dun Districts of Uttar Pradesh and the Ambala District of Punjab; on the west by Ambala, Hoshiarpur and Kangra. On the east the boundaries are undefined.

The Territory is divided into five administrative districts, Mahasu, Sirmur, Mandi, Chamba and Bilaspur.

Mahasu District has a population of (1951) 380,614 (Rural 322,616; Urban 7,998) and is divided into the following tehsils: Rampur, Rohru, Chini, Jubbal, Chopal, Theog, Arki, Solan and Kasumpti and the sub-Tehsils of Kumarsain, Suni and Kotkhal. 312,761 persons out of the total population are agriculturists.

Sirmur District has a population of (1951) 166,077 (Rural 155,700; Urban 10,377) and is divided into four Tehsils, Nahan, Pachhad, Rainka and Paonta. 147,144 persons out of the total population depend upon agriculture.

Mandi District has a population of (1951) 310,626 (Rural 294,458; Urban 16,168) and contains the Tehsils of Sadar, Mandi, Karsog, Sundernagar, Jogindernagar, Sarkaghat and Chachlot. 286,763 persons out of the total population depend upon agriculture.

Chamba District has a population of (1951) 176,050 (Rural 169,192; Urban 6,858) and is divided into the Tehsils of Chamba, Chura and Bhattiyat. 167,570 persons are agriculturists.

Bilaspur District has a population of (1951) 126,099 (Rural 122,354; Urban 3,745). It lies on both the banks of the Sutlej River and is divided into two tehsils Bilaspur and Ghumarwin. Agriculture is the main occupation of the people, 114,898 persons being agriculturists.

ECONOMY

The main agricultural wealth of the Territory consists in potatoes and fruits such as apple, peach, almond, nuts, pomegranate.

The climatic conditions in this Territory are suitable for the growing of a large variety of fruit. Citrus and stone fruit is confined to the valleys and warmer places, while some fruit apples, pears are grown in the cooler regions. The finer variety of apples which was restricted to a few progressive areas like Kotgarh and Kotkhal is now grown extensively all over the Territory. At present about 50,000 maunds of apples are exported to various parts of India. With the new plantation coming up, the production of fruit will increase considerably.

Salt is another important item; while forests yield timber, fire-wood and charcoal. Handicrafts which include Pashmina shawls, wool of fine quality, resin, herbs, musk and skins are a third source of income.

Himachal Pradesh forests supply the largest quantities of coniferous timber in Northern India. They are the main source of revenue in the Territory, the estimated revenue during 1956-57 being Rs. one crore. The forests are also useful in ensuring the safety of the catchment areas of the Jumna, Sutlej, Beas, Ravi and Chenab rivers. On the protection of these catchment areas depends the steady and constant flow of water in these rivers, and the success of irrigation and engineering works in the plains. For purposes of forest utilization the Territory has been divided into twelve territorial forest divisions, viz., Chamba, Churaha, Mandi, Nahan, Suket, Jubbal, Simla, Solan, Nahan, Rajgarh, Upper and Lower Bushahr.

Seed potato is the chief cash crop. The Territory has established itself as a vital source of potatoes, especially seed potatoes, for the plains of India. It exports nearly 12 lakh maunds of potatoes annually out of which over 5½ lakh maunds are directly utilised as seed potatoes.

There is a resin and turpentine factory at Nahan.

Five year plan investment for 1958-59: Rs. 5.8 crores. The total investment for the whole plan: Rs. 14.72 crores.

For 1958-59, budget estimates provided for revenue receipts of Rs. 265.89 lakhs and expenditure Rs. 762.77 lakhs, thus showing a deficit of Rs. 496.88 lakhs. The Union Government later imposed a cut of Rs. 52 lakhs in the estimates.

JAMMU AND KASHMIR STATE

Area: 85,861 sq. miles; Population: 4.41 millions (1951); Capital: Srinagar.

Official language: Urdu; Regional languages: Kashmiri, Dogri, Balti, Dardi, Punjabi, Pahari, Ladakhi. There are 33 local bodies, three municipalities, 26 town area committees and four notified area committees in the State.

The State has now a Legislative Assembly (100 including 25 for occupied areas) and a Legislative Council (30).

For administrative purposes, the State is divided into two provinces: Kashmir (including the Frontier District) and Jammu.

Districts: in Kashmir Province: Srinagar, Baramulla, Anantnag and the Frontier District of Ladakh; in Jammu Province: Jammu, Kathua, Udhampur and Doda.

Names of districts showing within brackets the names of tehsils and the population of each tehsil:

Kashmir Province: Srinagar (Srinagar City 230,000; Khas 128,000; Badgam 181,000); Baramulla (Baramulla 141,000; Sopore 165,000; Handwara 184,000; Uri and Karnah 53,000); Anantnag (Anantnag 231,000; Kulgam 93,000; Pulwama 173,000); Ladakh (Ladakh 37,000; Kargil 43,000).

Jammu Province: Jammu (Jammu including Jammu City 189,000; Samba 66,000; Akhnor 81,000; Ranbirsinghpore 67,000); Kathua (Kathua 49,000; Jasmirghar 41,000; Basoli 75,000); Udhampur (Udhampur 50,000; Ramnagar 63,000; Reasi 97,000); Doda (Kishtwar 65,000; Bhaderwah 59,000; Ramban 92,000).

The Jammu and Kashmir State constituting the extreme western section of the Himalayas, lies between 32°17' and 36°58' north latitude, and 75°26' and 80°30' east longitude. The total area of the State is 84,471 sq. miles and the population 4,410,000 with an average density of 48 per sq. mile.

Non-Muslims form about 23 per cent of the total population—a percentage slightly higher than the one which Muslims formed in India before the partition. Culturally both Muslims and Hindus belong to the same group. Consequently, they speak the same language and have common customs and conventions, and sometimes even places of common worship.

About 10.3 per cent of the total population is urban. There are 2 cities, 37 towns and 8,740 villages in the whole State.

A double tube 1½ miles long low level tunnel the Jankhir Tunnel, was bored through the mountain of Banihal and traffic has been allowed through one of its tubes from 1957. The tunnel has provided an all-weather link between Kashmir Valley and the outside world.

In recent years, the State has made all round progress. To give a fillip to State trade, a set work of Kashmir Arts & Crafts Emporia has been established in important cities in India. These account for Kashmir goods worth about Rs. 32 lakhs annually. The State owns a transport fleet of nearly 500 vehicles. Distribution of essential commodities within the State is made mostly through multi-purpose co-operative societies. This has resulted in all areas of the State being fully served with essential supplies and elimination of the black market. In the matter of literacy, the State is well ahead of many former Princely States, with a University of its own established in 1949. In 1957-58, there were about 2,800 Government educational institutions in the State including 12 colleges. A Kashmiri script has been evolved for the first time in history. Text books in Kashmiri have been introduced in elementary schools.

The State occupies an important position in the political geography of India as it has common frontiers with China, the U.S.S.R., Pakistan and Afghanistan.

AGRICULTURE

Kashmir State has a delightful climate, though winter months are very cold. The maximum recorded temperature of the Kashmir Valley is 79.3 degrees and the minimum 11°.

In Jammu the temperature in summer goes upto 115°, or sometimes even higher, but comes down to 30° and even to 20° during winter in some parts of the State. The average rainfall for the whole of the State is 28.45°.

Forests hold an important place in the economy of the State. They yield fine wood of many varieties, medicinal herbs and also provide game and fodder for the cattle. The forest operations do not extend to the Frontier Province which forms three-fourths of the total area of the State. In the two remaining provinces, 11,058 sq. miles or about 50 per cent of their total areas constitute forest land.

The oldest forest industry is that of rosin and turpentine. In 1955-56, 52,927 maunds of rosin and 108,875 gallons of turpentine were manufactured in the factory and the income from sales amounted to about Rs. 19 lakhs.

Agriculture is the main occupation of the people. But the soil is not very fertile. Only 3.6 per cent of the total area is cultivable, and the remaining portion is full of mountains and deserts. The total amount of land actually under cultivation in the State is 2,069,707 acres. The main crops grown are rice and maize, and in Jammu wheat and maize. The State on the whole is deficit with regard to food supply.

The total area of the State in acres is 54 million. Out of this the cultivable area today would be of the order of 2.1 million acres. The area under irrigation in 1955 was 744,000 acres.

With the completion of several new irrigation canals and lift irrigation projects 47,225 acres of land were brought under cultivation. In the Second Plan an additional acreage of 1.44 lakh acres is expected to come under cultivation and food production to increase by 15 lakh maunds.

The State has three development blocks under the Community Projects programme, one at Badgam in Kashmir, one at Manzar in Jammu and the third in Ladakh where it covers the whole district. The three blocks cover about 579 villages and a population of 1.75 lakhs. The projects cost Rs. 20 lakhs (Badgam), Rs. 20 lakhs (Manzar), Rs. 10 lakhs (Ladakh).

There are also ten National Extension Blocks. By the end of the Second Plan the entire State will have been covered by NES Blocks—37 in number.

The Government passed the 'Big Landed Estates Abolition Act' in 1951, by virtue of which the right of ownership held by a landlord owning more than 22½ acres was extinguished without compensation and was thereafter vested in tillers of such lands. In pursuance of this Act, the Government distributed the land held by big landlords (as defined in the Act) among the tillers and thus landlordism, to a large extent, was abolished in the State. 8,989 persons held more than 22½ acres each and together accounted for 900,000 acres. The area of land from which expropriation took place without compensation was 4.5 lakh acres. About 2.3 lakh acres of land were transferred in ownership right to about 2 lakh tillers with more than 7 lakh dependents. Land vested in the State amounted to 2.2 lakh acres.

The Land Compensation Committee appointed by the Constituent Assembly presented its report to the Assembly in the last week of March 1953. The Constituent Assembly accepted its recommendations and unanimously passed a resolution on March 31, 1953, that no compensation be paid for land expropriated under the Big Landed Estates Abolition Act.

Debt claims upto nearly Rs. 175 lakhs were consolidated by the various Debt Conciliation Boards (set up under the Distressed Debtors' Relief Act) and scaled down to Rs. 55 lakhs. This freed the peasantry from the age old burden of the money lending agencies. In August 1953 the system of Mulwana (forced levy) was abolished making the peasant free to sell his surplus produce to the Government whenever he chose to do so.

The Government has started a new land settlement drive beginning with Baramulla and Poonch districts.

INDUSTRY, MINERALS

Woolen textile manufacturing is the biggest single industry in the State. It gives employment to about 800,000 people, including both part-time and whole-time workers. Kashmir woollens, such as shawls, carpets, namdas and gabbas have a world-wide popularity. During the 18th and 19th centuries especially Kashmir shawls had a wide demand in England, and, as it was expressed at the time, 'adorned the proudest beauties in Europe and the rest of the world.'

Next in importance comes the silk industry. Kashmir siltures are the largest in the world for a single unit of production, and produce one of the finest quality silks.

Silk worm rearsers number about 60,000. The total number of persons employed would be over 100,000 and the number dependent on the silk industry would be about a million. The industry is run by a Government department.

A joinery mill has been set up in Kashmir. The factory is a unique venture, as very few such industries exist outside Europe and North America. The factory has an installed capacity for the manufacture of 36,000 doors and 36,000 windows which on an average should mean a turn-over of goods worth Rs. 35 lakhs per year.

Two other factories set up are a tannery and a carpet factory.

Papier-mache, silver-ware, and wood-carving are among the other minor industries of the State.

The Industrial co-operatives include carpet weaving, pashmina weaving and embroidery chain stitch weaving, tapestry weaving, wood carving and papier-mache. The total value of the goods sold by the Industries in one year is about Rs. 3 lakhs.

Production centres of calico printing, khadi, wooden articles, hand made paper etc. have been recently started at various places in both the Provinces.

The production of some industries is as follows: Government woollen mills (1954-55) Yarn, 3,84,945 lbs.; cloth, 2,03,892 yds.; total sales: Rs. 12,50,242.

Sericulture (Government) (1954-55) Raw silk, 3,45,340 lbs.; by-products, 1,27,898 lbs.

Drug Research Laboratory (1955-56) Spent, 100,000; non-spirituous ampoules, tablets, etc., value Rs. 6,84,200.

Government Silk Weaving Factory (1955-56) Georgette crepe, 3,29,870 yds., value Rs. 14,84,415.

Government Joinery Mills (1955-56) Windows, doors, flooring, ceiling, sales Rs. 3 lakhs.

Match Factory, Baramulla (1954-55) Gross boxes of matches 92,265, value Rs. 5,88,189-0-0.

Tanneries (Government) (1956-57) Leather goods, 1,200 mds. of tanned hides, 2,000 pairs of shoes; sales Rs. 1,10,200.

Other particulars about industry are given below. The first figure shows the number of factories and the second, where available, the number of workers in that industry.

Woolen: 1, 495; Silk: 17, 2,913; Transport workshops: 2, 229; Press: 4, 269; Oil Mills: 3, 73; Flour mills: 2, 59; Match industry: 1, 98; Fruit canning: 1, 150; Rosin and turpentine: 1, 73; Sports: 1, 100; Drug manufacturing: 2, 135; Timber industry: 1, 250; Wood: 1, not available; Cold storage: 1, 25; Carpets: 2, 270; Electric workshops: 2, 25; Saw mills: 2, 20; Iron and Steel: 2, 47; Water works: 1, 60.

The total no. of factories in the State: 47. Total labour: 5,080.

Number of workers in the main cottage industries are given below:

Rashtagari: 3,554; Jalakdoul: 1,558; Carpets: 1,702; Namdah: 899; Wood carving: 1,088; Pashmina: 801; Papier Mache: 296; Gubba: 442; Fur: 182; Handloom weaving silk: 3,000; Zarihari and tapestry: 663; Metal and silver: 125; Willow works: 800.

Total no. of workers in cottage industries: about 14,430.

Woolen manufactures, silks, forest products such as timber, herbs, some chemicals, furs and skins, and fruit and vegetables are the main items of export, whereas foodstuffs, textiles, sugar and tea, spices and hardware form the main imports into the State.

The following is a list of the minerals found in the State: Coal, Lignite (possibilities of petroleum), Bauxite, Iron ore, Copper ore, Lead, Zinc, Nickel ore, Manganese, Gold, Arsenic, Chromite, Ochre, Gypsum, Graphite, Kaoline, Bentonite, Fuller's Earth, Marble, Slate, Steatite, Terpenite, Barytes, Corundum (Sapphire and Ruby), Beryl and Aquamarine and Tourmaline. There are other minerals too, suitable for glass manufacture. But it is not known, whether the exploitation of all these minerals is an economic proposition. Coal, Lignite and Iron ore are supposed to be in existence in fairly large quantities.

Tertiary coal deposits in Jammu occupy an important position in the economy of north India. The two fields are Jangal Gali about 40 miles from Jammu and Kalakot about 75 miles from Jammu.

The total labour force at Jangal is 125 and the target of production 5,000 tons. The total labour force at Kalakot is about 80 and the target of production 5,000 tons.

Soap stone, barytes and China clay are worked by the Mining Department of the State and products sent to the Government Paint and Mineral Factory at Jammu. The total production during 1956 was 100 tons. Number of workers, 15.

The sapphire mines are about 200 miles from Jammu and are not worked at present. Applications for leasing out were under the consideration of the Government.

Gypsum deposits occur in areas 75 to 100 miles from Jammu. A Plaster of Paris factory is being established by private business men.

The bentonite deposits which occur about 40 miles from Jammu are not worked at present. In the past a few hundred tons were raised every year. There are plans for re-starting the mines.

Power Schemes: During the First Five-Year Plan, the Rs. 2-30 crore Sindh Hydro-electric Project was completed and the production of electric power increased from 4,850 kWs. to 7,950 kWs. Besides, 1,500 kWs. were purchased from the Punjab Government. In the second Five-Year Plan 17,800 additional kWs. of energy will be generated. Out of this about 16,000 kWs. will be utilised in industry.

The purchase of power from Jogindernagar, Punjab to the tune of 1,500 kWs., has improved the power position in Jammu. Samba and Kathua in the Jammu Province have also been electrified.

Tourist traffic is one of the main sources of income both to the State and the people. It is estimated that before the trouble started in Kashmir, about 40,000 people used to visit that place annually, spending about Rs. 1,50,00,000 during their stay of a few months in the Valley. Great efforts are now being made by the State to develop this traffic to the maximum possible extent.

During 1956-57, the number of tourists who visited the State touched the record figure of 70,000. This is more than a four-fold increase in the number of visitors who came to the State in 1947.

To further stimulate tourist traffic, a Reception Hall at Srinagar and a number of Dak Bungalows at various places have been built, and more beauty spots are being opened up.

The new Banihal Tunnel which has been thrown open to traffic, will, besides, making a profound influence on the economy and social life of Kashmir, give a fillip to tourist traffic in the winter also as the road will no longer be snow-bound.

EDUCATION

Education was declared free throughout the State from Primary to the University stage, in the year 1953. This has resulted in an increase of about 70 per cent in the budget for education. Over 1-5 lakh students have benefited by this reform.

Before the First Plan came into operation, the State had 4 colleges, 27 high schools, 170 middle schools and 1,466 primary schools. During the First Plan period 5 colleges, 3 training schools, 29 high schools, 48 middle schools, 76 central schools, 599 primary schools, 90 Maktabas and Pathshahas, and 13 lower high schools were established and the status of a number of institutions was raised. In 1957 a Polytechnic was also opened at Srinagar.

During the Second Plan period it has been decided to establish 1,500 basic schools, six post-matric training schools, 2 post-graduate colleges for women, and a college for physical education. Besides, 50 primary schools will be converted into Basic Activity schools, 40 middle schools into high schools, 20 high schools into higher secondary schools, 10 secondary schools into higher secondary schools and 4 inter-colleges into degree colleges. One M.Ed. class will also be started.

The following figures relate to 1956-57:

The no. of primary schools for boys: 1,671; for girls: 293. No. of boys on roll in primary schools: 75,618; of girls: 13,700.

The no. of middle schools for boys: 225; for girls: 35. The no. of boys on roll in middle schools: 37,500; of girls: 5,594.

The no. of high schools for boys: 86; for girls: 23. The no. of boys on roll in high schools: 39,354; of girls: 10,740.

The no. of men teachers in primary schools: 1,849; of women teachers: 340.

The no. of men teachers in secondary schools: 2,922; of women teachers: 576.

ROAD DEVELOPMENT

In respect of means of communication the State was very backward having a very poor road system. Before the Plan was taken in hand there were 2-5 miles of road per 100 sq. miles and only one mile of road per 2,000 of population. There were only 1,600 miles of motor road, 427 miles of jeep track and 2,400 miles of bridle path.

During the Plan Period, 425 miles of new road were constructed, 482 miles of existing roads improved and over 20 major bridges of 7,000 ft. aggregate length constructed.

In the Second Plan the target set is construction and development of 820 miles and upgrading of 740 miles of roads and the building of 19 major bridges.

PUBLIC HEALTH

At the end of the First Five Year Plan period the State had 2 central hospitals, 2 chest disease hospitals, 8 district hospitals, 18 first class dispensaries, 74 second class dispensaries, 127 unani and ayurvedic dispensaries, 2 central laboratories, 2 sanatoria and one T.B. clinic.

Mass campaigns against malaria, typhus and venereal diseases were also launched successfully in various parts of the State.

In the Second Plan period, the bed strength of hospitals would be raised to 600, and 16 more dispensaries will be opened. A medical college will also be established.

The bed strength in the State Central Hospitals is 430, in the tuberculosis department 200. The eight district hospitals have a bed strength of over 80.

CO-OPERATION

The figures relate to 1956-57:

The total no. of societies: 842; no. of members: 160,244, working capital: Rs. 15,350,802.

The table below gives the details:

Name	Number of Societies	Members	Working Capital
Multi-Purpose Societies	620	138,453	3,765,788
Urban Credit Societies	123	3,265	637,729
Central Co-operative Bank	4	2,410	2,083,303
State Co-operative Bank	1	974	2,856,837
Fishermen's Co-operative Societies	1	178	13,397
Milk Society	1	160
Supply and Sale Societies	77	11,176	2,762,436
Provincial Supply and Marketing Societies	1	89	2,503,604
Farming Societies	3	230	7,250 (Loan)
Indusco	7	1,480	268,270 (Goods manufactured)
Forest Labourers Co-operative Societies	1	707	180,578
Processing of Hides and Skin Societies	1	20	227,017 (Goods processed)
Transport Workers Co-operative Societies	2	1,082	44,593 (Share capital)

Figures for 1955-56:

Deposits in Central and District Banks: Rs. 16,62,116; Other funds and reserve: Rs. 4,68,269; Paid-up: Rs. 3,22,918.

Deposits in J. & K. State Co-operative Bank: Rs. 15,44,084; Share capital: Rs. 10,39,850; Reserve and other funds: Rs. 2,72,919.

About 40 per cent of the families are in the co-operative fold.

BUDGET ESTIMATES FOR 1956-59

Revenue receipts : Rs. 1,476-93 lakhs.
Revenue expenditure : Rs. 1,390-39 lakhs.
Total aid from Centre: Rs. 918 lakhs (For Plan Rs. 430 lakhs, Grant-in-aid etc. Rs. 488 lakhs).

The main sources of income are land revenue, forests, profits of silk reeling (which is a State monopoly), courts, etc., and the main items of expenditure are salaries, public utility works, education, sanitation, irrigation, electricity, etc.

HOUSING

A Housing Board under the Chairmanship of the Prime Minister, Jammu and Kashmir deals with housing schemes in the State.

A sum of Rs. 95,00,000 has been allocated by the Government of India for the Low Income Group Housing and Industrial Housing Schemes under the Second Five-Year Plan.

One hundred and fifty quarters have been built in the newly established townships of Gandhinagar, Jammu (104 quarters), and Jawaharnagar, Srinagar (50 quarters), on Government account. About 150 houses have been constructed for the low-income group in both the townships.

The cost of the building of each class of house is about Rs. 4,500, 3,500, 3,000 and 2,500 respectively as specified for the different classes of houses.

The buildings are to be constructed according to a plan approved by the Government for the new townships, and according to the plan approved by the Jammu Municipal Council so far as the construction of flats on private plots is concerned.

The houses are not generally built for renting out.

Loans are issued directly to the loanees. The construction of quarters built on Government account is, however, done through the State P.W.D. also.

FIVE-YEAR PLANS

The Government of the State revised the First Five-Year Plan to meet the genuine requirements and needs of the people. The provision for the Plan was raised from 700.00 lakhs to 973.21 lakhs in the Central Sector and from Rs. 300.00 lakhs to Rs. 300.94 lakhs in the case of the State Sector.

The State's Second Five Year Plan is estimated to involve a total outlay of Rs. 5,067.74 lakhs as against Rs. 1,274.2 lakhs of the First Five-Year Plan. The Plan gives high precedence to the development of agriculture and industry and the expansion of educational and medical facilities. It is estimated that employment opportunities to the tune of 14.85 lakh man-months will be created during the Plan-Period.

POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS

Kashmir acceded to India on October 26, 1947. Simultaneously, to fulfil one of the conditions of the acceptance of accession by the Government of India, the Maharaja invited Sheikh Mohammad Abdullah, President of the All Jammu and Kashmir National Conference, to form an interim Government, and to carry on the administration of the State. The interim Government later changed into a full-fledged Cabinet, with Sheikh Abdullah as the first popular Prime Minister.

The Maharaja withdrew from the State and handed over power to his 21-year-old son who was to act during his absence as a constitutional ruler. The latter, Yuvraj Karan Singh, formally took over from his father on June 20, 1949.

For the first time in history, the people of Kashmir elected a sovereign Constituent Assembly which met in Srinagar in October-November 1951. The Constituent Assembly had before it four main tasks, (1) to devise a Constitution for the future governance of the country, (2) to decide the future of the ruling dynasty, (3) to decide whether or not compensation should be paid to the landlords whose lands had been transferred to the tillers and (4) to declare its mind on the future affiliations of the State.

On November 20, 1951 was promulgated the Jammu and Kashmir Constitution (Amendment) Act which amended 42 Sections of 78 clauses of the old constitution. By this the State attained complete and unfettered responsible democratic government.

The new enactment transferred power from the ruler to the popular Government and gave legal recognition to the principle of full, responsible Government which, in theory only, was enforced by the Maharaja's proclamation of March 5, 1948.

Independence of the judiciary was fortified further by extending the normal tenure in keeping with the law in other parts of India. The Board of Judicial Advisers was retained.

The enactment also amended the oaths of office for Ministers and Judges. Unlike the old oath, under which one had to swear and owe allegiance to the Maharaja, his heirs and successors, the new one specified allegiance to "the Constitution of the State as by law established."

The amended Constitution authorised the Constituent Assembly to convert itself or set up another body to discharge the functions of the State Legislature until a new one was elected. The Government would be collectively responsible to that Assembly which would be unrestricted in its powers. The Legislature would have the right to legislate for all parts of the State, even Azad Kashmir. The Government was given extra territorial jurisdiction not enjoyed by any other State in India.

The Constituent Assembly set up a Basic Principles Committee, a Fundamental Rights Committee and Land Compensation Committee.

The recommendations of the Basic Principles Committee led to the abolition of hereditary rule in the State.

The Constituent Assembly also adopted unanimously the report and recommendations of the Land Compensation Committee.

The Constituent Assembly then adopted a flag and emblem for the State.

In February, 1954 the Constituent Assembly ratified the decision of the State's accession to India, adopted in October, 1947.

On the recommendation of the State Constituent Assembly, the President of the Union of India issued on May 14, 1954 the Constitution (Application to Jammu and Kashmir) Order, 1954.

Some of the broad features of the Presidential Order were: No action can be taken by the Union Parliament for increasing or diminishing the area of the State or altering its name without the consent of the State Legislature.

Permanent residents of the State who after having migrated to Pakistan, return to the State under a proper permit for resettlement, shall be deemed to be citizens of India.

Discrimination on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex or place of birth has been prohibited and the State Legislature has been granted the right to make special provisions for the advancement of socially and educationally backward classes of citizens.

All citizens living within the territory of Jammu and Kashmir State have the right to freedom of speech and expression, to assemble peaceably and without arms, to form associations or unions, to move freely throughout the territory of India or to settle in any part of the Union, to acquire or dispose of property and to practise any profession.

The people of the State were granted the right to move the Supreme Court by appropriate proceedings for the enforcement of the Fundamental Rights. No existing law in force in the State of Jammu and Kashmir and no law enacted by the State Legislature in future, defining the classes of persons who are permanent residents of the State Government, acquisition of immovable property in the State, settlement in the State, or right of scholarships, etc shall be affected by any provision of the Union Constitution.

Sheikh Mohammad Abdullah was put under detention in Aug. 1953, was released on Jan. 8, 1954 and was again arrested on May 1, 1954.

CONSTITUTION

The task of constitution making entered a decisive phase when on October 10, 1956 the Drafting Committee presented the Draft Constitution to the Constituent Assembly.

The Assembly discussed the Draft Constitution for more than a month.

The Constitution was finally approved and adopted unanimously on November 17. It came into effect on January 26, 1957.

The Constitution declares the State of Jammu and Kashmir to be "an integral part of the Union of India."

The territory of the State will comprise all the territories which on August 15, 1947, were under the sovereignty or suzerainty of the Ruler of the State.

The executive and legislative power of the State will extend to all matters except those with respect to which Parliament has powers to make laws for the State under the provisions of the Constitution of India.

The Directive Principles of the Constitution lay down that the prime object of the State should be the promotion of the welfare of the mass of the people by establishing and preserving a socialist order of society wherein all exploitation of man has been abolished and wherein justice—social, economic and political—inform all the institutions of national life.

Every person who is, or is deemed to be, a citizen of India shall be a permanent resident of the State, if on the 14th of May, 1954 he was a State subject of Class I or of Class II or having lawfully acquired immovable property in the State, he has been ordinarily resident in the State for not less than 10 years prior to that date. Any person who, before the fourteenth day of May, 1954, was a State Subject of Class I or of Class II and who, having migrated after the first day of March, 1947, to the territory now included in Pakistan, returns to the State under a permit for re-settlement in the State or for permanent return issued by or under the authority or any law made by the State Legislature will on such return be a permanent resident of the State. The permanent residents will have all the rights guaranteed to them under the Constitution of India.

The Constitution lays down that the Executive of the State should consist of the Sadr-i-Riyasat who will be elected by a majority of the total membership of the Legislative Assembly. He will hold office during the pleasure of the President. The executive power of the State will be vested in him and shall be exercised by him. The Sadr-i-Riyasat will hold office for a term of five years.

The Council of Ministers will be collectively responsible to the Legislative Assembly. The Prime Minister will be the head of the Council of Ministers.

The Legislature of the State will consist of the Sadr-i-Riyasat and two Houses, to be known respectively as the Legislative Assembly and the Legislative Council. The Legislative Assembly will consist of one hundred members chosen by direct election from territorial constituencies in the State.

Twenty-five seats in the Legislative Assembly will remain vacant to be filled by representatives of people living in Pakistan-occupied areas of the State.

The Legislative Council will consist of 36 members. Eleven members will be elected by the members of the Legislative Assembly from amongst persons who are residents of the Province of Kashmir, provided that of the members so elected at least one shall be a resident of Tehsil Ladakh and at least one a resident of Tehsil Karail, the two outlying areas of the State. Eleven members will be elected by the members of the Legislative Assembly from amongst persons who are residents of the Jammu Province. Of the remaining 14 members, 6 will be elected by various electorates, such as municipal councils, educational institutions, etc., 2 will be elected by Panchayats and such other local bodies and 6 will be nominated by the Sadr-i-Riyasat.

The fixation of parity in membership of the Legislative Council as between Kashmir and Jammu is very significant and important as the population of Kashmir is much larger than that of Jammu.

The High Court of the State will consist of a Chief Justice and two or more other judges. Every judge of the High Court will be appointed by the President after consultation with the Chief Justice of India and the Sadr-i-Riyasat, and in the case of appointment of a judge other than the Chief Justice, the Chief Justice of the High Court.

There will be a Public Service Commission for the State. The Commission along with its Chairman will be appointed by the Sadr-i-Riyasat.

The superintendence, direction and control of the preparation of the electoral rolls for the election will be vested in an Election Commissioner appointed by the Sadr-i-Riyasat. There will be one general electoral roll for every territorial constituency and elections will be on the basis of adult franchise.

Every member of the civil service or one holding a civil post will hold office under the pleasure of the Sadr-i-Riyasat.

The official language of the State will be Urdu, but English will, unless the Legislature by law otherwise provides, continue to be used for all official purposes of the State.

There will be an Academy of Arts, Culture and Language in the State where opportunities will be afforded for the development of art and culture of the State and for the development of its languages.

The Constitution can be amended by the introduction of a Bill in the Legislative Assembly and passed in each House by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the total membership of that House. But no Bill or amendment seeking to make any change in the provisions relating to the relationship of the State with the Union of India, the extent of executive and legislative powers of the State or the provisions of the Constitution of India as applicable in relation to the State shall be introduced or moved in either House of the Legislature.

The emoluments of the Sadar-i-Riyasat will be Rs. 5,500 a month.

Elections: Elections to the new legislature were held in March 1957 under the new Constitution. The National Conference secured 68 seats in the 75 member Legislative Assembly and formed the Government in July 1957.

GOVERNMENT

Kerala is the only State in India ruled by a non-Congress Party. The strength of the party in power, the Communist Party, in the legislature is 64 in a house of 126 members excluding the Speaker, who was also a member of the Communist Party.

The Ministry headed by Mr. E. M. S. Namboodiripad assumed office on April 5, 1957. There is a woman member in the Cabinet Smt. Gouri Thomas.

Soon after the assumption of power the Ministry released all "political prisoners" previously convicted. Some of them were sentenced in murder cases. The Government also reduced the sentences of imprisonment passed on many convicts and decided to commute all death sentences which were pending when the Ministry took office. There were ten of these of which one was in relation to a Communist worker, whose mercy petitions had been rejected by the President of India.

The Government constituted in 1957 an Administrative Reforms Committee with the Chief Minister Mr. E. M. S. Namboodiripad as Chairman to inquire into the working of the administrative machinery existing at that time and the systems and procedures under which it was functioning with a view to assessing their adequacy and devising measures for improving the efficiency of the machinery. The Committee was expected to submit its final report before the end of 1957.

New land legislation has been drafted and was expected to be introduced in the budget session of the Assembly. The bill, which is based broadly on the recommendations of the Land Reforms Panel of the Planning Commission, proposes to confer on the permanent tenant ownership rights of the land he tills on payment of purchase price, fix fair rents and a ceiling on land holdings.

The draft bill has been sent to the Union Government for views and comment.

The measure, which is also being circulated for public opinion, seeks to fix the maximum holding at 15 acres of double crop land or its equivalent and draws up maximum and minimum rates of fair rent. Excess lands are to be surrendered to the Government and compensation will be paid.

Land tribunals are to be constituted to fix fair rents.

The cost of production and land revenue tax are to be borne by the tenant.

The quantum of compensation has been fixed at 10 times the annual fair rent or two and two-thirds of the annual gross produce. This is payable in instalments.

Pending legislation, the Government has banned all eviction of tenants. Occupants of Government lands will also not be evicted if they had occupied the lands before April 26, 1957.

The Government of Kerala issued an order on January 7, 1958, empowering the collectors to compel holders of waste or arable land to cultivate it with food crops either personally or through lessees.

The order called the "Kerala Land Utilization" Order, 1958, was issued under the Essential Commodities Act of the Centre and with the prior approval of the Central Government.

An experiment, the first of its kind in Kerala, to reconstruct the villages on Sarvodaya lines, was launched on November 24, 1957 with the inauguration by the Governor of Kerala of 27 gram panchayats to take charge of the Gramdan villages around Malayadi, 22 miles from Trivandrum. According to the organisers, over 1,000 families in 30 villages had surrendered their lands and come forward to establish a new social order based on Sarvodaya.

The Kerala Education Bill was passed by the Kerala Legislative Assembly on September 3, 1957 and was sent to the Central Government for the President's assent. The Union Home Ministry decided to refer the Bill to the Supreme Court for its opinion on certain controversial clauses of the measure.

The Bill laid down that the teacher's salaries even in private aided schools should be paid by the Government directly. Recruitment of teachers will be by the Public Service Commission. The Bill also seeks to bring about equality in the conditions of service of the teachers in all schools, Government and private. The private schools however have the option to waive Government grants and function only as recognised schools without the regulations regarding recruitment and payment of salaries.

The Supreme Court which gave its opinion on May 22, 1958 held that the power to take over the management of certain schools which the Bill vested in the Government and the provision that no fee should be charged in primary schools offended against the Constitution.

The Government is considering the abolition or reorganisation of District Boards.

BUDGET ESTIMATES FOR 1958-59

Revenue: Rs. 33-62 crores.

Expenditure: Rs. 34-17 crores.

Surplus: Rs. 35-01 lakhs (with new taxes).

KERALA FINANCIAL CORPORATION

The Kerala Financial Corporation was established under the State Financial Corporations Act, 1951, on 1st Dec. 1953, with an authorised capital of Rs. 2 crores divided into 200,000 shares of Rs. 100 each and an issued, subscribed and paid-up capital of Rs. 1 crore divided into 100,000 shares of Rs. 100 each. The Corporation was started with the object of making available long term credits to industrial concerns in Kerala State in need of financial assistance and thereby quickening the pace of industrialisation of the State.

The shares of the Corporation were distributed among the various classes of shareholders as follows as on 31st March, 1957:—

State Government 60,415 Shares.

Reserve Bank of India 15,000 Shares.

Scheduled Banks, Co-operative Banks, Insurance Companies, Investment Trusts, and other financial institutions 22,540 Shares.

Parties other than those referred to above 2,045 Shares.

Total No. of applications received: 82; Total amount applied for: Rs. 1,59,62,400; Total No. of applications disposed of: 75; Total amount of loan sanctioned: Rs. 1,14,72,800; Total amount disbursed: Rs. 87,23,350; Total amount of instalments received: Rs. 10,67,642-11-0.

The Corporation charges an interest on all its loans and advances at the rate of 6½ per cent, subject to a rebate of ½ per cent for prompt repayment of all instalments. Hence the effective rate of interest levied by the Corporation is 6 per cent. It may be mentioned here that the Corporation has received all instalments promptly on the due date or sometimes even earlier. There are, therefore no defaulters.

During the year ended 31-3-1957, the Corporation earned a gross profit of Rs. 5,46,517-9-0. The total expenses during the same period amounted to Rs. 57,704-0-2. After providing Rs. 2,18,754 towards income-tax and corporation tax, and setting apart Rs. 24,441 for the reserve fund, the Corporation had at its disposal Rs. 2,50,618-8-10, whereas the total amount of guaranteed dividend payable by it for the year ended 31-3-1957 was Rs. 3,50,000. The Corporation was therefore obliged to call upon the State Government to give a subvention for the balance of Rs. 99,381-7-2 to make up the guaranteed dividend.

P. K. Krishnankutty Menon (Chairman); C. I. Abraham, I.A.S. (Retd.) (Managing Director, appointed by Government).

Secretary: C. Nilakanta Menon, B.A.

Chief Accountant: N. Gopinathan, B.A., A.C.A.

The pay scales of 3,000 odd State Transport employees were revised in June 1957 fixing the lowest grade of an employee at Rs. 30 to Rs. 50 as against Rs. 20 existing before.

POWER PROJECTS

Capacity of power plant installed: (a) Hydro-electric—Pallivasal 37,500 kW; Sengulam 48,000; Poringalkuthu 24,000 kW; (b) Thermal (Diesel)—Kasergod 252.5 KVA.

Total installed: 109,753 kW; Production: 560 million units.

Total effective capacity: (a) Hydro-electric—Pallivasal 32,500 kW; Sengulam 36,000 kW; Poringalkuthu 16,000 kW; (b) Thermal (Diesel)—Kasergod 225 KVA.

Pallivasal 2nd stage extension: Production expected: 33,700 kW—in the High Ranges in Devicolum. Under this scheme, a storage reservoir to impound 1,900 c.ft. of water, has been constructed. The work was started in 1944 and was completed in 1956-57. Estimated cost of dam—Rs. 220 lakhs.

Sengulam Hydro-Electric Scheme: The power station is located at Vellathuvai below Pallivasal in Devicolum. The installed capacity is 4 units each of 12,000 kW rating. The project was commenced in 1947. The work is complete and all the generating sets have been commissioned for service. Estimated cost of the scheme is Rs. 364.73 lakhs.

Poringalkuthu Hydro-Electric Scheme: The power station is located at Poringalkuthu on the Chalakudy river in Trichur District. The installed capacity now is 24,000 kW. The works connected with the project were started in 1947 and were completed in May 1957. The estimated cost is Rs. 306.27 lakhs.

Poringalkuthu Hydro-Electric Scheme IInd Stage: Proposed to install one more set of 8,000 kW involving an expenditure of Rs. 40 lakhs. The work is now in progress.

Neriamangalam Hydro-Electric Scheme: The power station is located at Panankutty on the right bank of the Periyar river. The installed capacity will be three units of 15,000 kW each. Work was started in January 1955 and the various works connected with the scheme are in progress. Estimated cost is Rs. 290 lakhs.

Panniar Hydro-Electric Scheme: The power house is to be located on the left bank of the Mudhirapuzha river almost opposite to the Sengulam power house. The installed capacity will be two sets of 15,000 kW each. The estimated cost is Rs. 295 lakhs. Preliminary works connected with the project are in progress.

Sholayar Hydro-Electric Scheme: This scheme utilises the waters of the Sholayar river, a tributary of the Chalakudy river in Trichur District. The generating station will have three sets each of 18,000 kW capacity. The estimated cost of the scheme is Rs. 391 lakhs. The preliminary works connected with the scheme have been started.

Pamba Hydro-Electric Project: The proposal is to construct two reservoirs one in Pambayar and the other in Kakkur and to install generators in an underground power house near Kakkur. Six vertical sets of 50,000 kW each will be installed. The cost of the scheme excluding transmission lines is Rs. 2,080 lakhs. The preliminary works connected with the first stage of the project have been started. The first stage works with an estimated capacity of 100,000 kW are to be completed in 1961-62.

All the above schemes are programmed under the Second Five Year Plan of the State. The plan also includes provision for investigation of Idikki and other hydro-electric schemes and the construction of new transmission lines sub-stations and distributions.

Estimated rise in output by the end of the Second Plan: On the completion of the Second Five Year Plan the total installed capacity of the Hydro-electric stations will be 240,500 kW, as against 109,753 kW at present. The total units generated also will go up from the present 560 million to 1,300 million units per annum.

Organisation: An Electricity Board was set up for the State from 1st April 1957 under the provisions of the Electricity Act, 1945.

IRRIGATION

Major Irrigation Schemes: The following are the major irrigation projects:

Name of Scheme.	Estimated cost in Rs. lakhs	Area to be served in acres
1. Peechi Scheme ..	235.00	40,000
2. Chalakudy Scheme— (1st stage) ..	153.23	48,680
(2nd stage) ..	60.00
3. Wadakkancherry (Vazhani) Scheme ..	104.57	12,800
4. Neyyar Scheme— (1st stage) ..	143.00	24,900
(2nd stage) ..	105.00
5. The Kuttanad Development Scheme— Spillway ..	57.65	121,000
6. Malampuzha Project ..	527.75	47,600
7. Walayar Project ..	116.66	8,000
8. M a n g a l a m Reservoir ..	97.51	6,000
9. Periyar Valley Scheme ..	348.00	63,300
10. Cheralakuzhi ..	47.00	4,000
11. Meenara (1st Stage) ..	88.00	5,900
(2nd Stage) ..	47.00	2,500

Of the Schemes 1 to 9, Peechi has been inaugurated and Chalakudy 1st Stage has almost been completed. The other schemes except Neyyar 2nd Stage and Chalakudy 2nd Stage and Schemes 9 to 11 are schemes started in 1956-57.

The spill-way at Thottappally which forms part of the Kuttanad Development Project was completed and inaugurated in December 1954.

Lift Irrigation Works: Extensive lands are located on a higher level from the rivers by the side of Chalakudy, Periyar, Muvattupuzha and Pampa. A series of schemes have been started by the Government whereby water is lifted from rivers by means of electric pumps and led on to the fields through channels.

About 2,000 items of minor irrigation works are being attended to annually in aid of the G.M.F. Programme.

In 1954-55 minor and lift irrigation works in the State were transferred to the Panchayat Department. This work has been started on a mass and intensive scale in furtherance of the G.M.F. campaign.

Land Reclamation: Area of land reclaimed by State Tractor Organisation: About 50,000 acres.

Land Tenure: There are a number of land tenure systems in the State. Janmam lands, Pandaram, Kanapattam, Verumpattam, etc., are some of these.

Edavagali Abolition Act abolished special tenancy rights of four ancient chieftains and conferred full rights on tenants. This bill was part of one of seven bills viz. Special Rights Abolition Bill.

Bitra	0.05 sq. mile	76	1,520

With the reorganisation of States, in Nov. 1956 the Government of India took over the administration of the Laccadive, Minicoy and Amindivi group of Islands, a small sprawling group of coral islands in the Arabian Sea, lying between the latitudes of 8° and 12° north lat.

They now constitute a Union Territory under an Administrator.

Ten of the islands are inhabited out of a total number of 19. Minicoy, Kalpeni, Kavarathy, Agathy and Androth lie in the Laccadive group and Ameni, Kadamath, Kiltan, Chetlat and Bitra in the Amindivi group.

Before the reorganisation, the Laccadive and Minicoy Islands were part of Malabar District and the Amindivi Islands, of South Kanara District, forming part of the former composite State of Madras.

The administration of the islands was carried on by the Collectors of Malabar and South Kanara.

The islands lie from north to south. Minicoy being the southernmost and Chetlat the northernmost. They are within 20 to 114 miles away from one another except Ameni and Kadamath which are only six miles apart. They are 125 to 250 miles off the Malabar and South Kanara coast.

The area and population of the inhabited islands are given according to the latest census, which also show that the density of population is high. There is thus no scope for colonisation in the small satellite islands on any appreciable scale.

All the inhabitants of the Islands are Muslims. Originally Hindus, from Malabar (except for Minicoites) the islanders appear to have been converted to Islam sometime in the sixth century. In appearance, mode of dress, manners and customs, the islanders, except those from Minicoy, are indistinguishable from the Moplahs of Malabar. Their dialect is old Malayalam, with local variations peculiar to each island. The Minicoites are more akin to the inhabitants of the Maldives and their language, Mahli, is said to be allied to primitive Sinhalese. In appearance too they are strikingly different from the inhabitants of the Laccadives and the Amindivis. Their customs and manners are also different.

The inhabitants of the Laccadives can be divided into three classes the Koyas, Malmis and Melacheris, the first are landed classes, the second sailors or fishermen and the third are small tenants or belong to the servant class.

Practically the same distinction of class exists in the Amindivi group and also in Minicoy, where the cast system is even more rigid. The classes here are known as Manikfan, Malmis, Thakrus and Raveris.

Mainly as a result of isolation, the islanders have remained backward economically, though in point of intelligence and initiative they are in no way inferior to the Moplahs of Malabar. They have been declared 'Scheduled Tribes' but in reality are far more advanced than similar tribes elsewhere.

The islanders have never had what may be described as benevolent rule. Patriarchal Government prevailed from the earliest known times, and all authority vested in a chief assisted by a Panchayat formed by members from leading families. This form of Government exists in a modified form to this day. In an intermediate period when they came under the sway of the Cannanore Rajahs, the administration fell virtually into the hands of the latter's paid agents who practised a regular system of extortion which did not relax even when native islanders were appointed to the posts.

In the islands formerly administered from South Kanara, the British Government had right from the start, a Resident Manager assisted by Karanis or clerks in every island. This system has taken root and at the moment a Deputy Tahsildar exercises the powers of a Second Class Magistrate, a Police Officer, a Revenue Officer and a Port Officer in the Amindivis. He is also a Civil Judge without monetary limits operating under the customary laws of the islands and is assisted both in his civil and criminal work by Panchayats known as Mukthesars in Ameni and by Moopans in the other islands. The Karanis exercise powers similar to those of village headmen on the mainland.

In the Malabar group the present system is based on Amins appointed from among competent and influential islanders, assisted by clerks. Neither post is hereditary. In the place of Mukthesars or Moopans in the Amindivi group there are here Karanavans or assessors to assist the Amins in the administration of civil and criminal justice, which is governed by the Island Regulation of 1912. The Amin is usually selected from Karanavans.

The Island law is a curious mixture of the ordinary Muhammadan law and the Marumakkathayam law of Malabar, a distinction being made between self-acquired and inherited property. In the early years there was no private property in land, but with the increase of population and the resultant pressure on land, a tendency grew among the people to demarcate plots by means of boundaries mentioned in documents. This is now a source of civil litigation among the islanders, which has assumed alarming proportions. Civil disputes in the Laccadive group are decided by Amins in the first instance, while appeals lie to the Secretary to the Administrator and the Administrator.

In the Amindive group the Civil Procedure Code is applicable to a limited extent, but there are no well defined laws. Consequently much depends upon the interpretation of the customary law, which is no easy matter and is again a source of perpetual litigation.

Criminal justice is also administered by the Amin in the Laccadive group in accordance with Regulation I of 1912 which endows him with an authority equal to that of a Magistrate of the Third Class on the mainland. Appeals from this decision lie to the Secretary to the Administrator and the Administrator. The Deputy Tahsildar who administers criminal justice in the Amindivi group is a Magistrate of the Second Class under the Criminal Procedure Code and was under the jurisdiction of the District Magistrate Judicial of South Kanara, till the State's reorganisation.

Appeals now lie to the Administrator who, it is expected, will be invested with powers of a District and Sessions Judge under the Criminal Procedure Code shortly. First class offenders in the Amindivi group will be dealt with by the Secretary to the Administrator who is proposed to be invested with powers of a First Class Magistrate under the Criminal Procedure Code.

The Union Territory is now under the jurisdiction of the Kerala High Court.

The Government of India have now sanctioned the appointment of Two Tahsildars, one for Minicoy and the other for the Laccadive group with a view to improving the existing administrative machinery.

There is no land tax on any of the islands of the Malabar group but only a tree tax on Government land. On private land no tax is leviable on the trees. Government land is either leased to the community as a whole under the description of Pandaram land or as cowle land where a tax is collected on yielding trees from individuals to whom they are leased. The register of trees maintained by Government is a rough and ready document and the number of trees is checked and a correct account maintained with the help of a surveyor who accompanies every inspection party. Unauthorised encroachments into Government cowle land have also opened up a large field of litigation, made possible by the out-of-date measurement books which are all that Government have to go by, in the absence of a proper survey of the islands.

There is also complication in the revenue rates of the islands as they are calculated on a tree basis. There has been no proper demarcation of land and the account relating to the number of trees is only rough and ready.

The total revenue from these islands can never be a large amount, because the occupied area of the islands is only about 10.67 sq. miles. The present average annual income from this source is only about Rs. 20,000.

There is no tax of any kind in the Amindivi group of islands except from two minor leases of Government Pandaram lands and also from court fees, search fee, copying fees, magisterial and customary fines.

The Minicoy Island, which deserves separate mention, pays a lease amount on Pandaram lands, a poll tax of Rs. 0-4-0 per unmarried woman, Rs. 0-6-0 per unmarried man, and 12 annas per married couple, and two other lease amounts for garden crops and village sites. The poll tax is subject to exceptions.

To set right the existing system of land ownership and collection of taxes it is proposed to conduct a survey of all islands after changing the basis of ownership from one of trees to one of land.

ECONOMY

The major source of income from the islands is however the coir monopoly held by the Government. The islanders are given rice in exchange for coir at depots at the exchange rates fixed by Government from time to time by reference to market rates for coir and rice on the mainland. Government have coir depots in all the islands except Minicoy which is not subject to this monopoly. Islanders are prohibited from selling coir to the public. The object is to ensure the islanders, whose main occupation is coir twisting, a regular supply of rice in exchange for coir, thereby minimising the chances of middlemen interfering in the coir trade.

* There is a slight discrepancy between the Government of India and local figures.

The only agriculture on the island is coconut cultivation but no scientific approach to the question has ever been made. Over-planting is the rule with the result that there is a decrease in the annual crop. There is also no wide scope for development of food crops on the islands.

Proposals for the development of fisheries are under consideration. On Minicoy, the bonito or mass fishing forms an important and valuable industry. There is provision for the expansion of the fishing industry in the island under the Second Five-Year Plan. An allotment of Rs. 2,40,000 has been made in the budget estimate for 1957-58 for this Territory.

No concrete steps have, however, been taken so far in the development of this industry.

The main health problems are the eradication of leprosy and filariasis.

Leprosy is on the increase in two islands, Minicoy and Androth. A leper colony started in 1952 with the aid of a local committee has now been taken over by the Government. A sum of Rs. 90,000 has been provided in the budget estimates for 1957-58 for this purpose.

In Minicoy too there is a leper colony run by Government.

In the Laccadive group, each island has a Government dispensary, with a Civil Assistant Surgeon, a compounder, a maternity assistant, a ward boy and a sweeper.

In the Amindivi group there is a Government dispensary at Amenl in the charge of a Civil Assistant Surgeon which caters for the medical needs of all the five islands. Another dispensary which was sanctioned for Kiltan by the Madras Government will be opened before the end of 1957. The Madras Government also sanctioned three Health Inspectors for the Laccadives and Minicoy and one for the Amindivis. The appointments have yet to be made.

There are nine primary schools, one in each island except Bitra where free midday meals and books and slates are given to the students. The schools are however under-staffed and the teaching equipment poor. Furniture and buildings are also inadequate.

Lack of proper communication is however the biggest single handicap of the administration. Contacts of officers under the Madras Government with the administration have been as few as once in two years through vessels specially chartered for the purpose when the officers made a hurried inspection tour. The normal communication to the islands is by means of sailing boats during the months of October to May when the islanders buy all their requirements from the mainland and sell their produce especially copra, coconuts, cadjan leaves, vinegar, palm gur, mas fish and coir in the mainland markets. For the rest of the year the islands are practically cut off from any contact with the mainland. In Minicoy there is a wireless station. In other islands there are not even postal facilities. Inter-island communication is also rare because the islanders have more contact with the mainland than among themselves.

SECOND FIVE YEAR PLAN

Immediately after the Government of India took over the administration, a draft Second Five Year Plan was drawn up involving an expenditure of Rs. 124.107 lakhs, out of which 94 lakhs formed regular plan items. This was scrutinised by the various Ministries of the Government of India and finally approved by the Planning Commission on 30th Sept., 1957 subject to certain minor modifications.

As approved by the Planning Commission, the broad proposals for improvement of these islands under a Second Five Year Plan, that is, for the three and a half years still left, are as below :

	Ra.
Agriculture and Community Development including development of Fisheries ..	19.98 lakhs
Transport and Communication ..	23.25 "
Industries ..	4.11 "
Education ..	12.40 "
Publicity ..	0.92 "
Public Health ..	15.40 "
Survey and Settlement ..	1.03 "

Under agriculture which on the islands consists mainly of coconut cultivation, the improvements in view are the organisation of demonstration plots, the supply of seedlings at concessional rates, the eradication of coconut disease through a free supply of insecticides, the eradication of rat nuisance, subsidised compost schemes and the introduction of home-stead horticulture.

There is no scope for animal husbandry schemes on these islands, there being no pasture or fodder available.

Fisheries improvement, which is a major development proposed for the islands, will consist of mechanised fishing through pablo boats in off shore waters, new types of fishing gear, expansion of 'mas' fishing, extraction of shark liver oil and research.

Co-operative societies will be introduced in all the islands.

The most important item in reconstruction will however be a monthly steamer service as an experiment with a cargo vessel touching all the major islands. A new lighthouse will be opened in Androth and the existing lighthouse at Kiltan will be improved.

The Posts and Telegraphs Department have been requested to install wireless stations in the major islands. There will also be branch post offices in all the islands as soon as the steamer service starts functioning.

Under industry, coir twisting will be developed through training-cum-production centres in all islands and oil pressing through Wardha Ghanies. Cottage industries like mat making, soap making, spinning etc., will be set up as an experiment.

Under education the main items of development will be the conversion of at least four out of the nine primary schools now in existence into middle schools, out of which one will be converted into a Secondary School with hostel facilities by the end of the Plan period. The existing hostel for island boys at Kozhikode will be improved and its strength increased to 100.

To improve sanitation safe drinking water will be introduced through a scheme of subsidised draw wells. Water seal squatting slabs will be distributed to the islanders practically free. A lady doctor will be appointed and local 'Dais' trained under a 'Dais' training scheme. One of the island dispensaries will be converted into a hospital by the end of the Plan period. One more dispensary will be opened in the Amenl group.

Among other miscellaneous improvements will be the provision of community listening sets for all islands.

A lump sum provision of Rs. 50,000 is also made for self-help schemes under community development.

It is also proposed to move the headquarters of the Administrator to the islands after a regular steamer service is established and wireless stations opened in all the islands. A land revenue system will be organized by the end of the Plan period. A regular administrative machinery will gradually come into existence.

The Plan also includes many construction works including community hall-cum-library in each island involving an expenditure of more than Rs. 17 lakhs.

This is an ambitious plan almost two and a half times the size of the plan which the Madras Government had in mind. The outlay on the Plan items alone works out to about Rs. 350 per head of population, which is much more than any allocation to any backward area on the mainland of India. It is hoped that this Plan will succeed in diversifying the occupational pattern of the islands.

An Advisory Council has been constituted by the Ministry of Home Affairs with five islanders to advise the Administrator on matters of administration involving general policy, schemes of development, improvement in sanitation, communications, education, health and other items intended for the betterment of the condition of the population and to make the islands self-supporting.

One member is nominated to the Lok Sabha from the islands. The name of the present member is Koylat Nallakoya from Androth Island.

GEOGRAPHY

On November 1, 1956, as a result of the States reorganisation, Madhya Pradesh emerged as the second largest State on the new map of India. Stretching from the Chambal in the north to the Godavari in the south, the new State is composed of the former Madhya Bharat, Bhopal and of the former Madhya Pradesh States together with the 17 Hindi districts of the former Madhya Pradesh.

* The figure is slightly different from the Central Govt. figure. † Not formed yet (June 1958). †† One nominated.

and Sironj Sub-division of Kotah district of Rajasthan, enclosing the Sumer enclave of the Mandasaur district in former Madhya Bharat. It comprises an area of 171,201 sq. miles with a population of 26,071,654. Situated centrally, girdled by six states, viz., Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Orissa, Andhra Pradesh, Bombay and Rajasthan, it lays a rightful claim to be the heart of India.

Physical Regions: Ranging between latitudes 18° N and 24° N and between longitudes 74° E and 84° E, with the Tropic of Cancer running along parallel to the Narmada, the main physical regions of the new State are, the Gird Region, the Malwa Plateau, the Narmada Valley, the Satpura ridge and the Chattisgarh plains. Except for a few undulations the level of the plains is generally unbroken. The Vindhya and Satpura are the two parallel ranges running west to east through the middle of the State. The main river systems are the Chambal, Betwa, Son, Narmada, Tapi, Mahanadi and Indrawati.

Nearly the entire State receives good rainfall ranging from 30 to 60 inches generally and between 30 and 35 inches in Bhopal, 30 and 40 inches in Malwa, 30 and 35 inches in Bundelkhand and nearly 60 inches in Chattisgarh.

The climate is dry in the north, cool and breezy in the Malwa Plateau and generally wet and humid in the eastern and southern parts.

The density of population in the State is 152 per sq. mile. The literacy rate is 9.9 per cent. The population of the rural areas and of the urban areas is roughly in the proportion of 88:12. The State has five cities, viz., Indore, Jabalpur, Gwalior, Ujjain and Bhopal and 150 municipal committees. A network of 15,217 miles of roads is spread over the area.

Soil and Crop: The State possesses soils of almost every class, from the rich black cotton soil to the dry and stony red earth. The Malwa region abounds in rich black cotton soil. The low-lying areas of Gird, Bundelkhand and Baghelkhand have lighter soils with a proportion of sand in them. The Narmada Valley is formed of deep alluvial deposits of extreme richness and the Chattisgarh plains have yellow and sandy soil.

The chief food crops are wheat in Malwa, Narmada Valley, Satna, Chhatarpur and Bhopal, rice in Chattisgarh, Shahdol, Rewa, Dhar and Indore, and Juar in Bhopal, Kargone, Ujjain, Sheopur, Mandasaur and Guna and pulses all over the State. Cash crops include cotton in Malwa, and Nimar and sugarcane and oil seeds all over the State.

Nearly 30 per cent of the State's area is covered by forests. The forests are chiefly sal, palis, babul, salai, dhavra, tendu, mahua, bamboo, teak, sal, anjan and harra. The largest products of the best quality teak in India come from these forests.

The total cultivated land in the State accounts for about 37,540,000 acres which is about 51 per cent of the total area. Of this, irrigated land is 2,037,000 acres with 1,247,000 acres under paddy, 336,000 acres under wheat and 59,000 acres under sugarcane. Percentage of irrigated land to the net cropped area is 5.5 per cent.

Economy: The economy of the State is predominantly agricultural, since 78 per cent of its total population is dependent on agriculture for its livelihood. Nearly a third of its area has been brought under the plough, principal crops being rice, wheat, juar, maize, bajra, pulses, oilseeds and cotton.

MINERALS

The State contains extensive belts of mineral deposits. Nearly 25 various minerals are at present being exploited from 591 mines. In 1951, the estimated value of the output of these mines was round about Rs. 8.4 crores. The State has great industrial potential. The expansive coal and iron and manganese deposits in the Chattisgarh Division promise to make it the industrial beehive of the country. Deposits of bauxite have been located in Amarkantak, Balaghat, Seoni and other districts. The mineral areas of former Vindhya Pradesh are Sidhi, Rewa, Panna, Chhatarpur and Tikamgarh, the minerals exploited being coal, ochre, sillimanite, corundum and diamond. Limestone is also found extensively. The number of mines in 1956 was: coal 67, manganese 277, limestone 97, china-clay 9, bauxite 6, steatite 12, felspar 2 and diamond 3. The diamond mines are spread over an area of 23.50 sq. miles and are responsible for 95 per cent of India's diamond production.

The Chief Minerals under active exploitation in the State with district location in brackets are as below:

Coal (Chhindwara, Betul, Narsinghpur, Bilaspur, Raigarh, Surguja, Shahdol, Sidhi); Iron Ore (Durg, Bastar, Jabalpur, Gird, Mandasaur, Kargone, Chhatarpur, Sidhi); Manganese Ore (Balaghat, Chhindwara, Jabalpur, Jhabua, Bilaspur, Mandla); Bauxite (Jabalpur, Surguja, Bilaspur, Mandla, Balaghat, Raigarh, Shahdol, Satna); Diamond (Panna); Corundum and Sillimanite (Sidhi); Glass and Satna, Jabalpur, Morena); Graphite (Betul); Barytes (Sidhi, Jabalpur, Tikamgarh, Dewas); Felspar (Chhindwara, Shahdol, Tale (Jabalpur, Jhabua); Soap stone (Durg, Jabalpur, Sidhi, Jhabua, Chhatarpur); Yellow ochre (Satna, Datia); Red Ochre (Gird, Sheopur); Red Oxide of Iron (Jabalpur); Kaolin (Jabalpur, Shahdol, Dewas); White clay (Satna, Jabalpur); Fuller's Earth (Jabalpur); Asbestos (Jhabua); Refractory clay (Jabalpur, Hoshangabad, Surguja, Bilaspur, Shahdol, Chhindwara, Mandasaur, Raigarh, Deonate (Bilaspur, Kargone), State-owned Shah (Mandasaur).

Lepidolite (Bastar); Mica (Surguja, Balaghat); Fluor-sp (Durg, Jabalpur, Raigarh); Lithiograph stone (Damoh, Nimar); Copper (Bastar, Sidhi, Jabalpur, Balaghat, Narsinghpur, Sheopur, Dewas); Lead Ore (Jabalpur, Sheopur, Gird, Surguja, Raigarh, Durg); Alluvial gold (Raigarh, Surguja, Raigarh, Balaghat, Bastar).

The total production of minerals in 1956 and 1955 (in brackets) was 47,13,391 tons (44,52,882 tons); Manganese ore 4,43,368 tons (3,88,677 tons); Limestone 10,27,400 tons (9,42,778 tons); Iron ore 44,569 tons (5,261 tons); Tale 3,918 tons (2,847 tons); Fireclay and White clay 72,327 tons (40,279 tons); Bauxite 41,544 tons (31,760 tons); Red and Yellow Ochres 10,299 tons; Felspar 941 tons; Graphite 25 tons; Asbestos 387 tons (65 tons); Shale 1,12,241 cases (94,035 cases); Corundum 339 tons (107 tons); Sillimanite 893 tons (560 tons); Diamonds 1,190 Rattis (1,096 Rattis); Coal 4,324,217 tons (1,954); Steatite 42,609 cwt (1954); Dolomite 11,442 tons (1954).

The value of minerals produced and despatched for consumption during the year 1956 was Rs. 12,80,35,000 and the State receipt by way of royalty was Rs. 59,25,000 to which coal contributed Rs. 32,68,597, Manganese Rs. 18,13,163 and other minerals Rs. 8,43,217.

The total number of labourers employed in the mines of major minerals was 75,129 out of which 30,423 were engaged in coal mines, 33,678 in manganese mines and 11,028 in other mines; Bauxite 317 (1953); Steatite 157 (1953); Limestone 6,063 (1953); Fireclay 161 (1953); Diamond 2,169 (1953). No. of workers employed in mining industry in 1957: 76,198 (29,238 in coal and 37,016 in manganese mines).

1956 figures: Total Mileage of Roads: 15,217. Mileage of metalled roads: 8,966.

Mileage of unmetalled roads: 6,251.

Transport has been partly nationalised in the State.

Name of the Authority:—

Central Provinces Transport Services and Madhya Bharat Roadways.

(Government owned and operated.)

LARGE-SCALE INDUSTRY

Main large-scale industries of the State with location in brackets:—

Cotton Textile (Indore, Gwalior, Ujjain, Durg, Sehore, Dewas, Bhopal, Ratlam, Burhanpur, Rajnandgaon); New-print (Nepanagar); Cement (Kymore, Bannmore); Sugar (Dabra, Dalauda, Jagra, Alot, Hargapur, Sarangpur, Mahulpur); Potteries (Gwalior, Jabalpur, Shahdol); Biscuits (Gwalior); Art-silk (Gwalior, Ujjain, Indore); Glass (Gwalior, Jabalpur, Ban, Basoda); Jute (Raigarh); Rayon (Gwalior, Nagda).

The cotton textile industry in the State has 12,447 looms and 597,900 spindles in 20 mills. The biggest cement factory of the country is located at Kymore near Katni. The country's only newsprint mill is located at Nepanagar. The Bilal Steel Plant near Durg is fast coming up. Other important industries are potteries, biscuits, sugar, carpets, art silk, razor blades, diesel engines, jute, glass, engineering goods and rayon.

Production in each industry: Cotton textile in crore yards: Sugar 13,35,735 maunds; Biscuits and confectionery 2,000 tons; Cement 4,10,000 tons; New-print 39,000 tons.

Total no. of registered factories: 1,811.

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES

The State is also famous for traditional village and home crafts such as Chanderi saree, leather toys, cloth, paper and clay toys, pottery, grass mats, lac work, coconut bangles, metal utensils etc. Ancillary industries such as dyeing, calico-printing and bleaching have also concentrated in areas which produce handloom cloth, silk or woollen products. Woodwork and lacquerware are also famous.

Main Cottage Industries in the State with location in brackets:—Handloom (Nearly 68,076 looms spread all over the State); Kosa & Silk (Surguja, Indore, Bilaspur); Chanderi turbans and saris (Maheshwar, Chanderi); Woodwork and Lacquerware (Sivpur, Sabalgarh); Wooden Toys (Bhopal); Softstone work (Jabalpur); Brasswork (Balaghat and Chhindwara); Leco (Seoni, Raipur and Bilaspur); Saw-milling (Betul, Balaghat, Bilaspur and Mandla).

AGRICULTURE

Main food crops of the State: Rice, Juar, Wheat, Gram, Pulses, Maize, Bajra.

Main cash crops of the State: Cotton, Sugarcane, Oilseeds, Tobacco.

Total production of food crops in tons (1955-56): 7,337,000.

Production of individual food crops in tons: (1955-56); Rice 2,861,000; Wheat 1,358,000; Juar 725,000; Gram 548,000; Bajra 88,000; Maize 234,000.

Production of cash crops in tons: Oilseeds (1955-56) 327,000; Cotton bales (1955-56) 419,000; Sugarcane (Average 1948-50 to 1953-54) 87,000; Tobacco (1953-54) 3,000.

Total area cultivated (1956-57): 37,540,000 acres.

Total area under wet cultivation (1956-57): 2,057,000 acres.

Total area under food-crops (1954-55): 34,455,000 acres.

Area under individual food-crops (1955-56): Rice 9,417,000 acres; Juar 5,183,000 acres; Wheat 5,976,000 acres; Bajra 529,000 acres; Maize 1,034,000 acres; Barley 415,000 acres; Gram 3,500,000 acres; Tur 997,000 acres.

Area under cash crops (1955-56): Sugarcane 76,000 acres; Groundnut 654,000 acres; Cotton 2,324,000 acres; Tobacco 16,000 acres; Castor 20,000 acres; Tili 1,106,000 acres; Linseed 1,293,000 acres; Mustard 334,000 acres.

A deficit of 15 to 25 inches of rainfall during the 1957 monsoon created severe drought conditions in almost all parts of the State. The overall loss in rice production in the 12 rice producing districts covering 72,052 square miles of the State's 171,201 square miles area was officially estimated at 1,482,000 tons. Rewa, Shahdol and Panna districts in the former Vindhya Pradesh area suffered most, the loss in the three districts being estimated at 75,62 and 62 per cent respectively of the normal yield.

Plantation in State : Jute.

ELECTRIC POWER

The development of electricity in the constituent units of Madhya Pradesh is recent, the First Five-Year Plan being responsible for the establishment of a number of power projects. Including the installed capacity of the former Madhya Pradesh, Vindhya Pradesh, Bhopal and Madhya Bharat, the total installed capacity was nearly 180,000 kW. ; of this total, the former Madhya Pradesh alone had a capacity of 100,000 kW. Apart from the share to be available from Khaparkheda, the new State has a capacity of about 90,000 kW. apart from the new projects being installed. The major power stations in the 17 districts of Madhya Pradesh include a pilot power station at Raipur with an installed capacity of 4,000 kW., Chandni Power House with 17,000 kW., Jabalpur Power House with 9,250 kW., Katni Power House with 3,300 kW., Itarsi Power Station with 3,000 kW. A total of 31,100 kW. in former Madhya Bharat, includes 14,000 kW. Power House at Indore, 4,500 kW. Power House at Gwalior,* and a dozen other power houses. The former Vindhya Pradesh had a total capacity of 5,985 kW. and Bhopal 3,600 kW. The power projects in the offing include among others the Korbe Power Station with a capacity of 90,000 kW. and the Gwalior Thermal Station* with a capacity of 25,000 kW. The Sagar Power Station was opened on 3-11-1957. It has a capacity of 2,500 kW. and the cost of the station is Rs. 7 lakhs.

Among the important power schemes under the Second Five-Year Plan are the Chambal Power Project with a capacity of 210,000 kW., the Bhopal Power Scheme, the Katni Power Station Scheme, the Burhar Steam Power Scheme and the Satna Thermal Station Schemes.

CO-OPERATION

As on 30-6-1956.

Total number of Co-operative Societies : 19,556.

Total membership of Co-operative Societies : 6,66,232.

Total Share Capital : Rs. 2,551.42 lakhs.

Number of Agricultural Co-operative Non-Credit Societies : 626.

Number of Non-agricultural Co-operative Credit Societies : 484.

Number of Non-Agricultural Co-operative Non-Credit Societies : 1,156.

Number of Co-operative Societies under liquidation : 549.

LAND TENURE

Different land tenure systems have been operating in the four constituent units of the new State but a uniform pattern is slowly emerging. In the former Madhya Pradesh, Vindhya Pradesh, Bhopal and Madhya Bharat, Zamindari, Malguzari and Jagirdari systems were abolished and legislative enactments have been framed and implemented. The former Madhya Pradesh also codified all land laws into what is now known as the Land Revenue Code.

The Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights (Estates, Mahals, Alienated Lands) Act, 1950 (1 of 1951), has now been fully implemented and the State has taken possession of all the villages vested in the State under the above Act.

Number of persons expropriated under the law : about 150,000.

The compensation money will be paid from the State Revenues.

The State Government have decided that in future, Government land should be given for cultivation purposes to only co-operative societies of landless and petty cultivators or to landless or petty cultivators.

Under the new Land Revenue Code, there would be only two classes of tenures (besides Government leases) for persons holding land from the State Government. After the abolition of proprietary rights, the land is now held directly from the State Government.

Any person who held land as a malik-makbuzi in the Central Provinces or the merged territories or who held land as raiyat malik in the Central Provinces, or who held land as an absolute occupancy tenant or a plot proprietor or as a lessee of the Government will now be called "Bhumiswami".

Any person who held land as an occupancy tenant in the Central Provinces, as a raiyat in the merged territories, or as a permanent tenant or lessee of Government will be called "Bhumidhari".

A "Bhumiswami" may transfer any interest in his land and a "Bhumidhari" may transfer, otherwise than by way of mortgage, any interest in his land. No decree or order shall be passed for the sale or foreclosure of any right of the "Bhumidhari" in his land nor shall such right be attached or sold in execution of any decree or order.

The Madhya Pradesh Abolition of Proprietary Rights Act, 1950, provided for the acquisition of malik-makbuzi rights on payment of a multiple of land revenue which varied from two to five times. To secure uniformity a multiple of three times has been prescribed for acquisition of "Bhumiswami" rights.

The "Bhumiswami" will have full rights in trees standing on his holdings ; but a "Bhumidhari" will have no right in the corpus of the trees.

The following table gives an idea of the progress in the payment of compensation as at the end of 1957 :

Region	Amount payable (in lakhs)	Amount paid (in lakhs)	Balance payable (in lakhs)
Mahakoshal	500	350	150
Madhya Bharat	950	200	750
Vindhya Pradesh	250	62.00	187.00
Bhopal	7.15	6.13	1.02

SECOND FIVE-YEAR PLAN

The Second Five-Year Plan of the State involves a financial outlay of Rs. 19,090.27 lakhs. The First Five-Year Plan of the four units envisaged a total outlay of only Rs. 8,375 lakhs. The Second Plan, in contrast, is much bigger in size as well as in scope. The distribution of the total outlay between various sectors of development is as follows:—

Head of development	Total (in lakhs of Rs.)
1. Agriculture & Community Development	4,253.1
2. Irrigation & Power	7,28.30
3. Industry & Mining	1,034.46
4. Transport & Communications	1,299.62
5. Education	2,062.85
6. Health	1,433.11
7. Housing	450.24
8. Other Social Services	923.17
9. Scientific & Industrial Research etc.	834.53
Total (includes other items not mentioned above)	19,090.27

Broadly speaking, 74.70 per cent of the total outlay represents real investment which would lay the foundations of the State's growing prosperity, both in industrial as well as in agricultural fields. The remaining outlay of 25.30 per cent will be spent on social services including education, health, housing etc. Besides, there are the Central Government Projects such as the Rs. 131-crore Steel Plant at Bhilai, opening of the Korba Coal Mines with an approximate cost of Rs. 21 crores and the establishment of a Heavy Electrical Equipment Plant at Bhopal.

Agriculture: Continued emphasis has been given to agriculture and allied subjects including the Community Development Programmes. During the period, about 55,000 acres of land will be brought under the plough and over 3 lakh acres of land under irrigation. During the same period, Rs. 625.11 lakhs will be spent over agricultural production and Rs. 651.88 lakhs over land development. The Animal Husbandry Plan is for Rs. 385.40 lakhs. For Dairying and Milk supply Rs. 77.59 lakhs, for Co-operation Rs. 378.80 lakhs, for Forests Rs. 276.94 lakhs and for Fisheries Rs. 24.80 lakhs have been provided in the Plan.

Community Development Programmes: By the end of the Second Plan period, every village will be covered by the Community Development Projects. The State has been divided into 404 N.E.S. Blocks.

In 1956, there were 104 N.E.S., 8 Intensive T. W. and 50 C.D. blocks—162 in all in operation. They covered 32,009 villages and a population of 10,422,938. At the end of the Second Plan when the whole State will be covered there will be 404 blocks.

Irrigation & Power: About 37.66 per cent of the total outlay is provided in the Plan for irrigation & power plans. These include Rs. 77.18 crore Chambal Hydel & Irrigation Project, remodelling of Mahanadi Canal in Rajpur district, Rila River Project in Sagar, Sukta River Project in Nimar, Pampavati Tank Project in Jabara District, Choral River Project in Indore District, Chilar River Project in Shahajpur District, Ravigawan Canal Project in Satna District, the upper Ken Valley Project in Panna and the Nagod Canal in Satna District.

The Chambal and Tawa projects alone will irrigate about 20 lakh acres of land and generate 23,500 kW. of power. The Korba Thermal Scheme will generate 90,000 kW. of power.

Important among the power schemes are the Chambal Power Project with a capacity of 2,10,000 kW., the Tawa Power Project with 22,500 kW., the Korba Thermal Station Scheme with 90,000 kW., the Bhopal Power Scheme, the Birsinghpur Power Station and Satna Thermal Station Schemes.

Special mention may be made of the Korba Thermal Station Scheme which was originally estimated to cost Rs. 1148.31 lakhs. However, due to the demand for additional power and the accelerated development of the Bhilai Steel Plant with which the scheme is intimately connected, the outlay has been raised to 1228.86 lakhs. The progress of this scheme has to be maintained according to schedule to meet the demands of the Bhilai Project.

The original proposal for constructing a new Thermal Station at Gwalior has been changed for an alternative proposal for laying a transmission line under the Chambal grid from Sawal-Madhupur to Gwalior. This is now being undertaken by the Chambal Hydel Organisation.

The expansion of the Bhopal Power House has been linked with the Heavy Electrical Equipment Factory to be established very shortly.

Industry & Mining: During the Second Plan period, 2 Sugar Factories on co-operative basis will be started. A spinning mill of 12,500 spindles will be started which will have a production of 10,000 bales per year. A vegetable oil and solvent extraction Plant will be set up at a cost of Rs. 14.25 lakhs. A distillery for power and industrial alcohol is proposed to be started. Preliminary steps have already been taken for the establishment of a synthetic petrol plant at Korba, and a cement factory in Bilaspur district. Nearly 1,000 industrial co-operatives with a membership of 10,000 would be opened to help small scale industries.

All these besides the three major industrial undertakings, viz. the Bhilai Steel Plant, the Heavy Electrical Equipment Plant and the exploitation of the Korba Mines, as also the harnessing of the rich deposits of a variety of mineral resources will make Madhya Pradesh an important industrial area.

Roads will also be improved in the State for which Rs. 1,299.62 lakhs have been provided.

* During the season.

Education: In the Plan, Rs. 782.89 lakhs have been provided for primary, Rs. 448.85 lakhs for secondary, Rs. 242.73 lakhs for technical and vocational and Rs. 85.03 lakhs for social and Rs. 10.94 lakhs for physical education.

Over 10,000 Primary Schools, 7 new girls' high schools, one degree College, One University and a number Junior Technical Schools, Polytechnics and Multi-purpose schools will be started during the Plan.

Public Health: New schemes for the control and eradication of diseases, opening of new hospitals, providing medical facilities in rural areas will be taken up. The Plan provides Rs. 463 lakhs for hospitals, Rs. 281 lakhs for water-supply, Rs. 202.65 lakhs for control of diseases, Rs. 285 lakhs for medical education and training, etc.

Provision has also been made for other social services e.g. Rs. 69 lakhs for industrial housing, Rs. 92 lakhs for urban land development and Rs. 262 lakhs for special housing schemes.

The Plan also provides a sum of Rs. 400 lakhs for the welfare of Scheduled and Backward classes and Rs. 53 lakhs for labour welfare. A sum of Rs. 22.50 lakhs has also been provided for developing tourist traffic.

BUDGET ESTIMATES FOR 1958-59

Revenue: Rs. 5,616.79 lakhs
Expenditure: Rs. 5,506.76 "
Surplus: Rs. 110.03 "

MADHYA PRADESH FINANCIAL CORPORATION

(Shiv Vilas Palace, Indore City.)

The Madhya Bharat Financial Corporation was set up by a notification of the former Madhya Bharat Government dated 30th June 1955 in exercise of the powers conferred by the State Financial Corporations Act, 1951. After the integration of M.B. into Madhya Pradesh it is now called M. P. Financial Corporation.

The Corporation started functioning on 1st July 1955.

The object of the Corporation is to assist and further the industrialisation of the State by providing institutional credit, medium and long term, to industrial concerns in Madhya Pradesh. Financial accommodation will not only be granted by the Corporation to public limited companies and Co-operative Societies but also to private limited companies, partnerships, joint Hindu families, and sole proprietorship concerns. The Corporation is however intended to supplement the activities of the existing lending agencies and not to displace them or make inroads into the field of Commercial Banks, nor can it possibly do away with the need of raising a substantial part of the capital finance required by industrial concerns through other sources.

Industrial concerns which are eligible for financial accommodation are those engaged in the following activities namely manufacture of goods, preservation of goods, processing of goods, mining, and generation or distribution of electricity or any other forms of power.

The Corporation will generally grant accommodation for acquisition of fixed assets—for renovation, expansion or modernization but may also give loans for working capital in special cases. Loans will also be given for the development of new concerns. While the Corporation is set up to provide medium and long term credit to industrial undertakings, it would also provide working capital only in those cases where the industrial concerns are unable to obtain finance from commercial banks or other sources and the Corporation is satisfied in the matter, provided that uneconomic units shall not be given any fresh lease of life by the grant of loans for working capital by the Corporation.

The Corporation is authorized by its Act to make advances on the security of the fixed assets of the concern viz. land, building, plant and machinery. Loans will not ordinarily be given in excess of 50 per cent of the net value of the assets mortgaged and the assistance will in no case exceed Rs. 10 lakhs. A personal guarantee of proprietors, partners, managing agents or directors where there are no Managing Agents or Managing Directors as the case may be, is required in addition to the security in the form of fixed assets with a view to safeguarding the interests of the Corporation.

The rate of interest will be six per cent per annum with half-yearly rests.

The period of loan will be decided on the merits of each case, but will not ordinarily exceed 10 to 12 years though the maximum period upto which loans can be granted has been fixed at 20 years. The principal amount of loan will be repayable by instalments which would be determined according to the circumstances of each case.

The assets offered in mortgage to the Corporation should be insured by the borrowing concern upto their full value with insurance companies approved by the Corporation.

The authorized share capital of the Corporation is Rs. 2 crores divided into two lakh fully paid shares of the face value of Rs. 100 each, out of which one lakh fully paid shares of the value of Rupees one crore are issued in the first instance. A dividend of 3½ per cent per annum on the share capital of the Corporation has been guaranteed by the former Madhya Bharat Government by their notification dated 18th July 1955.

The Corporation received 47 completed loan applications till 31st March 1958. The Board sanctioned advances to 20 industrial concerns for Rs. 71,90,000 and rejected 12 cases for Rs. 22,79,000. Six applications for Rs. 9,90,000 were withdrawn by the applicants. Nine applications for Rs. 16,05,000 were under consideration as on 31st March 1958.

Board of Directors:

D. P. Mandelia (Chairman), Secretary, Finance Dept., M.P. (B. L. Pandey, I.A.S.), Secretary, Commerce and Industry Dept., M.P. (P. D. Chatterjee, I.A.S.), Nominée of the Reserve Bank (O. R. There are proposals for reorganising the Local Administration. The major proposals in this regard are 1) substitution of District Boards by Unions of Panchayats; 2) each village to have a Panchayat; 3) transfer of powers of District Boards to Panchayat Unions; 4) extension of tenure of panchayats and municipalities from three to five years.

While the panchayat unions are in formation the District Boards will be administered by collectors who will be called Special Officers for this purpose.

Tamil has been introduced as official language in many Government Offices in the State from January 1, 1956, in pursuance of State Official Languages Act, passed by the last Assembly in December 1956, calling for the progressive introduction of Tamil as State's official language.

About 90 units of the several State Government departments in the city have switched over to Tamil for correspondence internally and with the public.

These include 17 units of the Electricity Department, three of the Food Production Department, six of the Public Works Department, and a few of the Revenue and Education Departments.

One thousand nine hundred and twenty-two Government offices in the mofussil have also started implementing this change-over from January 14.

INDUSTRIES

Chief Industries in this State are Textiles, General and Electrical Engineering, Sugar, Cement, Tobacco including bidis and cigar manufacture, bricks and tiles, tanning, glassware, chemicals, bicycles, and manufacture of utensils.

There were 114 cotton spinning and weaving mills at the end of 1957 (70 mills in Coimbatore District including the one newly licensed; 18 in Madurai District, 7 in Tiruchirappalli District and 10 in Tirunelveli District). One mill in Madras City is one of the biggest in the country employing 13,727 workers. Another large mill in the State is in Madurai, which employs 12,341 workers. The largest employer of labour in the State is the Textile Industry.

The production of yarn for sale for civil consumption during the period January to June 1957 (six months) in the State was 109,157,000 lbs. or 2.73 lakh bales (bale of 400 lbs.).

Sugar:—There are five sugar factories in the State including the newly installed one at Tiruvavur, Tanjore District, and the installed capacity of these factories at the end of 1957 was 7,620 tons of cane per day.

Cement:—There are three cement factories in the State. The installed capacity of these factories at the end of 1957 was 7,24,820 tons.

Cycles:—There are two bicycle factories in the State. The Factory at Ambathur near Madras with an installed capacity of 2 lakh bicycles a year is one of the four biggest factories in the country.

Matches:—There are nearly 100 match factories using power and also not using power. The number of workers employed in the 23 power factories in 1957 was about 10,200. The production of matches in these factories during that year was 10.8 million gross boxes.

Tanneries:—There are nearly 300 tanneries in the State and most of them are non-power tanneries. The number of persons employed in the tannery using power in 1957 was 653. Value of exports of tanned hides and skins to overseas markets in 1956-57 was Rs. 24.21 crores.

Magnetite, bauxite and iron ores occur in Salem District. The Government are exploring the possibilities of setting up an iron and steel plant with Salem iron ore and South Arcot lignite and also an aluminium extraction plant. The following are some of the important minerals with their output during 1955 as shown within brackets: Limestone (8,73,376 tons), China Clay (4,348 tons), Gypsum (51,022 tons), Magnetite (67,509 tons) and Bauxite (2,919 tons).

There is an Industrial Investment Corporation in Madras.

Main cottage industries: metals, leather goods manufacture, silk worms rearing, brass and bronze metal ware, conch shell.

A dozen major industries were either being started afresh or expanded in the State in 1957-58. The State has been assured of an aluminium plant with a capacity of 10,000 tons to be located at Mettur in Salem District. The National Industrial Development Corporation was expected to set up an iron smelting plant in Salem utilising local ore. A new paper mill has been licensed at Papanasam. A rayon pulp plant using eucalyptus and wattle, grown in the Nilgiris, was likely to be started at Bhavanisagar. A new cement factory at Ramanathapuram and a rubber tyre factory at Ambathur had been licensed. The erection of the new caustic soda plant at Tirunelveli was progressing and the capacity of the existing one at Mettur was being expanded. The new plant at Asadi for the manufacture of steel tubes commenced production early in 1957. Many new sugar factories were being organised. Work on the R. 4. crore Government of India printing press located halfway between Coimbatore and Mettupalayam was expected to be taken up early in 1958.

The Employees' State Insurance Corporation was inaugurated on 3rd January 1956. It covers 100 establishments with 36,000 workers of whom 8,000 are women.

* Population and area will change when the Pataskar Award takes effect.

AGRICULTURE

The figures are for 1955-56 and have been worked out for the reorganised Madras State :

Total area cultivated (gross area) : 10.96 mln. acres.

Total area irrigated (net area) : 5.3 mln. acres.

Net area sown and its percentage to the total area : 14.15 million acres and 44.3 per cent.

Classification of area.	Area in acres.	Percentage to total area.
Forests	4,476,000	14.0
Barren and unculturable land	2,350,000	7.3
Land put to non-agricultural uses	3,187,000	10.0
Cultivable waste	2,105,000	6.6
Permanent pastures and other grazing lands	983,000	2.9
Land under miscellaneous trees, crops and groves not included in the net area sown	570,000	1.8
Current fallows	2,594,000	8.1
Other fallow lands	1,638,000	5.0
Net area sown	14,153,000	44.3
Total area according to village papers	31,976,000	100.0

Livestock census of 1956 : Cattle 9,698,251; Buffaloes 2,040,944; Sheep 7,041,616; Goats 3,757,582; Horses and ponies 23,942; Mules 243.

Statement showing the area under important food crops and the yield in 1955-56.

	Area in acres	Yield in tons
Paddy	5,456,000	4,410,000
Millets	5,527,000	1,462,000
Pulses	1,099,000	114,000
Sugarcane	121,000	335,000*
Potatoes	21,000	66,000
Sweet Potatoes	14,000	54,000
Jaggery	42,000	16,000

The total area under paddy cultivation in the State for 1957-58 : 5,540,000 acres.

The principal commercial crops of the State in order of the acreage under cultivation in 1955-56 were as follows :

Crops	Area in acres	Yield in tons
Groundnut	1,793,000	827,000 (in shell)
Cotton	1,111,000	311,000 (Bales of 392 lb. lint).
Gingelly	360,000	44,000
Coconut	127,300	59,640
Tobacco	67,000	36,000 (cured leaf)
Pepper†	10,000	2,000
Coffee	45,000	2,546††

Total area under paddy cultivation in Kanyakumari District : 221,941 acres.

Yield in 1957 : 110,000 tons.

Bananas, mangoes and citrus are the most important fruit crops of the State. The average area for three years ended 1956-58 under bananas was 61,550 acres with an yield of 428,400 tons; under mangoes 59,400 acres yielding 200,800 tons; under citrus fruits 10,500 acres yielding 26,100 tons.

Total forest area : 4.48 mln. acres.

Total quantity of fish produced : 65,231 maunds.

ZAMINDARI ABOLITION

The Zamindari Abolition Act facilitated State purchase of the rights of the intermediaries under a deferred payment system. Up to December 1957 the Government had bought the rights of 4,788 estate-holders for Rs. 2.87 crores paid as a advance compensation and interim payment. The total compensation to be paid to zamindars will be Rs. 14 to Rs. 15 crores.

BHOODAN

The Bhoodan Campaign by Acharya Vinoba Bhave has gained momentum. The State Bhoodan Committee estimated that 50,000 acres had been given away. The Government introduced legislation for regularising and giving legal validity to the gifts, exempting gift deeds from court and stamp fees, constituting Bhoodan boards responsible for cultivation, and granting loans to these boards.

The Bill is before a select committee of the State Legislature. When approved it would facilitate the cultivation of bhoodan lands.

IRRIGATION

a) Total area irrigated : 5.3 million acres.
b) Total area which was expected to be irrigated at the end of the First Five-Year Plan : 5.03 million acres.

c) Total area which was expected to be irrigated when the projects under construction were completed : 5.34 million acres.

d) Anticipated extra food production at the end of the Second Plan : 63,580 tons of food grains and 18,270 tons of cotton.

e) Anticipated extra food production on completion of the projects : 123,105 tons of foodgrains and 14,700 tons of cotton.

f) Total investment at the moment : Rs. 2,604.16 lakhs.

Number of major projects: 9(excluding those in Ma'abar District which has merged into Kerala).

Name of Project	Date begun	Date for Completion	Estimated cost in Rs. lakhs	Area to be benefited (acres)
Lower Bhavani Reservoir Project (Coimbatore and Tirunelveli Districts)	January 1949	1955-56	951	207,000
Mettur Canals Scheme (Salem and Coimbatore Districts)	June 1949	March 1957	183.0 (revised)	45,000 (half wet and half dry)
Canary Delta Drainage Scheme	1945-46	1956-57	30	20,000 dry converted into wet.
Mammuthar Reservoir Project (Tirunelveli Dist.)	November 1950	December 1957§	505	83,000 existing.
Arandar Reservoir (Chingleput Dist.)	July 1951	December 1956	104	8,000 new 13,600 existing ayacut (gross).
Anuvavathi Reservoir (Coimbatore Dist.)	1954	September 1957	310	21,000 half wet and half dry. 32,000 existing.
Vaigai Reservoir (Madurai Dist.)	April 1954	December 1958	330	13,000 dry to wet. 7,000 existing.
Sathanur Reservoir Project (North and South Arcot)	October 1954	September 1957	289	16,700 dry to wet. 3,300 existing.
Krishnagiri Reservoir (Salem Dist.)	December 1954	September 1957	202	5,040 new 2,480 existing.

§ Commissioned in January 1958.

Extra production of foodgrains on completion of projects: Mettur Canals Scheme—10,000 tons rice; 7,500 tons millets; Manimuthar Project—20,000 tons rice; Araniar Reservoir Project—5,000 tons rice; Amaraavathi Reservoir Project—5,500 tons rice and 2,150 tons millet; Vaigai Reservoir Project—7,500 tons rice; Sathanur Reservoir Project—8,000 tons rice; Lower Bhavani Project—33,000 tons rice. Also 14,700 tons of cotton; Krishnagiri Reservoir—2,855 tons rice.

In the short term programme for 1954-55 consisting of small irrigation schemes called G.M.F. or intensive cultivation schemes, were included 14 continuation works on which Rs. 2,78,718 were spent during 1954-55 to benefit to the extent of 5,940 acres of new and 17,518 acres of old ayacut; under the Tank Improvement Scheme there were 64 continuation works on which Rs. 1,99,107 were spent during the period to benefit an extra 1,704 acres. The special minor irrigation projects consisted of 99 continuation works and 101 new works. A sum of Rs. 20,64,450 was spent on the special minor irrigation works, the area to be benefited being 10,789 acres (new) and 48,329 acres (existing). Ayacut particulars relating to special minor irrigation programme are only approximate.

In the programme for 1955-56 under Intensive Cultivation (Grow More Food) Schemes there was one continuation work. The Tank Improvement Schemes consisted of 14 continuation works and the Special Minor Irrigation Programme consisted of 219 continuation works and 381 new works.

MINOR IRRIGATION

Name of the Scheme	No. of works	Programmed expenditure in lakhs	Actual expenditure in lakhs	Area to be benefited (acres)
Intensive Cultivation (Grow More Food) Scheme	1 (Continuation work)	0.30	..	361
Tank Improvement Schemes ..	14 (-do.-)	0.14	0.10	2,960
Special Minor Irrigation Programme works.	219 (-do.-) 381 New works }	54.68	36.06	*

* 219 continuation and 381 new works were taken up for execution. A sum of Rs. 36.06 lakhs has been spent. Against 600 schemes shown, 102 works were completed by 31st March 1956. By the completion of these works, 30,14,007 acres of existing and 1,728.57 acres of new ayacut have been irrigated with an additional yield of 5,586.85 tons.

Special Minor Irrigation Programme works numbering 381 and continuation works numbering 219 new works have now been completed and an additional production of 15 per cent in paddy and 3 per cent in millet has been recorded. Programmed expenditure: Rs. 50.27 lakhs.

ELECTRIC POWER

Installed capacity (1955-56): 256,700 kW.

First Five Year Plan: The period was confined to construction of a new Power House at Moyar and extensions to the existing power stations at Pykara, Papanasam, Madurai and Madras. The installed generating capacity increased by nearly 65 per cent from 156,000 kW to 256,700 kW. The full Five Year Plan target of 110,200 kW was realised even during the fourth year of the Plan. The aggregate power demand increased from 130,000 kW to 208,000 kW and the units generated from 630 millions to 1,055 millions. About 3,000 miles of H.T. lines and 4,500 miles of L.T. lines were added to the grid during this period. Over 1,800 villages and towns were electrified and 18,000 pumpsets connected up for supply during the Plan period. Out of the allotment of Rs. 30.86 crores, a sum of Rs. 30.68 crores was spent to achieve these targets.

With the completion of the schemes in the First Plan, Madras State ranks third in India in generation and utilisation of power. Bombay and West Bengal leading; in respect of utilisation of power for irrigation purposes, Madras stands first by way of number of consumers, consumption and connected load. In the matter of hydro-electric output, Madras is second only to Bombay. While the bulk of the power in Bombay and West Bengal is consumed in big industries and urban loads, Madras has built up an electricity grid extending to almost all the districts and rural areas. In fact, Madras leads the rest of India in rural electrification with over 5,000 villages taking electricity supply by the end of 1956-57.

Power Grid: The grid comprises four hydro-electric Power Houses at Pykara, Moyar, Mettur, Papanasam and two Thermal Power Houses at Madras and Madurai with the total installed capacity of 2,56,500 kW, 9,065 miles of high tension transmission lines of voltages varying from 11,000 to 1,10,100, 11,006 miles of low tension distribution lines and 49 EHT and 59 HT sub-stations and 5,286 distribution stations.

In 1956-57, this grid served electricity to 459 lakhs of consumers, about 80 per cent of them served directly by the Board and the rest served through 5 municipal licensees and 8 private company licensees.

The peak demand met totalled 2,33,800 kW. Power generated was 1,135 million units in 1956-57 out of which about 75 per cent was from water power and the balance from coal. The entire power output in the State is by the Electricity Board.

The total capital investment to the end of 1956-57 is Rs. 65.90 crores and the gross revenue earned during 1956-57 was Rs. 8.13 crores.

The Mettur Dam is 176 feet high and can impose a total of 99,500 m.c. ft. of water mainly for irrigation purposes. Part of this water is utilised for the generation of hydro-electric power. Power is generated at 11,000 volts, 50 cycles, 3 phase and stepped upto 110,000 volts for transmission to various load centres.

At Erode the Mettur System is linked with the Pykara network. Power is transmitted to Singarapet in the north and Erode in the south (a total of 100 miles) taking off from the power station.

Second Five Year Plan: The power schemes for the Madras State included in the Second Five Year Plan are estimated to cost Rs. 53.25 crores. This period will be confined to the construction of 3 new power plants, two at Kundah and one at Periyar and extensions to the existing thermal station at Madras. With the completion of these schemes, the installed capacity will be more than doubled. It is also proposed to erect about 8,200 miles of Extra High Tension and 8,000 miles of Low Tension lines during the period to extend supply to about 1,000 villages and 10,000 pumpsets per annum.

Periyar Hydro-Electric Scheme: The Periyar Hydro-Electric Scheme, estimated to cost Rs. 10.09 crores, has been taken in hand and will add 105,000 kW of installed capacity. The first unit was expected to be commissioned by June 1958 and the entire scheme by 1958-59.

Madras Plant Extension: Erection of the two Nos. 150,000 lb. s/hr. boilers and one No. 30,000 kW, turbo-set was expected to go into commercial operation by March 1958.

Kundah Hydro-Electric Scheme: Preliminary works in respect of Kundah Hydro Electric Scheme, the sixth and the biggest Hydro Electric Scheme so far undertaken by the Madras Government were in progress. The scheme is estimated to cost Rs. 35.44 crores and when the initial stage is completed in 1961, it will add 180,000 kW to the Grid in two plants.

This scheme is getting aid under the Colombo Plan from the Canadian Government to the tune of 2.5 million dollars by way of machinery and materials and is programmed for completion by 1960-61.

TRANSPORT

Total mileage of roads as on 31st March 1957—31,822 miles.

Different classes of roads and the mileage of each class: National Highways (1,142 miles); State Highways (1,744 miles); Major District Roads (9,310 miles); Other District Roads (5,425 miles); Village Roads (10,326 miles); Public Works Department Roads (888 miles); Municipal Roads (2,987 miles).

Length of roads newly formed during 1957-58 not classified under the above categories and not included—24 miles.

Types of roads and their mileage: Cement Concrete surfacing (424 miles); Black Top surfacing (5,977 miles); Metalled roads (13,131 miles); Unmetalled roads (10,364 miles).

Links of National Highways within town having a population of 20,000 are maintained entirely from State Funds.

An expenditure of Rs. 49,84,826 was incurred during the year 1956-57 on Road Development Schemes under the Post-War Road Development Programme which was later on continued in the First Five-Year Plan. The sum of Rs. 20,31,894 and Rs. 16,38,127 were incurred for the development of West Coast Roads and for development of Economic and Inter-State Importance Roads respectively during the year 1955-56 from the Union Funds. A sum of Rs. 78,706 was also incurred on Tools and Plant—New Supplies—under the schemes included in the First Five-Year Plan in respect of 1955-56.

The Planning Commission allotted a sum of Rs. 3.58 crores for the First Five Year Plan period in this State for development of roads other than National Highways including the roads under the control of District Boards. A total sum of Rs. 424.57 lakhs was incurred during the First Five-Year Plan period (1951-52 to 1955-56) for the development of roads other than National Highways including the roads under the control of District Boards.

The Bus Transport in Madras City is Government owned. The transfer to public ownership was carried out in stages starting in October 1947 and ending in June 1948.

Number of routes served by the Department: 101 out of which 63 are regular routes and the rest peak-hour routes operated during peak hours only.

Total daily mileage: 40,823.

Number of suburban services: 8

Number of motorail services: 8 (district services)

The motorail services (District services) operate from Madras to Kanchipuram, Madurai to Tirupathi and Madurai to Venkatagiri.

The total number of buses operated by the Government: 481.

CO-OPERATION

Number of co-operative societies on 30th June 1957: 16,228. Members: 27.24 lakhs.

Share capital: Rs. 874.22 lakhs.

Working capital: Rs. 64.87 crores.

Total deposits held by the State Co-operative Bank on 30th June 1957: Rs. 398.85 lakhs.

The State Co-operative Bank has continued to guide, supervise and control the financial policy of the Central Banks.

Total loans issued to Central Banks in 1956-57: Rs. 327.72 lakhs.

Working capital of the co-operative central banks: Rs. 12.28 crores.

Their net profits: Rs. 9.29 lakhs.

Co-operation played an increasingly useful role in raising food production and the manufacture of handloom goods and cottage industrial products.

Number of milk supply unions on 30th June 1957: 22.

Number of members on their rolls: 3,287 including 356 affiliated societies with a paid-up share capital of Rs. 8.84 lakhs.

Number of milk supply societies on 30th June 1956: 576. Of these 231 functioned independently and the rest served as feeder societies to the unions.

Number of members on their rolls: 70,096.

Paid-up share capital: Rs. 9.8 lakhs.

Value of milk and milk products sold by these institutions during 1956-56: Rs. 139.76 lakhs.

Number of primary co-operative stores on 30th June 1956: 687 with 346 branches and sales depots and 14 co-operative wholesale stores.

The sales turnover of both primary and wholesale stores: Rs. 871.67 lakhs.

Purchases and sale of primary stores: Rs. 616.38 lakhs and Rs. 656.25 lakhs respectively.

Purchases and sale of co-operative wholesale stores: Rs. 209.81 lakhs and Rs. 215.42 lakhs respectively.

Important Features of the Working of the Societies: The problems facing the individual stores were discussed at the conference of primaries held in each district and steps were taken to weed out the stores which had no future either by liquidating them or by reorganising them into other types of societies or by converting them into branches of the co-operative wholesale stores. Due to this consolidation and reorganisation process, there was a fall in the number of stores societies. They handled food stuffs, groceries and cloth both handloom and mill-made. They have been utilised as fair price shops for the distribution of Government rice under the price stabilisation scheme. A rebate of 0-1-6 per rupee was allowed to them on the sale of handloom goods from the Cess Fund.

Central Land Mortgage Bank Ltd.: Amount of loans issued by the Bank in 1956-57: Rs. 42.84 lakhs.

The Bank has floated its 50th series of debentures to the value of Rs. 40 lakhs bearing interest at 4½ per cent per annum and redeemable in 20 years, the issue price being Rs. 99.8 per cent.

Government's guarantee for these debentures: Rs. 7 crores.

Value of debentures in circulation on 30th June 1957: Rs. 433.24 lakhs.

Total amount of loans outstanding at the end of June 1956: Rs. 848.97 lakhs.

Co-operative Housing Societies: Number of co-operative housing societies: 175; Share capital: Rs. 110.20 lakhs; Working capital: Rs. 408.47 lakhs; Number of houses built: 6,152.

The urban housing scheme was introduced in the middle of 1947. Accordingly housing committees were formed in about 200 urban centres. By the end of June 1955, there were 175 housing societies of all types in the State, functioning in the urban areas of the State.

Number of various types of societies as on 31st June 1955: 175 composed of 124 ordinary building societies, 38 house-building societies, 11 house construction societies, one township and one tenancy society.

Total number of members on their rolls with the paid-up share capital within brackets: 16,421 (Rs. 110.2 lakhs).

Total number of houses constructed by all types of housing societies with the aid of State loans till the end of June 1957: 8,282.

Number of houses under different stages of construction at the end of December 1957: 1,224.

EDUCATION

In the budget estimate for 1956-57, a provision of Rs. 12.2 crores was made for education.

The Madras and the Annamalai Universities are the two Universities in the State.

The State-wide adoption of basic education, i.e. craft-centred education at the primary stage has been accepted as the aim of the Government. Accordingly, the existing elementary schools and ordinary training schools are being converted into the basic type. Every year, new basic schools and basic training schools are opened.

Under the unemployment Relief Scheme, the Central Government sanctioned 3,076 teachers for this State, for opening schools in school-less centres, with a population of 500 and above, for appointing additional teachers in single teacher schools opened already, and for appointing teachers in the higher elementary standards in the existing schools. About 1,703 teachers out of the above were allotted for opening new single teacher schools, and about 1,533 schools were opened upto 31st March 1956. A grant of Rs. 12 lakhs was received from the Central Government during the year towards the expenditure on teachers employed under the Scheme. These schools were continued in 1957, but the Central grant for the year was only Rs. 7.5 lakhs.

Ninety-five schools were equipped during the year with 16 m.m. projectors, and 221 schools with 35 m.m. filmstrip projectors, raising the total number of Secondary Schools so equipped at the end of the year to 471 and 395 respectively. 22 more schools were equipped with Radio receiving sets, the total number of Secondary Schools so equipped at the end of the year being 626.

Number of institutions and students in the State as on 31st March 1956 are given below. The first figure against each item indicates the number of institutions and within brackets the first figure indicates the total number of students, followed by the number of boys and girls:

Universities: 2 (2,786—Boys 2,555; Girls 231).

Colleges for general education: 45 (36,894—Boys 35,617; Girls 1,277).

Professional Colleges:

Education (Teachers' Training): 12 (1,050—Men 987; Women 63).

Engineering: 5 (1,797—1,797).

Medicine: 7 (3,377—Boys 2,708; Girls 669).

Veterinary: 1 (443—Boys 440; Girls 3).

Agriculture: 1 (346—Boys 338; Girls 8).

Forestry: 1 (98—Boys 98).

Law: 1 (1,258—Boys 1,239; Girls 19).

Physical Education: 1 (330—Boys 246; Girls 84).

Total number of professional colleges and total number of students: 29 (8,699—Boys 7,853; Girls 846).

Colleges for Special Education:

Music: 2 (113—Boys 18; Girls 95).

Oriental Studies: 22 (1,390—Boys 1,284; Girls 106).

Social Education: 1 (39—Boys 28; Girls 11).

Total number of Colleges for special education with total number of students within brackets: 25 (1,542—Boys 1,330; Girls 212).

Schools for General Education:

High Schools: 774 (4,43,475—Boys 3,93,045; Girls 50,430).

Middle Schools: 89 (19,047—Boys 15,639; Girls 3,408).

WHITE PAPER ON EDUCATION

The Government have passed orders accepting certain recommendations of the State Legislature Committee which considered the "White Paper on Education" in so far as they relate to the integrated 7-year Primary education course, the four-year Secondary School Course of 4000-hour duration, the limited scope of compulsory enrolment, viz., the first five years of schooling, to be achieved within 10 years and certain other matters, for implementation from the academic year commencing in June 1958. Government have agreed that by 1965-66 in every town and village in the State the element of compulsion in the elementary stage of education will be enforced. One other recommendation accepted by Government relates to the necessity for sufficient powers for the Government to see that private managements are properly constituted.

COIMBATORE DISTRICT

Dist. Hqrs.: Coimbatore.

The Coimbatore District, next in importance to the City of Madras, has an area covering 6,024 square miles with a population of 3,154,296. It is one of the major districts in Tamil Nad with the Cauvery River as boundary on the east, Mysore and the Nilgiris on the north, Kerala on the west and south. The whole District lies on an undulating plain south of the Nilgiris with the Bhavani River as boundary for some length in the north. It is drained by three important tributaries of the Cauvery River—the Bhavani, Amravati and the Noyyal rivers. The Anamallais (elephant hills) which form part of the District in the south have large coffee and tea plantations. The finest teak in India is produced on these hills.

After the reorganization of States, much of the teak growing area has gone to Kerala State and so the Madras Government have begun teak growing in the Udhay valley on the western slopes of the Anamallais, a natural teak growing area of 4,500 acres adjoining Kerala State.

Coimbatore, the District Headquarters, is the largest industrial city in Madras State with 50 textile mills and over 55 spinning factories employing over 55,000 workers and is officially described as the 'Manchester of South India.' It is also the largest textile manufacturing centre in Madras State. There are also a number of iron foundries and a cement factory. A 22-lakh synthetic gem factory, the first of its kind in Asia, was opened in 1957. The factory which is an Indo-Swiss venture, hopes to meet the full demand for synthetic gems, which are now being imported, in a couple of years—producing in the first year alone gems valued at Rs. 20 lakhs.

The finishing part will be done at Tiruchirappalli by cottage industry groups.

An institute for higher research in agriculture is to be set up in Coimbatore at a cost of Rs. 40 lakhs in cooperation with the U.S. Technical Cooperation Mission, the Rockefeller Foundation and the Tennessee University. It is to start working in July, 1958.

Cotton and millets are the chief agricultural produce of the District. Since textile production has reached the highest pitch, the present emphasis is on staple fibre. An up-to-date rayon factory will shortly be established in the private sector. The Lower Bhavani Project has been completed. In addition to bringing under irrigation an extra 207,000 acres of dry crop, it is also useful in assisting the Mettur Reservoir, whenever there is low water. The water thus conserved at Mettur is used for power generation. The output of cotton in Madras State will increase by 15,000 tons under this project in addition to producing 130,000 tons of food crops.

Another project the Amaravathi Reservoir Project, to benefit the scarcity taluks of Dharampuram and Udumalpet, to assist old irrigation on 32,000 acres and to benefit a new area of 21,000 acres (3,000 of sugarcane and 18,000 of dry crops) at a cost of Rs. 310 lakhs was pressed into service at the end of 1957. This project will yield 7,700 tons of additional foodgrains. The total value of annual production is Rs. 50 lakhs including Rs. 30 lakhs worth sugarcane.

Taluks with headquarters within brackets: Coimbatore Taluk (Coimbatore); Avanashi Taluk (Avanashi); Palladam Taluk (Tiruppur); Bhavani Taluk (Bhavani); Dharampuram Taluk (Dharampuram); Erode Taluk (Erode); Gobichettipalayam Taluk (Gobichettipalayam); Udumalpet Taluk (Udumalpet).

MANIPUR

Chief Commissioner, Jagat Mohan Nath Raina.
 Area : 8,628 sq. miles; Population : 577,635;
 Density : 67; Capital : Imphal; Strength of Territorial Council : 32 including two nominated members.

Names of Districts with population : Manipur
 Plains District 4,02,267; Hills District 1,75,368.

Names of Districts with names of taluks and their population within brackets : Manipur Plains District (Sadar 2,70,962; Thonhai 1,23,754;
 Jiribum 7,541); Hills District (Mao 28,445;
 Churachandpur 42,695; Tengnoupal 24,049;
 Ukhrul 42,491; Tamenlong 37,688).

Manipur bounded on the east and south by Burma and on the north and west by the Naga Hills and the Cachar District of Assam, is highly strategic territory on the eastern frontier of India. Two land routes from Burma pass through its territory. It was formally proclaimed a Chief Commissioner's Province of the Indian Union on the 15th of October, 1949, and became a Part C State when the Constitution of 1950 came into force. Following the reorganization of States in India, Manipur became a Union Territory from 1st November 1956 and it is now administered as a Union Territory under the provisions of the Union Territories Act, 1956.

In the Territorial Council formed after the second general elections there are 16 Congress members, Communists 4, Socialist Party 6 and Independents 6.

The Congress is the largest single party.
 The Territory has a population of 577,635
 (1961 census) and an area of 8,628 square miles.
 The density of the population is 67. Seven hundred square miles of the Territory form a central valley, 2,600 feet above sea-level, which is shut in on all sides by extensive hill tracts at places over 6,000 feet, covering the rest of the Territory. The climate varies from temperate in the valley to cold in the high hills. The rainfall on the average is 65 inches in the year.

The main population is "Meiteis" inhabiting the valley with some 40 tribes and sub-tribes known by the generic names of Nagas and Kukis.
 Though a number of different dialects are spoken in the Territory, Manipuri and English are the official languages. The people are carefree and healthy, with a passion for religious festivals involving community dances in which both sexes join.

There are about 1,102 refugee families in Manipur.

The soil is fertile. Rice is the principal crop of which Manipur exports a fair quantity.

The area under cultivation is about 2 lakh acres.

Handloom weaving is a popular industry throughout the Territory and Manipuri cloth of various picturesque and indigenous designs, is in demand throughout India and even outside.

There are 2 colleges, 42 high schools, 125 M.E. schools, 941 primary and upper primary schools.
 The total number of students for the year ending 31st December 1967 was 1,90,976.

There are 17 hospitals and 46 dispensaries, six touring and mobile dispensaries, and four maternity and child welfare centres.

The Budget estimates for Income and Expenditure for 1968-69 were Rs. 25,49,560 and Rs.
 1,02,19,157 respectively. Deficit : Rs. 76,69,577.

The Planning Commission has tentatively accepted a ceiling of Rs. 6.25 crores for various development schemes under the Second Five-Year Plan. The schemes are connected with agriculture and rural development, N.E.S. and Community Projects, irrigation and power industry, transport, education, medical and public health, housing, labour and labour welfare, welfare of backward classes and Scheduled Tribes. The development programme have been taken up in right earnest.

A separate scheme for water supply for Imphal Town at an estimated cost of Rs.
 28,36,000 has been taken up.

All educational institutions in Manipur up to high schools, excepting two Government High schools in Imphal, the basic training institution, one middle school and one Montessori school, were expected to be transferred to the Manipur Territorial Council with effect from January 1, 1958. All hospitals and dispensaries, excepting the civil hospital in Imphal and roads with a total of 621 miles including maintenance of bridges, paths, excepting national highway and State highways, were also expected to be transferred from January 1 to the Territorial

LAND REFORMS

Mysore is yet to evolve a uniform law to bring about significant land reforms in all parts of the State. The new State of Mysore includes five different areas where five different tenancy laws were in operation before the reorganization in November 1956. A Committee headed by Mr. B. D. Jatti has submitted a report after studying the existing tenancy laws. This is likely to form the basis of uniform land reforms in the whole of Mysore State.

There are 24.6 lakh holdings in the State comprising 267.8 lakh acres. The average size of a holding is 10.87 acres. The largest number of holdings is the size-group of 2.5 to 5 acres. Of the total area of 267.8 lakh acres, 206.4 lakh acres are under personal cultivation. About 61.4 lakh acres (or 22.95 per cent) are cultivated by tenants. The percentage of land under tenant cultivation varies from district to district. Hassan District has the smallest proportion (2.84 per cent) under tenant cultivation and South Kanara the highest (65.86 per cent).

According to the 1951 census, 71.2 per cent of the total population are dependent on agriculture in the areas now comprising Mysore State. About 47.8 per cent of them are principally owner-cultivators, 9.3 per cent agricultural labourers and 3.4 per cent rent receivers. The report says that only 28 per cent of the people working on land are landless and the owner-cultivators are more than 13 times those who rent the land.

The Committee has recommended that the ceiling on existing holdings under personal cultivation may be four and a half family holdings (a family holding being defined as a unit of land yielding a net income of Rs. 1,200 per annum) as against three family holdings for future acquisition. The recommendations of the Committee were before the Legislature.

FOREST

Forest area : 12,000 sq. miles.

The forests are rich in teak, rosewood, vent oak, tumkino, white cedar, ebony, etc. Rich forest areas hitherto untapped are also present with bamboos and soft wood species, potential sources of raw material for paper, rayon, plywood and matchwood industries. The revenue of the forest department is about Rs. 3.50 crores per annum.

IRRIGATION

The total area irrigated is 1,699,869 acres. Of this the area irrigated by Government canals is 358,243 acres, by private canals 16,623 acres, by tanks 774,753 acres, by wells 295,604 acres, other sources 254,646 acres.

Large Irrigation Projects in Execution

¹ Water was allowed for an area of 38,500 acres during 1956-57 of which 25,000 acres were irrigated. ² Water made available for 57,601 acres of which 25,000 acres were actually irrigated during 1956-57. ³ Total extent of area to be irrigated is 1.15 lakh acres of which 7,400 acres are in Mysore State limits. ⁴ Works to an extent of irrigating 17,894 acres has been completed. An area of 6,145 acres has been developed as per crop planning. Estimated output: Rice 38,397 tons; Sugarcane 91,777 tons; other crops 21,132 tons. ⁵ Water was allowed to irrigate 19,155 acres during 1956-57, but the actual area brought under cultivation is 14,000 acres. ⁶ Water made available for irrigating 2,000 acres during the irrigation season of 1955-56. ⁷ The canal is proposed to be extended at a cost of Rs. 21.50 lakhs to irrigate an additional area of 8,000 acres. ⁸ Area served with irrigation facilities for 76,000 acres upto end of March 1957, but the actual area irrigated is 15,510 acres. ⁹ Wheat sown in Paddy.

Progress of some schemes:

Tunga, estimated to cost Rs. 2.31 crores and irrigate 22,000 acres. Upto 1956-57, Rs. 198.17 lakhs were spent on it.

Nugu, estimated to cost Rs. 2.44 crores and irrigate 20,000 acres. Upto Dec. 1956-57, Rs. 241.69 lakhs were spent on it.

Ambilgola, estimated to cost Rs. 56 lakhs and irrigate 7,000 acres. Upto 1956-57, Rs. 21.35 lakhs were spent on it.

Ghataprabha Left Bank Canal, estimated to cost Rs. 5.45 crores and irrigate 1.2 lakh acres. Upto Dec. 1956-57, Rs. 1.75 crores were spent on it. The Districts to benefit are Belgaum and Bijapur.

Tungabhadra Project estimated to cost about Rs. 43 crores in all.

The Tungabhadra Dam is situated on the river Tungabhadra at Malapuram, three miles from Hospet in the Bellary District of Mysore State. This is a joint project of the Governments of Andhra and Mysore.

The Bhadra or Lakkavalli, estimated to cost about Rs. 25 crores, is designed to impound 61,250 million cubic feet of water on the River Bhadra, irrigating 2,34,200 acres of land in Mysore State, and generating 25,000 Kw. firm power, installed capacity being 40,400 Kw. The Project was started in 1947 and by June 1957, about Rs. 9 crores had been spent. The dam has risen to nearly half the total height and irrigation was started on the left bank canal during 1956-57.

CO-OPERATION

The number of different types of co-operative societies in Mysore State is given below:

Agricultural Co-operative Societies 5,650; Marketing 135; Non-Agricultural 1,105; Farming 30; Grain Banks 1,163; Harijan and Depressed Class 202; Weavers 370; Sericultural 11; Silk Handloom Weavers 1; Industrial 830; Co-operative Printing Works 1; Rural Industrial Co-operative Financing Bank 1; Co-operative Apex Banks 8; Co-operative Land Mortgage Banks 7; Cotton Handloom Weavers 1; District Central 10; House Building 183; Co-operative Institute 1; Artisans 33; Consumers 680; Multipurpose 1,662; Students 35; Social Services 9; Ladies 40; Producers 32; Federal 169; General 24; Other kinds 525; Population served by each co-operative society 1,526.

The total working capital in the former Mysore State was Rs. 1,348 lakhs in 1955-56.

In Bombay Karnatak the share capital was about Rs. 162 lakhs and the working capital Rs. 1,092 lakhs (1954-55).

In Hyderabad Karnatak the total working capital was about Rs. 128 lakhs (1954-55).

ELECTRICAL POWER

Installed capacity (1957-58) 130,164 Kw., (1956-57) 141,510 Kw.

Total capacity of power plant installed in State: Hydel 179,200 Kw., Diesel 5,310 Kw. Total effective capacity: Hydel 142,000 Kw., Diesel 4,300 Kw.

Total production: 1956-57: 829,512 mln. Kws. (Hydel 827,749 mln. Kws., Thermal 1,763 mln. Kws.); 1957-58 (6 months): 452,844 mln. Kws. (Hydel 450,533 mln. Kws., Thermal 2,321 mln. Kws.)

Number of units supplied to industry: 1956-57: 498,857 mins.; 1957-58 (6 months): 268,7 mins. (Estimates).

Number of units supplied for irrigation: 1956-57: 16,618 mins.; 1957-58 (6 months): 9,000 mins. (Estimates).

Units supplied for domestic purposes: 1956-57: 52,05 mins.; 1957-58 (6 months): 27,56 mins. (Estimates).

The following are some of the other diesel stations with the installed capacity in Kw.: Sundur 78 Kw., Udipi 110 Kw., Karkala 32 Kw.; Mangalore 1 284 Kw.

* Right Bank (Andhra and Mysore) Dam Site and canal stations. Mysore share 1.5th (only two units of 9,000 Kw. now in service).

Sharavathi Hydro-Electric Project. It is the largest hydro-electric project of the country, located at 15 miles from Talaguppa Rly. station near Jog, within easy distance of load centres and benefiting Mysore State and ultimately parts of the neighbouring States of Bombay, Andhra, Madras and Kerala. Electricity produced in this Rs. 40 crore scheme will be the cheapest in India. The foundation was laid by Mr. S. K. Patil, former Union Minister for Irrigation and Power on February 5, 1958. When the ten units that are proposed to be installed go into operation in four or five years the Sharavathi hydro station will produce 80,000 Kws. of power.

LARGE-SCALE INDUSTRIES

Main large-scale industries in the State with location: Textiles (Bangalore, Davangere, Bellary, Mysore, Hubli, Gadag, Gokak, Bangalore, (Bangalore, Harihar), Mineral and Metal (Bangalore, Bhadravati, Bellary, K. J. Kar, Shikar, Food, drink and tobacco (Bangalore), Chemicals, dyes, etc. (Bangalore, Mysore), Paper and printing (Bhadravati, Nanjangud and Bangalore); Process relating to wood, stone and glass (all over the State); Process connected with hides and skins (Bangalore), Gums and resins (Davangere and surrounding areas), Fisheries (Mangalore, Karwar).

Industries owned by State Government: The Central Industrial Workshop, Bangalore; The Mysore Iron and Steel Works, Bhadravati; The Government Soap Works, Bangalore; The Mysore Silk Weaving Factory, Mysore; The Government Porcelain Factory, Bangalore; The Mysore Implements Factory, Hassan; The Government Electric Factory, Bangalore.

The erection of a new cast iron spun pipe plant in the Mysore Iron and Steel Works, Bhadravati was completed in October 1957 at a cost of Rs. 55 lakhs. It will enable the Mysore Iron and Steel Works to increase the production of iron needed for water supply schemes.

The erection of the plant marks the completion of the first stage of the development of the Mysore Iron and Steel Works under the Second Five-year Plan. The Government of India has provided Rs. 6 crores under the Plan for the development of the works.

Major industries owned by the Union Government located in Bangalore: The Hindustan Machine Tools Ltd.; Bharat Electronics Ltd.; The Hindustan Aircraft Ltd., Bangalore; The Indian Telephone Industries, Bangalore.

Government Aided Concerns: The Radio & Electrical Manufacturing Co., Bangalore; The Mysore Lamp Works, Bangalore; The Mysore Paper Mills, Bhadravati; The Mysore Sugar Company, Mandya and The Mysore Industrial & Testing Laboratory Ltd., Bangalore; The Mysore Spun Silk Mills, Channarayana, Bangalore; The Mysore Chemicals and Fertilisers, Belagavi; The Mysore Tobacco Co. curing centres at Mandya, Mysore, Kolar, The Mysore Stoneware Pipes and Potteries, Soladevanahalli, near Chikbanavar Railway Station; The Mysore Coffee Curing Works, Chikmagalur; The Mysore Chrome Tanning Co., Bangalore; The Mysore Lamp Works, Bangalore.

Besides, there are a number of private concerns representing various industries. They include The Bangalore Woollen, Cotton and Silk Mills, Bangalore. The Mysore Spinning and Manufacturing Co., Bangalore, Minerva Mills, Bangalore; Sri Krishnarajendra Mills, Mysore; Shree Shankara Textile Mills, Davangere; The Mysore Kirloskar Ltd., Harihar; Kirloskar Electric Co., Bangalore; The Mysore Machinery Manufacturers, Bangalore; Steel Construction Co., Bangalore.

(About 60 per cent of the Industries in the State is controlled by the Government.)

The main industries in Belgaum and Dharwar districts are textiles, paper and printing and processes relating to wood, stone and glass. The textile industry supports the largest number of workers. There are three textile mills in Dharwar and one in Belgaum.

In Gulbarga and Raichur districts, the major industries are (1) the Hyderabad Gold Mines Co. Ltd., (2) the Associated Cement Companies Ltd., Shahabad and (3) MSK Mills Ltd., Gulbarga (Textiles).

The cashewnut industry is one of the most important both in North and South Kanara. In South Kanara it gives employment to about 5,500 workers. South Kanara produces 2,890 tons of nuts. Besides, about 9,000 tons of cashewnuts are imported from Africa for processing in the local factories.

There are no large scale industries in Coorg except one coffee curing works, a tile factory and a few rice mills.

Figures are available for the output of certain chemicals for the whole State (figures in tons).

An estimate of annual production :

Nitric acid 10; sulphuric acid 3,890; alum 210; aluminium sulphate 657; ammonium sulphate 2,363; magnesium sulphate 152; copper sulphate 1,150; superphosphate 2,323; potash alum: 4.

Quantity of fine gold produced per annum: 1.94 lakh ounces. Value, Rs. 488 lakhs.

Quantity of fine silver produced per annum: 14,380 ounces. Value, Rs. 54,000.

LABOUR

The names of industries in the State with number of concerns and employees respectively within brackets for the year ended 31st March 1957: Food except beverage (239; 20,245); Tobacco (31; 6,371); Transport (41; 5,033); Textiles (306; 52,994); Metal products (14; 815); Machinery (43; 29,125); Beverage (6; 1,968); Printing, publishing and allied industries (43; 1,415); Leather and leather products (2; 48); Chemical and chemical products (17; 1,337); Wood, cork except furniture (19; 952); Rubber and rubber products (2; 793); Paper industry (1; 1,226); Electrical Supply and appliances (1; 28); Miscellaneous (119; 9,944).

Total number of concerns and employees respectively in registered factories (31st March 1957): 915; 1,32,294.

Provisions of the Minimum Wages Act, 1948 are in force in respect of agricultural labour in the following taluqs: Bangalore District (Ramanagara and Devanahalli taluqs); Mysore District (Gundlupet and Periyapatna taluqs); Mandya District (Malavalli and Srirangapatna taluqs); Hassan District (Holenarasipur and Belur taluqs); Chikmagalur District (Narasimharajapur and Kadur taluqs); Shimoga District (Sorab and Shikaripur taluqs and three of Sagar taluk); Talaguppa, Kasaba and Anandapuram (Community project areas); Chitaldrug District (Harihar and Chellakere taluqs); Tumkur District (Pavagada and Kunigal taluqs); Kolar District (Bagipalli and Srinivasapur taluqs); Bellary District (Bellary taluk).

In the integrated areas, minimum wages under the Act in respect of agriculture is in force in Raichur and Coorg districts only.

Minimum rates of wages under the Act have been fixed for the following scheduled employment in the merged areas noted below:

Hyderabad Area: Employment in rice, flour and dal mills, oil mills, bidi making, tanneries, stone breaking or crushing, road construction and building operations, agriculture.

Madras Area : Employment in woollen carpet making, flour mills and dal mills, tobacco manufactory (bidi making), plantations, oil mills, local authority, road construction and building operations, stone breaking and stone crushing, mica works, motor transport and tanneries.

Bombay Area : Employment in rice, flour and dal mills, bidi making, oil mills, local authority, stone breaking or crushing, road construction and building operations, public motor transport, tanneries and leather manufactory, printing press, salt pans and ginning and pressing.

Coorg Area : Employment in Coffee plantations, agriculture, public motor transport and cardamom plantations.

Number of tenements put up by employers in Mysore State upto 1957 in the respective divisions : Bangalore Division 2,690 ; Kolar Division (under Mines Housing Scheme) 10,936 ; Shimoga Division 3,061 ; Mysore Division 2,714 ; under Labour Housing Corporation, Mysore 1,291 ; Hubli Division 2,722 ; Mangalore 120 ; Coorg (Mercara) 68 ; Plantation Division 3,849 units ; Gulbarga Division 1,940.

Number of strikes and lockouts in 1954-55: 29.

Number of workers involved : 22,395.

Number of man days lost : 1,63,779.

Number of trade unions : 194 (1955-56) ; 336 (1956-57).

Total membership : 60,035 (1955-56).

Number of labour welfare centres : 10 (1953-54).

Factory labour which is covered by the Labour Housing Scheme totals about 3,200. The Scheme is not in operation in plantation areas.

HOUSING 1956 April-1958 June

Housing Schemes in the State : Subsidised Industrial Housing Scheme and Low Income Group Housing Scheme.

Housing Authority for both schemes : Mysore Housing Board, Bangalore.

Subsidised Industrial Housing Scheme :

Provision in the Second Five Year for housing : Rs. 85-92 lakhs.

Source from which finance is drawn : Loan and subsidy by the Government of India.

Different classes of houses built : Number of tenements constructed 3,252 (3,166 one-roomed and 86 two-roomed).

Number of tenements under construction : 300 (270 one-roomed and 30 two-roomed).

Cost of building house of each class : Single roomed Rs. 3,300 ; two-roomed Rs. 3,850.

Rent charged for each : Single-roomed Rs. 12-50 nP. per month ; two-roomed Rs. 14-50 nP. per month.

Financial help to private enterprises : Employers Loan 37½ per cent ; Subsidy 25 per cent. Co-operatives of industrial workers, Loan 50 per cent ; Subsidy 25 per cent.

Total number of houses built through this scheme by the Mysore Housing Board : 3,252.

Low Income Group Housing Scheme :

Source from which finance is drawn : Loan from the Government of India.

Maximum amount of loan admissible for construction of houses : Rs. 8,000 per house. Second Five Year Plan provision for low income group housing : Rs. 244-85 lakhs.

No. of houses constructed by the Mysore Housing Board 271 ; no. under construction 200.

No. of houses, constructed by Government Servants : 34.

No. of houses constructed by the City Improvement Trust Board, Mysore 97.

No. of houses constructed by co-operatives 519 ;

No. under construction 279.

No. of houses constructed by local bodies 48 ; no. under construction 122.

Financial help to private enterprises : Rs. 52-50 lakhs to housing societies upto 1956-57 ; Rs. 8-86 lakhs to local authority upto 1956-57.

SMALL-SCALE INDUSTRIES

Main cottage industries : Leather stitching and ornamental work, flaying, brass works, tannery and smithy, pottery, mat weaving, lacquerware, carpentry, basket-making, tile-making, hand-made paper, coir industry, rattan industry, sandalwood and ivory inlay works, toy-making, druggists, palm gur from Nira, agarbatti, glazing, etc.

More than 25,047 small-scale industrial units employ 61,232 people. The capital invested is Rs. 163-12 lakhs and the estimated gross value of production is Rs. 156-77 lakhs.

Sericulture : Area under mulberry 1-55 lakhs acres ; no. of families directly engaged 0-75 lakhs ; no. of families indirectly engaged 2-15 lakhs ; production of raw silk 19 lakh lbs. ; value Rs. 765 lakhs.

Silk looms : Handlooms 4,080 ; power looms 4,600.

Area under graft mulberry 250 acres.

Production of Seed cocoons : Mysore seed cocoons 52 crura ; Foreign seed cocoons : 635 lakhs.

No. of registered seed rears : Mysore 6,800 ; Foreign 625.

Silk Waste production : Improved 17 lakh lbs. ; Filature 1-15 lakh lb. ; Charaka 7-30 lakh lbs.

The former Bombay area being a cotton producing area, hand-spinning and weaving are a subsidiary occupation of the farming community. Almost every homestead produces some coarse yarn and cloth for domestic consumption. Sheep breeding is another industry, supporting the local woollen industry. The woollen blankets of Ranibennur are famous. In North and South Kanara, bee-keeping and bamboo work are among the most important indigenous industries. Coffee works are prominent in South Kanara and Coorg.

In the cotton growing tracts of Bijapur, Belgaum and Dharwar, the handloom industry is the main urban handicraft. Metal work and toy making industries are located in Belgaum and Gokak.

In the former Hyderabad area, agriculture is the mainstay. About three per cent of the population is engaged in cottage and small scale industries. By far the largest number of people are employed in cotton and woollen weaving, cement products and pottery, bee-keeping and basket-making industries. Tanning, silver inlay work, oil crushing, salt making, gur making, beedi and soap manufacture are other small scale industries in this area.

Chief minerals/location/quantity (annual average) : Gold (Kolar, 193,947 ounces), Iron Ore (Bhadrawati, 206,929 tons), Asbestos (Chikmagalur and Bangalore districts, 30 tons) ; Chromite (Mysore, Mandya and Shimoga districts, 9,993 tons) ; Manganese (Shimoga, Chitaldrug, Bellary and Tumkur districts, 3,751 tons) ; Mica (Mandya, Hassan, Mysore and Shimoga districts, 50 tons) ; Kyanite (Bangalore, Chikmagalur districts, 10,990 tons) ; Other minerals (Corundum, feldspar, kyanite, magnesite, copper, lead, antimony, lime-stones, soap-stones and ornamental stones found in various parts of the State).

Total number of men employed : About 94,000.

Number of men employed in each mineral industry : Gold (25,900) ; Other minerals (10,100).

Total value of mineral production in a year : About Rs. 7 crores.

In the merged areas there is gold in the Hatti and Kappat ranges and the Alnavar and Malaprabha basin. The other important minerals are iron, manganese, bauxite, copper, saltpetre, beryl, building and ornamental stones, lime-stones, asbestos, chromite and sulphur.

PUBLIC HEALTH

POTENTIALITIES

The area constituting old Mysore is industrially advanced as can be seen from the number of small-scale and big industries located there. The region outside old Mysore has vast economic resources, though no scientific survey has been conducted to assess these yet. In point of variety and abundance, some of its resources, more particularly its food and commercial crops, are among the best in the country.

The Kannada-speaking areas of former Bombay, Madras, Hyderabad and Coorg are not very thickly populated. The density of population being slightly below the all-India average and the food resources being adequate, there is no undue pressure on land as in other parts of the country, although dependence on agriculture is almost of the same degree as elsewhere.

Absence of electric power has been the main cause of the industrial backwardness of this region. There is not a single major industry worth the name. There are, however, at least 30 sites, so far mapped, where hydro-electric power can be developed. Besides, the Mahatma Gandhi Hydro-Electric Project has plans for expansion to cover the entire Kannada-speaking area.

This area constitutes the oldest geological region in India. Karnataka's soils are next only in importance to its mineral wealth. Apart from their high fertility value in respect of food crops, they yield such important commercial crops as cotton, oilseeds, tobacco, indigo, mulberry, sugarcane, firewood, teak, bamboo, sandalwood and a myriad variety of forest produce. Tea, coffee, cinchona, spices, eucalyptus, pepper, cardamom and rubber can also be added to this list. The area's black cotton soil is famous.

Minerals will be the bedrock of the future prosperity of this area. There is great variety and richness of mineral resources. As already mentioned, places where gold can be mined include Hatti, Kapjat ranges, Alnavar and the Malaprabha basin. The other important minerals to be found are iron, manganese, bauxite, copper, salt-petre, beryl, building and ornamental stones, limestones, asbestos, chromite and sulphur.

High quality fish is available in abundance along the North Kanara and South Kanara coast. Auxiliary products like fish-oil, guano, paste, manure, maws, fins, and shells are also available. Salt is another important article which is available in abundance along the coast. Although this industry has dwindled in recent years, the North Kanara district alone can export 25,000 tons of salt every year. The salt resources of South Kanara are twice those of North Kanara.

The commercial importance of forest products of this area is, indeed, high. Timber ranks high. North Kanara produces one of the best Indian teaks.

Operations Research (OR) is one of the tools which the top management in an industrial or business organization can use for taking action in complex situations. OR is the application of Scientific methods for selecting the best among alternative courses of action or for arriving at optimum solutions for problem with conflicting objectives. An OR team consists of men of various disciplines—engineers, mathematicians, economists, etc. Conceptual models of problems are constructed to include all quantifiable variables in a situation for decision making. OR has extraordinarily interesting possibilities for improving business methods.

Bangalore is the headquarters. It is 26 sq. miles in area and has an estimated population of 1,101,600 (1956). It is a centre of many State-owned and private industries, such as soap, porcelain insulators, electrical transformers, gas mantles, gas lamps, glassware, pharmaceutical products, vegetable oil products, chrome tanned leather, nakki, kotta and lametta. Some of these industries are being carried on in a cottage industry scale. There are also woollen and cotton and silk mills.

Channarayana is situated to the south-west of Bangalore on the Bangalore-Mysore Railway. It has a population of 24,041. The town is noted for the manufacture of lacquer toys and the drawing of wire for musical instruments. It is also a centre for sericulture in the State. It contains a Government Silk Farm and the Mysore Spun Silk Mills, a Government-aided enterprise. Large quantities of coconuts and betel leaves are produced in the town. Considerable quantities of mangoes are also exported.

BELGAUM DISTRICT

Headquarters : Belgaum.

Belgaum District with Belgaum as its capital, is bounded on the north by Kolhapur and Satara South Districts; on the east by Bijapur; on the south by the Districts of Dharwar and North Kanara; on the west by the territory of Goa and Kolhapur District.

The area of the District is 5,380 square miles and the population according to 1951 census is 10,46,395. The languages spoken are Kannada and Marathi.

The talukas with their area in sq. miles and population respectively within brackets : Athani (744; 1,85,609); Belgaum (394; 2,81,087); Khanapur (675; 99,872); Parasgad (611; 1,24,935); Railwag (372; 91,449); Chikodi (479; 2,69,834); Hukeri (382; 1,74,414); Ramdurg (470; 90,051); Sampgaon (435; 1,54,494); Gokak (596; 1,74,650).

The country is a large plain studded with solitary peaks and broken here and there by the low ranges of Sahyadri hills. In the north and east the land is level and well-cultivated, but in the west it is intersected by spurs of the Sahyadri Range thickly covered in some places with forests. The District contains both black and red soils and produces mostly grains, pulses, oil-seeds, fibres and cotton. The average rainfall in Belgaum is 41.5 inches.

Belgaum, the Divisional and District headquarters, has a very pleasant climate especially in the hot season and it is described as the 'Mahabaleshwar of the poor.' It has retained its historic importance in the form of an imposing fortress (which is just near Belgaum City) built in the Mogul period. A memorial in the form of a bust of Fatahsheb Bhaive the famous ruler of Ramdurg, who for his participation in the 1857 uprising, was publicly hanged at Belgaum by the British, has been put up in the heart of Belgaum City. It is a cantonment and a station on the Southern Railway. It is a busy centre throwing on all its sides well maintained roads connecting the districts of Dharwar, Bijapur and North Kanara of Mysore State and also southern Maharashtra and the Goa territory. It is an important centre of the State Transport Bus Service and is the Headquarters of the Belgaum Division of the new Mysore State.

There are a big travellers' bungalow and inspection bungalow for the Government touring officers and a well-established private hotel, Hotel Green. There are also a Civil Hospital, a Military Hospital, two well-equipped private hospitals and half a dozen maternity hospitals in the city. The eye hospital of Padmaswari Dr. Mody, the well-known eye Surgeon, situated at Khasbag only a mile from Belgaum Railway Station, is the pride of Belgaum. Belgaum has a Government Vaccine Institute which regularly supplies lymph in great quantities to the whole of Bombay and Mysore States and even outside areas on demand. For the training of military cadets and also for the children of the civilians there is a residential institution called King George Public School in the Camp and the well-known Maharashtra Light Infantry Regimental Centre.

There is a Guidance Institute in Belgaum for guiding the students appearing for the Defence Service examinations and the Public Service Commission examinations.

The health and sanitation of the Camp area is managed by the Cantonment Board and of the Belgaum City by the Belgaum Borough Municipality of more than a hundred years' standing. The official language of the Municipality is Marathi.

In the city and the Camp area there are five Colleges, two Arts, and one Science College, one Law College, one College of Commerce, one College for the training of Secondary School Teachers, all affiliated to the Karnatak University. There are about 19 High Schools of which five are exclusively for girls which send up students for the S.S.C. Examination. There is a Government-Technical High School with the prospect of developing into a Polytechnic for providing diploma courses in different branches of engineering and later into a College of Engineering. Under the First and Second Five Year Plans two local high schools have been converted into multi-purpose high schools. Mahila Vidyalaya High School for Girls imparting instruction in Home Science and Sardar's High School (the only High School run by Government) imparting instruction in fine arts and appreciation of arts. There are also three Primary Teachers' Training Colleges one Marathi and the other two Kannada. Other institutions worth mentioning are the Remand Home, the Rotary Club, the Theosophical Society, the Masonic Lodge, Vanguaya Church, Mandal (Marathi Literary Society started in 1927), Karnatak Sahitya Sangh, Kalodjyana Mandal and Varenkar Natya Sangh both devoted to cultural development especially the dramatic art. Besides these there are the Union Gymkhana, the Social Club and Kreedha Bhavana, Belgaum Club and the Ladies Club for the recreation of Belgaum public.

It has literary associations managed by the lovers of Marathi and Kannada literatures and can be proud of a Free General Library of a hundred years standing with an imposing building of its own having a clock tower.

There is an aerodrome at Sambra, seven miles from Belgaum City.

The country is mostly flat with a gentle slope towards the east. The largest river is Karanja. The District has a dry, healthy climate. The staple food crop is various kinds of jawar. Next come wheat rice and bajra. There are no forests. The chief mineral is soapstone.

Prominent among the many relics of the palmy days is the fort of Bidar which contains the ruins of many palaces and mosques. The tombs of the twelve Bahman kings lie to the north-east of the town.

BIJAPUR DISTRICT

Area : 6,563 sq. miles ; Population : 13,06,185.

Headquarters : Bijapur.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets : Badami (527 : 1,36,396) ; Bagalkot (352 : 1,03,501) ; Bagewadi (764 : 1,37,029) ; Bijapur (1,038 : 2,09,283) ; Bilgi (327 : 59,187) ; Hungund (512 : 1,35,526) ; Indi (854 : 1,41,279) ; Jamkhandi (450 : 1,43,274) ; Muddebihal (570 : 1,12,419) ; Mudhol (349 : 83,268) ; Sindgi (830 : 1,35,023).

Bijapur District lies roughly between 15°49' and 17°29' North Latitude and 75°19' and 76°32' East Longitude. On the north it is separated by the river Bhima from Sholapur Dist. including the Akalkot Taluka, formerly a State; on the east and south-east it is bounded by Gulbarga and Raichur districts, on the south by the District of Dharwar and on the west by the Districts of Satara South (also called Sangli) and Belgaum.

The area of the District since the exclusion of Ramdurg Taluka is 6,563 sq. miles and the population according to 1951 census is 1,306,185 spread over 25 towns and 1,229 villages. The scheduled castes number 121,521 and the scheduled tribes 205. The majority of the people are Lingayats. Both Kannada and Marathi are spoken. The court language is Kannada.

The District has a rich soil but rains are uncertain, the average rainfall varying between 18 and 22 inches. It is one of the famine districts of the State. The staple crops are jowar and wheat but cotton, groundnut, bajri, pulses, linseed, sesamum and safflower are also largely grown. Bijapur and Bagalkot are the two important market centres, the former exporting cotton, jowar, wheat, groundnut, linseed, sesamum and bajri on an extensive scale. Bilgi in Hungund Taluka and Guledgi in Badami are two other commercial centres. Bilgi is known for 'Bilgi saris' the export of which exceeded 8 lakhs of rupees a year at one time. Bakkavi, Mahalingpur and Terdal in Jamkhandi Taluka are three power-loom centres, exporting fashionable saris and petals on a large scale. Handloom industry is the main industry of the District with about 30,000 handlooms, employing nearly 150,000 weavers. The cement factory is called 'The Bagalkot Cement Co., Ltd., Bagalkot' and is under the management of Tendulkar Industries Ltd. Cholkhans are the chief exporting handloom production Centre in Badami Taluka.

Bijapur is an attractive tourist centre possessing a large treasure of historical monuments of architectural importance including the famous "Gol-Gumbaz" with its Whispering Gallery, a World-Wonder. Besides, the district has the earliest Hindu Temples of the 4th century, at Pattadakal and Aiholi near Badami which has rock-cut cave temples of an earlier period than Ajanta and Ellora. Important Hindu pilgrimage centres are "Bala-Shankari" at Badami; Inachgeri a seat of Sadhus about 27 miles from Bijapur; Dr. Ranade Nimbal Ashram about 24 miles from there, being the second Railway Station from Bijapur on Sholapur side.

Bijapur is mainly an agricultural district growing as stated above jowar, bajri, wheat, cotton, groundnut, pulses, linseed, sesamum, and safflower. There are two Agricultural Produce Market Committees one at Bijapur and the other at Bagalkot for the regulation of trade. Jowar, bajri and wheat are exported on a large scale to deficit areas, while the cash crops of cotton and groundnut are exported to Sholapur and Gokak Mills, and to Bombay and Marwar respectively. Linseed goes to Bombay and sesamum to Madras State while safflower is consumed by local Ghania. Grape is now widely cultivated by Bijapur gardeners, Babanagar on Bijapur-Jath road about 12 miles from Bijapur being the chief grape producing centre. Pomegranates are largely grown in Kolhar in Bagewadi Taluka and Kalatgi in Bagalkot Taluka. Onions and betel leaves in Bagewadi and lemons in Indi and Sindgi are largely grown and exported to Sholapur and Hubli, etc. Out of the total geographical area of 4,231,491 acres according to village papers, the total area under cultivation is 36,42,184 acres. Forests cover 208,613 acres.

Over five thousand irrigation wells were sunk under a subsidy scheme in Indi, Bijapur and Sindgi talukas and several gardens were cropped up. Three major irrigation tanks at Kamanbali in Sindgi, at Arushankar in Bagewadi and at Karkop in Bagalkot Taluka were constructed and completed in 1956 at a cost of nearly one crore of rupees and about ten thousand acres of cultivable land was brought under irrigation. Out of seven IRT irrigation schemes only two continue to function. The total area brought under irrigation by means of Government canals, tanks and wells etc. is now 680,455 acres. Besides, the Ghataprabha Left Bank Canal has benefited Jamkhandi and Mudhol talukas bringing under irrigation a total area of about a lakh acres.

Transport facilities : Bombay State Transport Service functioning in the District has now been taken over by the new Mysore State and is called the Mysore Government Road Transport Department with its Head Office at Hubli. It has a workshop at Bijapur. It has a monopoly of catering passenger services maintaining also a big fleet of goods trucks. There is a divisional office at Bijapur. It has opened six depots and garages at Bijapur, Jamkhandi, Bagalkot, Muddebihal, Badami and Athani. It has a passenger service fleet of 211 vehicles operating on 137 routes linking almost every big village in the District. Besides, it runs direct service to Belgaum, Sholapur, Miraj-Sangli, Athani-Shedbal and Mangalwedha throughout the year on account of high-level bridges constructed across the rivers, the Krishna near Pada-algi, the Bhima near Dhulkhed, the Bar near Chadchan and the Don near Bableshwar.

There are as many as 398 Village Panchayats in the District. The annual income of a dozen of them exceeds Rs. 15,000.

There are a Merchants' Association, a Shroffs' Association, Kirari Merchants' Association and Stationery Merchants' Association at Bijapur. In addition to these, there are a Bailiffs' Association, Post and Telegraph Workers' Union, a State Transport Workers' Union, Government Servants' Association, a Hammals' Union, and Municipal Kamgars' Union, all being at Bijapur only.

One Community Project Block worth Rs. 15,00,000 was fully implemented in 58 villages in Indi Taluka. It was inaugurated on October 2, 1953 and was completed on October 2, 1956. Three National Extension Service Schemes one in each taluka of Badami, Sindgi and for the rest of the Indi Taluka, each worth Rs. 9,00,000 are now under implementation.

Bijapur District Khadi and Gramodyoga Board has opened Amlar Charkha Centres, 4 at Bijapur, one each at Torvi, Tikota, Bijapur and Honwal in Bijapur Taluka and about half a dozen centres in Muddebihal Taluka. At present training is imparted to only ladies and 20 such trainees are admitted at each Centre. This Board runs a Soap-making and Match-box manufacturing factory at Bagalkot and Jamkhandi. It also runs a Khadi and Gramodyoga Vidyalaya at Jamkhandi, there being 40 students on its roll.

The Southern Railway runs right through the District from north to south.

Institutions :—There are two First grade Colleges—one at Bijapur and the other at Bagalkot run by the Bijapur District Education Association. Bijapur has in all 24 high-schools, three Secondary and 575 Primary Schools; 1,087 Lower Primary schools, 80 Junior High schools; two Pre-primary schools; three Training Colleges, two Occupational Institutions and an Industrial-cum-Technical High School; one Medical School; two agricultural schools, 118 Pathshalas and Arabic Madarasas; two Music, Dance and Art Schools; one Remand Home and one Arts and Crafts and embroidery institution.

Hospitals, Dispensaries and Health Centres :—There are three General Hospitals; 15 general Dispensaries, four Primary Health Centres and 32 Ayurvedic General Dispensaries.

The Vijaya College was started in 1945 at Bijapur by the Bijapur Lingayat District Educational Association, Bijapur. The college is affiliated to the Karnatak University, Dharwar.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY

There is an oil mill at Bijapur providing work to about 200 workers. Bijapur has also biscuit and soap factories, handloom centres at Dargah (a suburb of Bijapur), Terdal, Bakkavi and Bannatti (where several hundred handlooms, and about 60 power looms are operating to turn out a large variety of saris), 60 spinning factories working during cotton season only, slate and tile factories, glass bangles and copper and brass industries. Country carpets and blankets are made in several villages in Bagalkot, Hungund, and Badami Talukas and Bilgi Petha. There is a wool-weaving demonstration centre at Kundargi where weavers are trained in improved methods in wool-weaving. A Government sheep breeding farm is situated at Anagwadi where improved types of wool are produced. Fine white building stones are exported from Badami and grinding stones from Muddebihal. Shahabadi type slates of various dimensions are quarried and exported in abundant quantities from Talikot, Kaladgi and Minajgi. There is a factory at Bagalkot for manufacturing glassware of all kinds. Oil crushing is done by country ghans throughout the District and soon oil expellers will be set up at Bagalkot.

There are at present more than a hundred looms working day and night producing hundreds of bhatares every day.

COORG DISTRICT

Area : 1,591 sq. miles ; Population : 229,405 ; District Headquarters : Mercara ; Talukas : North Coorg, South Coorg.

Area and population of North Coorg : 609 sq. miles ; 97,732.

Area and population of South Coorg : 986 sq. miles ; 1,31,673.

Coorg, a former Part "C" State, now a part of the new Mysore State, is bounded along its entire western frontier by the mountain chain of the Western Ghats. The Western Ghats curve somewhat inland and thus also serve to some extent as the northern and southern boundaries. In the north Coorg is partially separated from the forest highlands of Mysore by the rivers of Kumaradhara and Hemavathi, and on the east it merges into the general tableland of Mysore, the boundaries being marked by the river Cavary which is known as the Ganges of South India and a famous place of pilgrimage. Coorg is a hilly country with a rainfall of 80 to 120 inches with evergreen, deciduous and semi-deciduous forests.

The Coorg district covering an area of 1,591 square miles has a population according to the 1951 census of 229,405. The population is made up of Coorgis, Gowdagals, Lingayats, Brahmans, Muslims, Christians and (Harijans) Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes. Kannada is the chief language; Kodagu (Coorg language) is a dialect of old Kannada.

Paddy, coffee, orange, pepper and cardamom are the chief agricultural produce. There is no large scale industry. Transport consists mainly of buses, lorries and bullock carts. The chief items of trade are coffee, orange, pepper, cardamom and rice. The 1955 estimates for rice crop was 70,000 tons. The whole district is covered by the community projects schemes. The output of honey is about 2 lakh lb.

DHARWAR DISTRICT

Headquarters: Dharwar.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets: Blyadgi (168; 58,858); Dharwar (430; 1,61,020); Gadag (413; 1,44,260); Hangal (290; 89,627); Haveri (402; 1,24,198); Hirekerur (310; 96,668); Hubli (290; 1,95,532); Kalhatgi (259; 50,860); Kundgol (235; 68,817); Mundargi (336; 48,963); Nargund (176; 33,813); Navalgund (418; 75,237); Ranebennur (362; 1,20,813); Ron (476; 1,27,874); Shiggaon (344; 98,004); Shirhatti (367; 81,447).

Dharwar District is bounded on the north by the Districts of Belgaum and Bijapur; on the south by Shimoga and Chitaldrug Districts; on the east by Raichur and Bellary Districts; and on the west by the District of North Kanara. The area of the District is 5,285 square miles and the population according to 1951 census 1,575,386. Dharwar District is roughly divided into two belts, characterised by differences of configuration, soil and products. To the north and north-east spread vast unbroken plains of black cotton soil which produce wheat and abundant cotton crops. Dharwar is the biggest cotton growing District in Mysore State. The western belt of the District is traversed by low hills; this tract consists of a succession of low ranges covered with herbage and brushwood. The ranges are separated by flat valleys, and it is to these valleys and the lower slopes of the hills that cultivation is chiefly confined. Farther west the country is still more hilly, and the trees increase in size towards the frontier of North Kanara. The Basel Mission carries on social and educational work. Dharwar, the headquarters town, is a station on the Southern Railway and is the cultural centre of what is popularly known as the North Karnataka region. It is also the seat of the Karnatak University, and a broadcasting station of All-India Radio started functioning in January 1950. Dharwar has two Arts and Science colleges, a Government College of Agriculture, a Law College, a Polytechnic and a Kannada Research Institute. The city of Hubli, 12 miles from Dharwar, is the biggest city in the District and is the Divisional Headquarters on the Southern Railway, with a railway workshop, an Arts and Science College, a College of Engineering, a Medical College and a College of Commerce. Hubli is also known for its textile industry. The town of Gadag is another centre noted for its cotton trade and textile industry.

GULBARGA DISTRICT

Area : 6,574 sq. miles ; Population : 1,212,036.

Headquarters : Gulbarga.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets : Aland (678 ; 1,34,524) ; Gulbarga (664 ; 1,86,446) ; Chitapur (691 ; 1,45,059) ; Chincholi (809 ; 92,440) ; Seram (365 ; 82,988) ; Yadgir (666 ; 1,59,830) ; Shahpur (627 ; 1,23,830) ; Shorapur (711 ; 1,23,554) ; Jevargi (Andola) (746 ; 91,214) ; Afzalpur (514 ; 72,152).

Most of the land is almost flat, the slope being from north to south and south-east. A hill range, however, traverses the District from the west to a south-easterly direction. The principal river is the Bhima, a tributary of the Krishna. The other river is the Kagna.

Generally speaking the District is devoid of forests except in the hilly areas, which contain teak, eppa, tirnan, talul, tamarind and mango. The plains are hot and dry, while the wooded hills are damp.

The average rainfall is about 29 inches, but it is capricious, causing occasional droughts.

In part of the area the black cotton soil predominates while part is sandy. The rabi crops are white jawar, wheat, gram, cotton and linseed. The kharif crops are yellow jawar, bajra, castor seed, rice, linseed and hemp. The staple food crop is jawar, bajra, rice and wheat being next in importance.

The most important mineral found is laminated limestone, which occurs at Shahabad and is known as Shahabad stone, largely used for flooring and roofing. There is also a cement works in Shahabad.

The exports consist of jawar, bajra, cotton, oilseeds and tobacco. The chief imports are salt, sugar, cotton and woollen stuffs, matches and kerosene.

It is a paddy growing centre, with several mills for hulling paddy. There are a large number of power and handloom industries for weaving cotton and silk fabrics in the town. Sandalwood oil is produced in the Government Sandal Oil Factory. The Central Food Technological Research Institute, one of the national laboratories, is situated here. Mysore is also the headquarters of the Mysore University. There are a few taxidermists in the town. An exhibition is held here annually.

NORTH KANARA DISTRICT

Headquarters : Karwar.

Area : 3,964 sq. miles.

The total population according to 1951 census is 517,780.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets : Akola (348; 48,181); Bhatkal (120; 50,053); Haliyal (315; 86,516); Honavar (278; 74,400); Karwar (284; 78,726); Kumta (235; 77,457); Mundgod (257; 15,615); Siddapur (333; 41,777); Supa (732; 18,150); Yellapur (508; 10,112); Sirsi (556; 57,695).

North Kanara is a District on the Konkan Coast between 15°55' and 15°31' N. and 74°9' and 75°10' E. It is bounded on the north by Goa and the Belgaum District; on the east by the Dharwar and Shimoga districts; on the south by South Kanara and on the west by the Arabian Sea. The Sahyadri range of the Western Ghats varying in height from 2,500 to 3,000 feet runs through the District from the south to the north, dividing it into two tracts, the uplands or Balaghat and the lowlands or Payan Ghat.

Karwar, the headquarters of the District, possesses a fine natural harbour with great potentialities. The natural attractions of the country around, make Karwar a good health resort and a centre for tourists.

Agriculture is the mainstay of the people. Cultivable waste is about 60,000 acres. Barren and uncultivable land is about 45,000 acres. The net area sown is about 265,000 acres.

The net area irrigated is a little over 45,000 acres. The percentage of net area irrigated to net area sown is 18.96.

Paddy occupies 190,000 acres, ragi occupies 2,000 acres, black gram 2,000 acres and horse gram 2,700 acres.

Of the cash crops :—Sugarcane occupies 33,000 acres; coconuts 12,000 acres; mangoes 2,000 acres; bananas 4,000 acres; pine-apples 1,000 acres; sweet potatoes 800 acres; onions 400 acres; cashewnuts 1,200 acres; betel-nuts cover an area of 15,400 acres; pepper 2,000 acres, cardamom 600 acres; groundnuts 9,500 acres and betel-leaves 400 acres.

Rice which is most widely grown is responsible roughly for 75 per cent of the net cropped area. The average yield ranges from 5 to 40 maunds per maund of seed. The introduction of the Japanese method of cultivation has improved matters in many tracts and is responsible for larger yields. Another agricultural product the cultivation of which is fast developing in the loose sandy soil of Kanara is groundnut.

Roughly 83 per cent of the area of the district is forest. It approximates to 3,005 square miles.

The total population of fishermen is about 26,000. The average annual yield is about 20,000 tons. The chief variety is mackerel. There is a Mackerel Research Station at Karwar.

ECONOMY

The W.I.P.R. passes through Supa and the distance covered by it is about 32 miles. There is no major railway connection in Kanara.

Karwar-Bhatkal road is the national highway and so is the Kanara portion of the Bombay-Trivandrum national highway. Lately the Government has been constructing a cement road on the highway Kanara-Hubli-Karwar—a distance of 102 miles.

The Mysore State Road Transport Corporation plies practically throughout the district with the monopoly of passenger traffic.

Vessels up to 10 tons can go up to a distance of 20 miles in Kali River and up to 18 miles in the Agraahini. The Sharawati takes boat traffic up to Gersappa, about 25 miles from Honnavar.

The steamers of the Scindia Steam Navigation Company touch Karwar, Tadri, Kumta and Bhatkal during the fair season.

The most important commodities of export are timber, fuel, charcoal, bamboos, manganese and sweet potatoes, onions and supari. Fresh fish is transported from almost all the ports by motor launches to Bombay. The principal imports are grains, sugar, pulses, kerosene oil, coconut oil, Mangalore tiles, etc.

The only mineral that is successfully tackled at present is manganese. In flourishing times about 20,000 tons were exported every year to dollar areas.

Among the important industries are the Government saw mills, and a plywood factory at Dandelli. A good many rice mills sprang up during the days of rationing. But this number is now decreasing and the pounding woman is fast taking the place of the mill.

Bee-keeping is a favourite industry initiated by Government and in a forest tract like Kanara it has a bright future. Already there are 4,500 colonies in the district and the honey yield is about 30 to 35 thousand lb. a year.

The total area covered with bamboos is 89,000 acres and lies mainly on the slopes of the Gangavli and Kali rivers.

An area of about 25,570 acres of forest is covered with very useful species of palm known as the tall palm. This provides annually about 1,500 mature palms yielding about 300 tons of edible sago flour giving means of subsistence to about 6,000 people. The chief produce is tall-chakki or pitch from which edible flour is prepared.

Baswarajadurga an island off Honnavar produces the best quality of Cavi or reddie which is used for painting houses.

RAICHUR DISTRICT

Area : 5,591 sq. miles; Population : 953,640.

Headquarters : Raichur.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets : Raichur (688; 1,49,593); Manvi (749; 1,04,724); Deodurg (595; 89,615); Sindhnoor (628; 75,750); Gangavati (514; 86,921); Koppal (542; 1,00,885); Yelburga (545; 1,03,723); Kunthagi (536; 1,00,601); Lingasur (739; 1,11,658).

There is a range of hills extending from the west and north-west with two breaks. The general slope of the country is from the north-west towards the south-east. The most important river is the Krishna, which forms the boundary in the north; next the Tungabhadra which forms part of the boundary in the south. The Bhima joins the Krishna on the northern boundary.

The most important trees are teak, ebony, bijasal, mango, tamarind, neem.

There are no large forests. The District is generally healthy except during the rains when fevers might prevail. The temperature during the year varies from about 110° F. to about 70° F. The average annual rainfall is about 25 in.

The chief antiquities are in or near the fort of Raichur. There are also the old forts of Deodurg and Yadgir, besides many temples and mosques.

The staple food crops are jawar and bajra. Cotton is also grown and so are rice and oilseeds.

The most important mineral is the auriferous quartz. Laminated limestone, Shahabad stone and talc are also found.

The principal exports are jawar and other foodgrains and oils and the chief imports salts, coconuts, sugar, kerosene and cloth.

Raichur town is of some commercial importance.

SHIMOGA DISTRICT

Area : 4,060 sq. miles; Population : 663,315.

Headquarters : Shimoga.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets: Shimoga (409; 96,620); Bhadravati (257; 80,494); Chennagiri (458; 1,01,922); Honnali (338; 85,394); Shikaripur (342; 64,320); Sorab (412; 65,388); Sagar (749; 71,580); Hosanagar (539; 37,514); Thirthahalli (483; 60,083).

The District has an average rainfall of 56.98 inches and a forest area of 439.4 sq. miles.

Shimoga, the District headquarters town, has a population of 46,524. It is the biggest centre for areca trade in the Malnad parts of the State. Rice, jawar, wheat, ragi, cane jaggery, tamarind, chillies, groundnut are exported to South Kanara and Bombay by rail and road. Chief forest produce includes teak, sandalwood, rosewood. The Government of Mysore maintain a timber depot here and also run a Sandalwood Factory. There is also a match factory called the Mysore Match Factory.

Another notable place is Bhadravati on the Bhadra river, 12 miles south-east of Shimoga. It is an industrial and trade centre with a population of 42,451. The Mysore Iron and Steel Works, the Cement Factory, the Mysore Paper Mills and a Ferro-Silican Plant are all located here.

SOUTH KANARA DISTRICT

Area : 3,250 sq. miles; Population : 1,330,917. fall in this District and drought is extremely rare.

Headquarters : Mangalore.

Talukas with area in square miles and population respectively within brackets: Coondapur (600; 1,74,415); Udipi (357; 2,90,559); Karkal (629; 1,71,919); Mangalore (406; 4,51,005); Puttur (1,248; 2,42,969).

The Western Ghats form a natural boundary in the east, and the Arabian Sea in the West. The land slopes gently from the east to the west, but gives an impression of flatness. Much of the surface is bare and treeless and strewn with granite boulders, but there are many small hill ranges well-wooded. From the sea the coastline presents an endless stretch of coconut palms broken by river mouths.

The District has a heavy rainfall and the flora is as a consequence exceedingly varied. Of fruit trees, the coco and the areca palms and the jack and the mango are important. The palmyra palm is found everywhere and the cashew is common. The bamboo grows luxuriantly. Flowers grow in profusion. The fauna is as varied as the flora. Leopards, tigers, elephants are fairly common. The jackal and the monkey are found almost everywhere, while many species of snakes exist.

The climate is excessively humid with a rainfall of over 140 inches. The rains seldom

The chief objects of archaeological interest are the Jain remains especially in Karkala, Mudbidri and Venur—in the form of huge monolithic statues, temples or bastis and slabs or pillars.

The District has some of the best rice lands in the country; tobacco and vegetables are also grown, along with black gram, horse gram and green gram. On the hills there is coffee.

The District is essentially a forest District. The country is everywhere thickly wooded. The most valuable trees are teak, poonjar, black wood and jack.

The soil yields excellent clay which has given rise to a flourishing tile industry. Another important industry is coffee curing and the processing of cashewnut.

The principal exports are coffee, tiles, copra, rice and wood. The chief imports are cotton piece-goods, grain, oil, sugar, salt.

Mangalore is the biggest single harbour. But Malpe near Udipi has greater possibilities and was mentioned by the West Coast Major Port Development Committee for development as a major port between Marmugao and Cochin.

PAPER INDUSTRY IN MYSORE

The Mysore Paper Mills owe their origin to the foresight and progressive Industrial policy of the Government of Mysore. A Joint Stock Company was formed in 1936 with the Government of Mysore taking a share both in the Capital and the Management.

The Mills at Bhadravati, on the left Bank of the perennial river Bhadra command various facilities such as nearness to bamboo forests, labour and workshop facilities. His Late Highness Sri Krishnaraja Wadiyar Bahadur laid the foundation of the Mill buildings on the 1st of April 1937.

The Mills commenced production in 1938 as an integrated Paper and Pulp Mill with a Fourdrinier Paper Machine of a rated capacity of 15 tons of paper per day, with 17-ton bamboo pulp and 2½-ton rag pulp plants.

In September 1954, a Second Paper Machine of the same capacity, with the latest improvements, went into production. At the same time, Stock Preparation Plant was modernised with the addition of Solvo Pulpers, High Speed Refiners, and slush feeding of Furnish. A new Electrolytic Caustic Soda—Chlorine Plant was also installed.

Presently, the Mills are manufacturing about 8,000 tons of high class Writings, Printings, Bonds, M. G. White Posters, Cartridges, Off-set Printings, etc. per annum. These papers are marketed under the Trade Mark 'Bison Brand'.

Plans are under active consideration for increase of output to 16,000 tons per annum in keeping with the country's rapid advance in Industrialisation and mass literacy.

The Mill employs more than 550 educated men on an average and about 1,000 skilled and unskilled workers, besides providing employment for 800 more in the extraction and transport of bamboos.

A regular town has grown up at Bhadravati with all modern amenities like protected water-supply, electric lighting, sanitary arrangements, a Co-operative Society, Primary and Middle Schools and Medical and Maternity aid.

The Mills have consistently maintained and continue to maintain the quality of their products and full service to their Customers. They are also meeting the full paper requirements of the Government of Mysore and a portion of the needs of the Government of India. The Mills are now unable to meet the full needs of their valued customers.

With the implementation of the contemplated Expansion scheme, the Mills hope they will be able to meet in full the demands of their growing clientele all over the country.

PORTS

Chandbali and Gopalpur are the two ports in the State. It is proposed to spend Rs. 2-30 lakhs for the development of Chandbali Port during the Second Five Year Plan period. A sum of Rs. 75,371 was spent upto 31st March 1957. Steps were being taken to start hydrographic survey of Dhamra and Baitarani rivers during 1957-58.

Exports of food grains and other cargoes from Chandbali during 1956-57 : 2,941 tons ; imports of cargo during the same period : 134 tons.

Gopalpur : There has been no sea-borne trade since 1942.

Paradip. The State Government in consultation with the Government of India is going to develop an all-weather major port at Paradip. Paradip was expected to start functioning as a minor port during 1957-58 and efforts were being made to export about one lakh tons of iron ore during 1957-58. From 1958-59 it is hoped to export 3 lakh tons of iron ore per annum, which will bring in about Rs. 1-5 crores in foreign exchange. The prospects of trade are immense with the construction of railways from Boudh to Talcher, Sukinda Mines to Jharpur, Cuttack to Paradip.

The total cost of the proposed major port at Paradip would be about Rs. 5-6 crores as estimated by the Japanese Mission in 1956.

Machkund Scheme

This is a joint scheme of Orissa and Andhra Governments and is located in Koraput District for harnessing Hydro-Electric Power from the Machkund river. Orissa's Share is 30 per cent. Work on this scheme was started in 1946.

Ultimate installed capacity: 1,11,750 kW.

Total cost: Rs. 1,536.86 lakhs.

Orissa's share: Rs. 461.08 lakhs.

Expenditure upto end of First Five Year Plan: Rs. 299.75 lakhs.

Provision in the Second Five Year Plan: Rs. 101.30 lakhs.

Present stage of the Scheme: Three sets have already started generation, first one from August 1955, second from December 1955 and third from June 1956. The power house transformer yard and all allied works have been completed. Work on the Jalapur Dam is in progress. Up to date installed capacity is 61,750 kW. Three more sets of 20,000 kW will be installed by 1959.

Hirakud Scheme

This project was started in 1948 and is located at Hirakud near Sambalpur. The dam has been constructed here to utilise the waters of the Mahanadi River for irrigation, production of power and also to control the floods in the river.

It is the first of three dams proposed to control and harness the mighty river Mahanadi for the development of the entire region.

Water from the dam now completed flowed into the Bargarh Canal, the central arterial canal, in July 1956 and water was available for irrigation in September 1956.

The project will irrigate 6,72,000 acres of land in Sambalpur and Bolangir districts including a double-cropped area of 2,18,000 acres and 1,867,000 acres in Cuttack and Puri Districts. An area of about 1,35,490 acres is now being irrigated by water from the Hirakud canals.

The main power house with four generating units was made available from December 1956.

Up to March 1956, about Rs. 64.61 crores had been spent on the project. The revised estimates for Stage I are Rs. 70.78 crores.

Electric portion of the Hirakud Scheme --
Installed capacity : 1,23,000 kW (first stage)
Installed capacity : 2,32,500 kW (including 2nd stage).

Present stage : Generation of power started in December 1956, work on the second stage of the scheme is in hand.

For more particulars see under the main article on Irrigation.

Choudwar Thermal Station

Pending extension of power from Hirakud to Cuttack area, a steam station at Choudwar near Cuttack with 2 x 1500 kW and 1 x 2000 kW was installed at Choudwar bringing the capacity of the Thermal Station to 5,000 kW by the end of October 1955. This station is now fully loaded and is supplying power to Cuttack, Puri and Dhenkanal districts. This station will become a stand by plant for the Hirakud scheme when the hydro-electric power is available.

A 750 kW steam station which was installed at Jobra has been transferred to Chatrapur for supplying power to the Ganjam area. This was commissioned during early part of the year 1956-57.

Transmission Schemes

Buduma Transmission Scheme : Total cost Rs. 1,67.69 lakhs upto Rayagada (1st stage), Rs. 142.00 lakhs upto Berhampur (2nd stage).

Expenditure upto end of First Five Year Plan : Rs. 112.49 lakhs.

Provision in the Second Five Year Plan : Rs. 134 lakhs. The scheme envisages extension of power transmission to Berhampur, Rayagada, Baysore, Koraput, Nawrangpur and Borigumma. From Berhampur the transmission line will be extended to supply power to Aska, Bhanjagar, Rambha and Chatrapur areas in the Ganjam District and Banpur, Balugaon, Khatapahat etc. in the Chilka region of Puri District.

Hirakud Power Utilisation Scheme :
Total cost : Rs. 155.85 lakhs.

Expenditure upto First Five Year Plan period : Rs. 77.54 lakhs.

Provision made in the Second Plan : Rs. 100 lakhs.

The scheme covers sub-transmission and distribution of power generated at Hirakud with a view to developing loads which would ultimately consume the power.

On this basis, 88 and 11 K.V. lines are being constructed at Hirakud round about Rajnagar and Balangir region in the north for connecting the important places and mining areas in the Sambalpur, Sundergarh, Keonjhar and Mayurbhanj districts. Lines have been constructed from Choudwar upto Puri and to Khurdo, Jatni via Bhubaneswar, to Dhenkanal area Khuntini; lines to Jagatsinghpur Kendrapara had been completed and line to Jalpur was nearing completion.

The Choudwar Power House is now catering to the demands of all these regions which will eventually be tagged on to the Hirakud system.

Thermal Schemes

Cuttack Thermal Scheme :
Plant Capacity : 5,000 kW.
Total cost : Rs. 59.28 lakhs.

Expenditure upto end of First Five Year Plan : Rs. 62.46 lakhs.

This supplies power to Cuttack, Puri and Dhenkanal districts through the transmission lines constructed under the Hirakud Power Utilisation Scheme and the Rural Schemes. The work is almost completed.

Small Towns and Rural Schemes :
Total Cost : Rs. 89.02 lakhs.

Expenditure upto First Five Year Plan : Rs. 49.21 lakhs.

Provision in the Second Plan : Rs. 150.00 lakhs.

Investigation of New Hydro-Electric Projects in the Second Five Year Plan a provision of Rs. 12 lakhs has been made.

IRRIGATION

Gross area irrigated : 2,224,000 acres

Water from Hirakud dam began to be available for irrigation in Sept. 1956, and will irrigate an area of 6.72 lakh acres in Sambalpur and Bolangir-Patna.

Minor Irrigation Schemes

Total area irrigated and/or benefited by minor irrigation projects : 595,350 acres

The following are some of the more important minor irrigation projects with their location, area irrigated in acres and cost in lakhs of rupees respectively within brackets : Suk Pika (Cuttack District : 6,068, 11.30); Uchhai Naghar (Puri District : 4,000, 4.08); Berras (Puri District : 5,500, 13.00); Das-mauza (Balsore District : 8,880, 1.70). Projects connected with sub-marekha problem : Balsore District : (10,000 : 6.00); Bauli (Dhenkanal District : 7,600 : 1.35); Extension of No. 2 Distributary Rishi-Kulya Canal (Ganjam District : 6,000 : 4.00).

Major Irrigation Schemes : Name with location, area in acres and cost in lakhs respectively within brackets : Hirakud Dam (Sambalpur & Bolangir Patna Districts : 4,48,000 : 7,978.00); Delta Irrigation Project (Cuttack and Puri Districts : 10,77,000 : 1,492.00).

BUDGET 1956-59

Revenue : Rs. 27.52-35 lakhs.
Expenditure : Rs. 26.94-38 lakhs.

The erstwhile PEPSU region of enlarged Punjab had no organised local bodies, but now with the merger of PEPSU in the Punjab, elections are expected to be held of members of local bodies on the pattern of erstwhile Punjab.

REGIONS

In the Zonal Division the Punjab falls within the northern Zone, comprising the States of Punjab, Rajasthan and Jammu and Kashmir and the Union territories of Delhi and Himachal Pradesh.

For the more convenient transaction of business with regard to some specified matters, the State is divided into two regions, the Punjabi-speaking and the Hindi-speaking regions.

The Hindi region consists of the districts of Kangra, Simla, Karnal, Rohtak, Gurgaon, Hissar, Mohindergarh, the Kandaghat and Nalagarh tehsils of Patiala, Ambala district, excluding the Rupar and Chandigarh Assembly constituencies, Jind and Narwana tehsils of Sangrur district.

The Punjabi region consists of the districts of Gurdaspur, Amritsar, Bhatinda, Jullundur, Hoshiarpur, Ferozepur, Ludhiana, Kapurthala, the Rupar and Chandigarh Assembly constituencies in Ambala district, Patiala district, excluding Kandaghat and Nalagarh tehsils and Sangrur district, excluding the Jind and Narwana tehsils.

The Chandigarh capital project will not form part of either of the two regions. So long, however, as it does not become a full-fledged constituency on a population basis, its representative will sit in the Regional Committee for the Punjabi region.

For each region there is a regional committee of the State Assembly consisting of the members of the State Assembly belonging to that region including the Ministers from that region but not including the Chief Minister.

The Regional Committees have been empowered to make proposals with regard to questions of general policy not involving any financial commitments other than expenditure of a routine and incidental character.

The advice tendered by the regional committees will normally be accepted by the Government and the State Legislature. In case of difference of opinion, reference will be made to the Governor whose decision will be final and binding.

The regional committees will deal with the following matters: (i) Development and economic planning, within the framework of the general development plans and policies formulated by the State Legislature; (ii) Local Self-Government, that is to say, the constitutional powers of municipal corporations, improvement trusts, district boards and other local authorities for the purpose of local self-government or village administration including "Panchayats"; (iii) Public health and sanitation, local hospitals and dispensaries; (iv) Primary and secondary education; (v) Agriculture; (vi) Cottage and small-scale industries; (vii) Preservation, protection and improvement of stock and prevention of animal diseases, veterinary training and practice; (viii) Pounds and prevention of cattle trespass; (ix) Protection of wild animals and birds; (x) Fisheries; (xi) Inns and Inn-keepers; (xii) Markets and fairs; (xiii) Co-operative Societies and (xiv) Charities and charitable institutions, charitable and religious endowments and religious institutions.

The Sachar formula will continue to operate in the area comprised in the former Punjab State, and in the area comprised in the former PEPSU State, the existing arrangements will continue until they are replaced or altered by agreement later.

The official language of each region will at the district level and below, be the respective regional language.

The State is bilingual recognising both Punjabi (in Gurmukhi script) and Hindi (in Devnagri script) as the official languages of the State.

The total number of registered factories in 1955 was 2,773.

Among the more important industrial centres, Jullundur is famous for its sports goods while Batala and Ludhiana are well known for light engineering works. Amritsar for textile goods, Sonapat for its cycle factory which is also one of the largest of its kind in the country. The factory produces about 8,500 cycles per month as against 1,500 cycles produced in 1952.

The other large scale industries include one woolen mill at Dharwal, one new cotton spinning mill with 25,000 spindles at Hissar, one sugar factory at Abdullahpur producing 10,000 tons of sugar, one hydro-generated oil factory at Abdullahpur with an annual production of 10,000 tons and one paper production factory at Jannatastar with a production of 15,000 tons of paper.

There are also two emerald mills and a number of ice making factories in the areas comprising the former Punjab; also one footwear factory at Faridkot, four assembling-cum-cycle manufacturing units at Sonapat, Faridkot and Ludhiana.

Heavy industries in the PEPSU region include two sugar factories at Hamira and Dhuri with a crushing capacity of 1,000 tons and 1,500 tons of sugarcane per day respectively, one sugar factory and one textile mill at Phagwara, with a production of 57,000 yards of cloth per day, two cement factories at Surajpur and Dalma Dadri producing 353,817 tons of cement per year, one distillery at Hamira, three starch factories at Phagwara, Rajpura and Faridkot, two roller flour mills at Patiala and Bhatinda and a biscuit factory at Rajpura.

SMALL SCALE INDUSTRIES

The Punjab has a large number of medium and small-scale industries which include scientific instruments, glassware, wooden planks and hooks, foundry and engineering, re-rolling mills, cotton ginning, canning and preservation of cotton, starch and chemicals, milk food except beverages, distilling, rectifying and blending of spirits, electric goods, manufacture of ice, etc.

* Was a separate District when the census were taken.

In the hosiery industry, with 880 concerns out of a total of about 950 in India, Punjab occupies the leading position in the whole country.

In the production of artificial silk the Punjab ranks next only to Bombay. There are in operation at present, 350 units in the State.

Cottage Industries

The manufacture of blankets, 'khesen' rugs, cycle parts, utensils, tanning and wood industries, silk spinning and weaving, potteries, shoe making, making of sewing machine parts, etc., are among the principal cottage industries of the new State.

There are more than 73,500 hand-looms in the State (51,000 in the erstwhile Punjab region and 22,500 in erstwhile PEPSU). To promote sale of goods, sale depots at fourteen places in the former State of Punjab were set up, besides one cottage industries emporium at Chandigarh. In PEPSU similar sale emporia exist at Malerkotla, Phagwara and Patiala.

New Enterprises

A new textile finishing mill with modern equipment and machinery at Amritsar has commenced production. Two roller flour mills have been established at Chandigarh. Sugar mills on co-operative basis namely, Morinda Sugar Mills, Janta Sugar Mills at Bhogpur, Hariyana Sugar Mills at Rohtak and Nawanshahr Sugar Mills were being erected in the State.

Rajpura is developing into an important industrial centre. A bone and glue factory, a cycle factory and a scrap melting furnace factory were being established there. A factory to produce electric fans, electric motors, etc., was being set up at Patiala. Arrangements for setting up a wire-products factory and a pistons and ring factory at Patiala had also been completed.

In the Punjab out of a total allotment of Rs 7.13 crores in the Second Five-Year Plan, there is a provision of Rs 1.4 crores for factory production. This provision represents the amount necessary for Government participation to the extent of one-third of total investment in the establishment of factories in the private sector.

In the Second Five-Year Plan for PEPSU region there is a provision of Rs 100 lakhs under this head, out of which Rs 100.53 lakhs are earmarked for village and small-scale industries.

AGRICULTURE

The total area of the Punjab according to village records pertaining to the agricultural year 1954-55 is 30,288,000 acres as per details given below:

	Acres

In the matter of food production, Punjab is the second largest wheat and gram producing area in the Union, third in barley and maize, fourth in bajra and sugarcane, while it produces considerable quantities of jowar, cotton, rice, rape, mustard and small quantities of tea, tobacco, groundnut and linseed. The production of cotton in the Punjab amounts to one-fifth of the total production of the country.

Production of foodgrains in 1950-57: 5,473,000 tons.

In the former Punjab region the production of major foodgrains was 37.9 lakh tons in 1954-55 while that of cotton was 4.4 lakh bales. The production of paddy was 3.6 lakh tons.

In the former PEPSU region the production of foodgrains was 10.5 lakh tons in 1954-55, while that of sugarcane was 117,000 tons. The production of American and Desi Cotton was 135,000 bales and 93,000 bales respectively.

While the population of the new State is only 1.25th of the whole country, its contribution to increased production of cotton and foodgrains will be 1.5th and 1.15th, respectively during the Second Five-Year Plan period.

The Punjab Government has allocated substantial funds for creation of green belts against the advancing desert from Rajasthan. The construction of a network of canals and sub-canals running into a total length of 3,500 miles has helped step up food production in the State.

The consumption of artificial fertilisers was stepped up to 75,000 tons in 1956-57. The target at the end of the Second Plan is expected to go up to 1,50,000 tons.

Besides 27 co-operative garden colonies, there are at present 550 co-operative farming societies in the Punjab. By the end of the Second Plan period, it is proposed to raise the number of co-operative societies to 850. The State Government has also set up a Land Mortgage Bank with its branches in all the districts for the benefit of farmers. The Second Plan provides for the establishment of 650 large-sized agricultural credit societies and 5,000 primary credit societies.

LAND TENURE

Names of Tenancy Acts in force at present: The Punjab Occupancy Tenants (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act, 1952; The Punjab Abolition of Ala Malkiyat and Talukdari Rights Act, 1952; Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act, 1953 and Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887; Punjab Security of Land Tenures (Amendment) Act, 1955. PEPSU Occupancy Tenants (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act 1953, The Patiala and East Punjab States Abolition of Ala Malkiyat Rights Act, 1953, The Patiala and East Punjab States Union Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act, 1953, The PEPSU Agricultural Tenant (Temporary Protection and Disability) Ordinance, 1954.

With the passage of the Punjab Occupancy Tenants (Vesting of Proprietary Rights) Act 1952, there are now no occupancy tenants except on evacuee lands. They became proprietors from 15th June, 1952 on payment of compensation to landlords in the Punjab region of the State.

Consequent upon the enforcement of the Punjab Security of Land Tenures Act, 1953, which came into force on the 15th April, 1953 tenants were divided into the following two classes: Tenants of landowners owning land above the permissible limit (30 standard acres or 60 ordinary acres) and tenants of landowners owning land below the permissible limit.

The permissible area has been fixed at 30 standard acres or 60 ordinary acres in case of locals; and in case of displaced persons 50 standard acres or 100 ordinary acres for those who have been allotted 50 standard acres or more in lieu of land left in West Punjab, but to the extent of land allotted in case it is less than 50 standard acres and more than 30 standard acres; but if allotted less than 30 standard acres then upto 30 standard acres including any land which such displaced person has in East Punjab.

The tenants of the former category have security of tenure for a period of 10 years from the date of the commencement of the tenancy or the date of the enforcement of the aforesaid Act whichever is later. The tenants of latter category are liable to ejectment after the 30th April 1954, upto which date no tenant is liable to ejectment.

There were a fairly large number of ejectments and an Ordinance was promulgated in October 1954.

The Government piloted an amending Bill in 1955 to tighten the provisions of the original Act further.

The amended Act empowered the Government to utilise the "surplus area" of both landowners and tenants for the resettlement of landless and ejected tenants. Under the Act, all areas above 30 standard acres owned by a local owner were considered "surplus." Further, a small owner who held land up to 30 standard acres could not eject a tenant from five standard acres unless the tenant was settled by the Government on the "surplus area." The amended Act also declared all sales, lease or otherwise, effected after January 1, 1956, illegal.

Landowners who were ever anxious to dodge the new laws failed to declare their "surplus area," thereby compelling the Government to amend the Act again in the last budget session. A penal clause was introduced imposing both fine and imprisonment on defaulters.

The former PEPSU area is governed by another radical land law which lays down that ownership of all land in excess of the permissible ceiling of 30 standard acres shall vest in the State and compensation shall be payable by the State after its recovery from tenants when they assume proprietary rights. The PEPSU law provides for compensation amounting to 90 times the land revenue or Rs. 200 whichever is less and the Punjab law grants compensation upto three-fourths of the market value.

Consolidation of Holdings is an important problem. The total area to be consolidated in the Punjab and the PEPSU was 159 lakh acres and 60 lakh acres respectively. By the end of the First Five-Year Plan period, the consolidation of an area of 60 lakh acres had been completed.

The consolidation is expected to be completed by the end of the Second Five-Year Plan period at a total cost of Rs. 558.31 lakhs for areas in the former Punjab and of Rs. 221 lakhs in the former PEPSU.

A sum of Rs. 343 lakhs in the Punjab and Rs. 55.6 lakhs in PEPSU have already been spent on Community Development work upto the end of June 1956. People's participation including labour covered in terms of money amounts to Rs. 367½ lakhs in the Punjab and Rs. 81 lakhs in PEPSU upto the same period.

In the Second Five-Year Plan a further sum of Rs. 11 crores will be spent on this item.

Three soil conservation schemes namely: (i) Soil Conservation over Shivalika, (ii) Afforestation of Bhakra Dam Catchment area and (iii) Desert Control are in operation in the underdeveloped areas of Kandaghat sub-division and Mahendragarh district.

Reserved, protected, unclassified and leased forests are located at Jullundur, Ludhiana, Hoshiarpur, Ferozepore, Kangra, Amritsar, Gurdaspur, Ambala, Karnal, Hissar, Rohtak, Gurgaon, Simla and Kandaghat Sub-division at Mahendragarh.

IRRIGATION

Total area irrigated: about 8,024,000 acres.

The Bhakra-Nangal Project is estimated to cost Rs. 174 crores. On completion it would provide irrigation for the first time to 3.8 million acres in the Punjab, 1 million acres in PEPSU and 9 lakh acres in Rajasthan, besides improving irrigation in about 8.5 million acres. The additional agricultural production is estimated at about Rs. 132 crores annually and nearly 4,00,000 kWs. of electric energy would be added to the State's power resources.

Full benefits of the Project will be available on its completion in 1960. However, schedules have been so arranged as to bring some measure of these benefits as each step of construction is completed.

After the completion of the Bhakra-Nangal Project, the total area to come under irrigation by the Bhakra Canal System consisting of 690 miles of main lines and branches and 2,100 miles of distributaries will be over 9 million acres.

The following table shows the year-wise figures of new acreage which will be irrigated by this Project:—

	Acres
1956-57	1,572,007
1957-58	1,644,608
1958-59	2,308,211
1959-60	2,654,063
1960-61	2,690,076
After completion	4,963,705

The project will also enhance supplies in Sirhind Canal from 9,040 cusecs to 12,500 cusecs at Rasper.

Bain River Project: It is proposed to harness the water of Bain River by taking out channel from the existing barrage on the river near Kapurthala and to irrigate about 40,000 acres of land. The revised cost of the project is Rs. 11.06 lakhs excluding the cost of the existing barrage. The SOW channels have started irrigation.

Dadri Irrigation Scheme: 1,794 cusecs of supply will be released from the Sirhind branch of Western Jammu Canal and this supply will be used for extension and improvement of irrigation. A part of this supply will be used for improving and extending irrigation in Sangrur District and a part used for extending irrigation to Dadri Tahsil of the Mahendragarh District. The Dadri irrigation scheme will cost Rs. 50.5 lakhs and will bring an area of about 101,000 acres under command. They were opened for Khari irrigation during August 1956. The lining of channels would be completed during 1958.

Besides these and Harike and minor irrigation programmes under the head 'agriculture schemes,' a large number of other schemes also came to be undertaken during the First Five-Year Plan period.

Among these schemes were the construction of flood irrigation channels, the extension of irrigation on the Eastern Canal, and sinking of 978 tube-wells under the T.C.A. and G.M.I. programme.

An additional area of 15 lakh acres is estimated to have been brought under irrigation as a result of all these schemes including area irrigated by Bhakra-Nangal Canals during 1951-56.

The implementation of all these schemes is estimated to bring 3,121,696 acres of more land under irrigation during the Second Five-Year Plan period. Thus out of a total cultivable area of 216 lakh acres in the new State, the canal irrigated area will be 123½ lakh acres as against 64.03 lakh acres in 1950-51 and 92.28 lakh acres in 1955-56.

ELECTRIC POWER

No. of electric power stations: 44. Installed capacity: 82,542 kW; Energy generated: 223.473 million kWh.

The main sources of electric supply in the State are (1) Uhl River Hydro-Electric Scheme where four sets of 12,000 kW. each, including one stand-by, are installed, (2) The Gangwal Power House with 3 units of 24,000 kW. each out of which at present two are working, (3) The Kotla Power House with 3 units of 24,000 kW. out of which 1 is working at present and a number of Government and private thermal electric supply stations at various places. Nine more generating units of 90,000 kW. each are scheduled to be installed at the site of the Bhakra Dam.

Provision of electricity, particularly in the rural areas, for industrial and domestic use, was one of the main items on the development programmes in Punjab. Electricity has already been made available to about 42.43 lakh persons i.e. 28.8 per cent of the total population in the new State of which the rural population forms 10 to 12 per cent.

During the Second Five-Year Plan this percentage will rise to 50.

The per capita annual consumption of electricity at present in these areas is 10 kW. and is estimated to rise to 50 kW. by the end of the Second Five-Year Plan period.

In the former Punjab area 30 towns and villages each having a population of 20,000 and above were electrified; majority of 21 towns and villages each with a population of 10,000 to 20,000 was electrified; 1,000 out of 15,216 towns and villages each with a population below 10,000 were electrified and another 4,000 will be electrified during the Second Five-Year Plan.

In PEPSU region, the number of towns receiving electric supply is 39 as against 13 in 1950-51. With the availability of more power from Bhakra-Nangal Project, 22 more towns in this part of the new State will get electrified during the Second Five-Year Plan period. Besides another scheme for electrifying 15 towns, not included under Bhakra-Nangal Project has been chalked out. Sufficient provision also exists in the Five-Year Plan for the electrification of 700 villages and energising 300 tube-wells, in addition to 350 tube-wells already electrified.

TRANSPORT

During the first Five-Year Plan Rs. 650 lakhs were spent under this head in the Punjab region and Rs. 195.8 lakhs in PEPSU region. This helped construction of 1,513 miles of metalled road in Punjab and 881 miles in PEPSU region of the new State. A programme for the construction of another 1,457 miles of roads in the Punjab at a cost of Rs. 1,486 lakhs and 669 miles in PEPSU has already been drawn up. Thus by the end of the Second Five-Year Plan there will be 7,092 miles of metalled roads in the new State of Punjab.

Besides this, National Highways and Inter-State roads are also being developed under the Central Road Programme. Out of an outlay of Rs. 186 crores for all the States, Rs. 7.76 crores (gross Rs. 7.93 crores) are being spent for development of Highways in Punjab.

Development of village communications in the State has also made progress. Under the Community Development Programme about 200 miles of pucca roads have already been constructed. Although no provision for development of road transport could be made in the Punjab's First Five-Year Plan, yet a sum of Rs. 293 lakhs was spent on non-Plan development schemes during that period. The programme for nationalisation of passenger transport was carried out on restricted basis.

Government Transport Services in the Punjab region are at present operating on 77 routes with a fleet of 256 vehicles.

Government has plans to take over 50 per cent of all pucca routes, leaving 50 per cent to private operators. This scheme has been enforced in pursuance of an agreement between private operators and State Transport Department in 1957. The agreement will last for 10 years.

In PEPSU region of the State, the policy of gradual and phased nationalisation of transport was given practical shape on January 5, 1955 when 12 Government buses started operating on 8 routes all emanating from Patiala. Under the Second Five-Year Plan in this region of the State, road transport will be completely nationalised on the existing pucca routes and also on roads to be constructed. The number of such routes will be 29. These routes are operated by PEPSU Road Transport Corporation which was set up in partnership with the railways in 1956.

Total number of aerodromes: 2 (One owned by the Government and the other at Faridkot by the Maharaja of Faridkot).

to 60 in the Veterinary College, Hissar; from 50 to 100 in the Agricultural College, Ludhiana, and from 80 to 100 in the Medical College, Amritsar.

In addition, there are schemes for the re-organisation of Industrial Schools, and the expansion of Training Centres at a cost of Rs. 1.4 crores, the establishment of two Polytechnic and Printing Technology Institutes, the establishment of a Polytechnic at Patiala and 2 junior technical schools at a cost of Rs. 8 lakhs. Provision has also been made in the Plan to subsidize the establishment of an Institute of Engineering and Technology at Patiala.

The State expenditure on education has shown a sharp upward trend and the budgetary figure for 1958-59 stands at Rs. 8,10,50,000 as compared to the previous year's budget of Rs. 7,46,19,200.

The Government has decided to introduce free and compulsory education in all Government-owned schools upto the Matriculation stage. The scheme for free education has so far been introduced upto sixth class.

On October 1, 1957 the State Government decided to provincialise Local Body and District Board Schools throughout the State with a view to ameliorating the lot of teachers employed by local bodies and also effecting improvement in the standard of education. The decision affected 30,000 Board teachers and 10,000 local body schools.

The pay-scales were revised and brought in line with those of teachers already working in Government Schools. The provincialisation of local body Schools involved an expenditure of more than Rs. 4 crores.

(For other particulars about education see the tables given in the article on Education. The addition of the figures for the Punjab and the PEPSU will give the figure for the present Punjab).

The statistics of vehicles registered with the Department (PEPSU):—

	Cars.	Motor Cycles.	Trucks.	Tractors.	Buses.
For private use	1,610	459	110	980	..
Public vehicles	19	..	724	..	894
Departmental Vehicles ..	200	5	80	35	..
Belonging to Royal Families	97	2	8	14	3

Transport has not been nationalised in this area, but buses of the Government-owned Roadways run on certain routes in competition with those privately operated. The former State Government announced that it was committed to gradual nationalisation. In January 1956 it set up a four-member (all officials) Road Transport Corporation and declared that the objective was to nationalise road transport by 1958-59.

A Transport Authority was also constituted.

LABOUR

Number of registered Factories: 2,573.

Number of workers: 40,000.

Labour Welfare: During the first Plan period, Rs. 104 lakhs were spent by the State Government on various welfare schemes.

The Punjab Trade Employees' Association extended to 103 towns in the Punjab.

A scheme to open labour Welfare Centres at six places of industrial concentration was launched in the State with a view to providing educative and recreational facilities to workers and their families. Accordingly, six such centres were opened at Ambala Cantt., Ludhiana, Jullundur, Amritsar, Jagadhri and Batala. A similar centre for the welfare of the plantation labour was also set up at Palampur in the Kangra District.

Under the subsidised Industrial Housing Scheme, the construction of 200 houses, at Amritsar and 124 at Ludhiana has been completed. In the year 1956-57, a sum of Rs. 54 lakhs was provided for the construction of houses under these schemes. 1,700 houses for labour in all were constructed by the end of the Plan period.

Employees' Provident Fund scheme has also been enforced in the State and about 150 factories are covered by it. About 16,000 workers employed in these factories at present benefit from this scheme.

Employees' State Insurance Scheme also came to be enforced in 1956 in seven centres covering about 35,000 workers. Since then the number of workers insured has risen to 64,000. Additional facilities have also been provided with effect from the year 1956-57.

The Punjab Government have recently enacted legislation known as Commercial Establishments Bill. The bill confers on shop assistants and workers in all commercial establishments including newspapers and news-agency offices statutory rights with respect to earned leave, weekly holiday, minimum working hours etc. Workers in all commercial establishments will not be required to work for more than 10 hours a day with two hours rest in the afternoon.

Position in the former Punjab area:

Names of industries in which a minimum wage is fixed:

Shawl weaving establishments; Rice mill, flour mill or dal mill; Tea plantations, Oil mills, Inferior employees under local authorities; Public Motor Transport; Tanneries and Agriculture.

No. of workers benefited by the enforcement of Minimum Wages Act: about 30,000.

Average monthly earnings: about Rs. 65-8-0.

Position in the former PEPSU area:

Under the Minimum Wages Act, 1948, the Government fixed minimum rates of wages for workers employed, in stone-breaking or stone-crushing, under any local authority, in any oil mill, in road construction or in building operation, in Public Motor Transport, in any rice mill or dal mill and in agriculture.

EDUCATION

1956-56 No. of primary and Basic Schools: 12,609; of Middle Schools: 1,001; of High Schools: 986; of Arts and Science Colleges: 73; of Professional Colleges: 24.

No. of students (boys and girls) receiving education in Schools and Colleges (1957-58): 17.5 lakhs.

Total number of institutions: 15,918.

The State Budget in the Punjab for education was Rs. 645 lakhs for 1956-57 and the PEPSU Rs. 163 lakhs.

The aim of the Second Plan is to bring to schools 60 to 65 per cent of the children in the age-group 6-11 and 37 per cent of the elementary group 11-14. Ten per cent of the elementary schools will be converted into the basic type, while there will be a substantial expansion in other fields in the form of conversion of high schools into the multi-purpose type.

Technical institutions will also be expanded so as to raise the admission from 40 to 105 in the Engineering College, Chandigarh; from 40

HEALTH

Hospitals and dispensaries: 571; Number of beds: 3,434; Maternity & Child Welfare Centres: 141.

T.B. Hospitals: Amritsar, Chattru (Kangra), Jullundur, Tanda, and T.B. Clinics at Dismampur, Sangrur, Ka-aul and one each at district headquarters in the Punjab.

Medical & Dental Colleges: Three Medical Colleges at Amritsar, Ludhiana and Patiala, and one Dental College at Amritsar.

During the First Plan period

- (1) Fourteen Hospitals were modernised;
- (2) Ten Hospitals and 177 Dispensaries were taken over under the control of the State;
- (3) Eight new hospitals, 13 subsidised dispensaries and 65 Ayurvedic dispensaries were opened;
- (4) A Sanatorium was established at Tanda for 200 indoor patients. Rs. 4.10 lakhs were distributed as grants to T.B. clinics which now number 12—one at every district headquarters;
- (5) Before 1951, there were only 188 beds available for T.B. patients. This number has now increased to 430;
- (6) Water supply and drainage scheme was extended to 18 towns and 52 rural units;
- (7) There was a reduction of malaria cases from 6.8 lakhs in 1950 to 3.8 lakhs in 1954;
- (8) Construction of new premises for Rajindra Hospital at Patiala with provision for 500 beds;
- (9) Opening of new Hospitals at Dadri, Gobindgarh, Nabha and Bhatinda;
- (10) T.B. Clinics at Sangrur; and
- (11) Expansion of the T.B. Clinic, Dharampur and the Civil Hospital, Bhatinda.

The three medical colleges in the State, are the Glancy Medical College, Amritsar, the Women's Christian Medical College, Ludhiana and the Medical College at Patiala.

In the Second Five-Year Plan period a sum of Rs. 963½ lakhs will be spent in the State on health plans. Out of this, a sum of Rs. 400 lakhs will be for water supply, drainage and sanitation schemes in the rural areas.

With the establishment of 36 more primary Health Units in the rural areas (with provision for maternity and child welfare service at these units) and of 200 Ayurvedic Dispensaries, the further nationalisation of dispensaries, the expansion of the tuberculosis clinics and the B.C.G. campaign, it is calculated that at the end of the Second Plan, medical relief will be available for every village within a five-mile radius. The number of beds in the various hospitals of the State is also expected to increase to 9,990.

The Five-Year Plan for the former PEPSU provides for the opening of a Dental College, a Mental Hospital, and a T.B. clinic at Narau with 18 beds, a V.D. clinic at Dharampur, a Civil Hospital at Dhuri, four hospitals for women at Narwana, Barnala, Sunam and Basai and the extension of some existing hospitals. There is also a provision for the opening of 90 rural medical centres.

Six re-organised B.C.G. teams are now functioning and two more such teams are being appointed. During the first four years of the Plan, 47,13,789 persons were tuberculin tested and 13,40,005 persons B.C.G. vaccinated.

In order to improve the existing water supply and to provide drainage for the removal of sullage water in urban and rural areas, grants to the extent of Rs. 12,00,000 (Rs. 8,00,000 for urban and Rs. 4,00,000 for rural schemes) were paid to the Local Bodies in the State during the first four years of the Plan. A sum of Rs. 10,00,000 is provided for disbursement during 1957-59. Under this arrangement water-supply and drainage schemes of 18 towns and 52 water-supply schemes of rural areas (excluding minor sanitary works in Panchayat villages) were financed.

Anti-Malaria measures: The Punjab State participated in the National Malaria Control Programme initiated by the Government of India. As a result of intensive anti-malaria measures under this programme about 34,00,000 people have so far been protected against malaria.

The Anti-Venereal Disease Team functioning in Kangra District with headquarters at Kulu, has already screened as many as 19,107 persons and has treated positive cases.

22 Maternity and Child Welfare Centres were opened during the First Plan of which 10 are maintained by the State. A grant-in-aid of Rs. 7,000 is being distributed every year in the Local Bodies for the extension of Maternity & Child Welfare Services.

Position in the former Punjab :

Total no. of hospitals and dispensaries: 657 (1955-56).

Number of beds in these hospitals: 8,775.

Medical aid is provided to about 60 lakh persons every year in these hospitals and dispensaries.

Number of hospitals exclusively reserved for women: 31. Number of beds: 1,167.

Number of maternity and child welfare centres: 104.

Number of District Board and Municipal dispensaries and hospitals: 258; Subsidised: 88; Private: 61.

The following figures are for 1954 unless otherwise stated:

Number of allopathic Hospitals and Dispensaries: Urban Hospitals 108; Rural Hospitals 10; Urban Dispensaries 115; Rural Dispensaries 244.

Total number of beds in allopathic Hospitals and Dispensaries: 6,448.

Number of Special Hospitals with the number of beds in each within brackets: Tuberculosis 2 (188); Dental Diseases 1; Eye Diseases 2 (470); Leprosy 3 (442); Mental Diseases 1 (500).

Total number of Ayurvedic and Unani Doctors: 17,872; Nurses: 1,186; Dais: 2,780; Compounders: 2,491.

Position in the former PEPSU:

Number of allopathic hospitals (1955): 49.

Number of allopathic dispensaries: 104 (Urban 35; Rural 69).

Total number of beds in allopathic hospitals and dispensaries (1955): 1,643.

Number of Ayurvedic and Unani dispensaries: 52 (1953).

Total number of allopathic doctors and compounders (1955): Doctors: 251 (men 217; women 34); Compounders: 314 (men 283; women 31); Male nurses: 12; Female nurses: 83.

CO-OPERATION

Total No. of societies (1955-56): 10,917; Total membership: 875,326; Working capital: Rs. 23.85 crores.

Some particulars about co-operation in the former Punjab area for March 1955 are given below:

Total number of societies: about 16,000; Total working capital: about Rs. 16 crores; Share capital of Provincial Co-operative Bank: Rs. 26.55 lakhs; Share capital of District Central Co-operative Banks: Rs. 9 lakhs each.

Particulars relating to the former PEPSU area are given below:

Total number of registered co-operative societies at the end of June 1955: 2,795.

Total membership of co-operative societies: 89,087.

Total working capital: Rs. 2.46 crores.

Main Heads	Rs. in lakhs
	Punjab region	PEPSU region
I. Agriculture and Rural Development except Community Projects	1,240.19	677.35
II. Community Projects and N.E.S. Blocks	931.00	169.10

Total	12,634.64	3,608.28

In formulating the Second Five-Year Plan not only is provision made for the completion of such Projects as were started in the First Plan, but adequate funds have also been provided for the development of Industries, Transport, Communications, Health and Education.

It is hoped that by 1960-61, 31-22 lakh acres of more land will be irrigated by the canal system and other major schemes. This will result in an enormous increase in the agricultural production. The addition in foodgrains will be 5-9 lakh tons, in cotton 3-45 lakh bales, sugar-cane 1-1 lakh tons and oil seeds 14,000 tons over the 1955-56 figures. On the electricity side, it is proposed to construct further generating units to achieve a generating capacity of 96,30,000 KWH. The benefits of electricity will be extended to the rural area covering 4,000 to 5,000 additional villages in the Punjab region and 700 villages in PEPSU. The per capita consumption of electricity in the Punjab is now 10 KWH. This is expected to rise to 30 KWH. by 1960-61.

Types of each society and number of each type: PEPSU State Co-operative Bank Ltd.: 1; Central Banks: 8; Banking Unions: 10; Central Grain Dealers' Syndicate: 1; Industrial Unions: 4; Agricultural Credit Societies: 1,691; Agri. Non-Credit: 301; Non-Agri. Credit: 448; Non-Agri. Non-Credit: 331.

FIVE-YEAR PLANS

PUNJAB'S First Five-Year Plan (1950-51 to 1955-56) as finally accepted by the Planning Commission envisaged an expenditure of Rs. 33.86 crores out of which Rs. 33.72 crores were spent by the end of the year 1955-56. Expenditure on the First Five-Year Plan in erstwhile PEPSU amounted to Rs. 9.03 crores against a provision of Rs. 9.20 crores.

In addition to the First Five-Year Plan, in the Punjab before integration, development expenditure amounting to Rs. 90.64 crores was also incurred on several Centrally-sponsored schemes such as Bhakra-Nangal and Community Projects (Rs. 82.12 crores) and on purely State schemes (Rs. 8.52 crores).

In PEPSU some schemes of local development work such as paving of streets, construction of pucca drains, repairs of drinking wells and school buildings, public sanitary latrines, construction of drains and culverts, village roads etc., were also undertaken besides the Five-Year Plan projects.

The Central Government contributed 50 per cent of the expenditure on these schemes while the State Government and the local inhabitants shared 25 per cent each. Including the expenditure on Community Development work in erstwhile PEPSU which amounted to about Rs. 50 lakhs, the total net cost on various schemes executed during the First Five-Year Plan period came to Rs. 133.80 crores.

During the Second Five-Year Plan a net expenditure of Rs. 162.43 crores will be incurred as per details given below:-

Along with the expansion of technical institutions, it is proposed during the Second Five-Year Plan to give elementary education to 60 to 65 per cent of the children in the age group 6-11 and 87½ per cent of the age group 11-14 as against the All India target of 60 per cent and 19 per cent respectively. Besides, ten per cent of the elementary schools will be converted to the basic type, while a substantial expansion will also be effected in the conversion of high schools to the multi-purpose type, in girls' education, in training facilities and in social education.

With the establishment of more hospitals, dispensaries and health units in the rural areas and further nationalisation of dispensaries, it is anticipated that after the end of the Second Plan, medical relief will be available within a radius of five miles of every village.

The Second Plan provides for the construction of 1,457 miles of roads in the Punjab region and 600 miles in the PEPSU area.

With the establishment of 169 additional blocks during the Second Five-Year Plan the entire State will come under the Community Development Programme.

The Government phase of development of the Chandigarh Capital would also be completed during the Second Plan period. The revised estimated cost of the project is about Rs. 24 crores.

Colonization of Bhakra-Nangal Areas: Of the various subjects included under the head "Miscellaneous" the most important is the Colonization of the Bhakra-Nangal Areas. This seeks to establish marketing and factory facilities in the large-areas, which are to be irrigated, and will now produce a large surplus in places long used and limited to subsistence and famine production levels.

A sum of Rs. 7 lakhs was provided during the First Plan period while Rs. 178 lakhs have been earmarked for expenditure during the Second Plan.

Development of Scheduled Areas of Lahaul and Spiti: A beginning has been made, with Central Government assistance, to open up and develop the inaccessible scheduled areas of Lahaul and Spiti. This will pave the way for more rapid development. A sum of Rs. 30 lakhs is to be spent under this head during the Plan period.

Publicity: Under this item a sum of Rs. eight lakhs is to be spent under the head "Central Schemes". Six hundred community listening sets have been installed and another 2,300 sets are expected to be received during 1955-59.

BUDGET (1955-59)

Revenue receipts: Rs. 47.81 crores.
Revenue expenditure: Rs. 49.89 crores.
Deficit: Rs. 2.08 crores.

DISPLACED PERSONS

Every fifth individual in the former Punjab area is a displaced person; the 1951 Census puts the figure of emigrants from Pakistan who have settled in this area at 2,375,997 out of a total population of 12,641,205. Displaced land-owners from West Pakistan were immediately put on the evacuee land left by Muslims in this part of the Punjab. There was a big gap between the available agricultural evacuee area—47,35,310 ordinary acres in Punjab and PEPSU—and the land abandoned by Indian nationals—67,29,050 ordinary acres—in West Pakistan. This gap was covered by adopting a scheme of graded cuts.

Resettlement of displaced persons is now complete and the Relief and Rehabilitation Department of the State Government, set up to deal with this, is in the ultimate stages of being wound up (March 1958).

Over 40 lakhs of people are now satisfactorily resettled, either with permanent rights on land or running small and medium scale industries or undergoing training in various vocational and technical institutions.

The entire work of resettlement in the rural areas is expected to be completed during the course of 1958.

About three lakh land allottees have so far been conferred permanent rights and substantial progress has been made in the allotment of rural houses.

On the urban side almost the entire work has been accomplished, a number of townships have been set up where displaced persons have been resettled and gainfully employed.

The Government is now setting up medium, small and cottage industries in these townships. A sum of Rs. 11.17 lakhs has been allocated for 1958-59 for this purpose. Another sum of Rs. 15 lakhs has been earmarked for giving loans for industrial rehabilitation.

The Government is maintaining homes for taking care of destitute women, and infirmaries for the old age. Inexpatriated orphans are being maintained in schools and free treatment is being provided to tuberculous patients.

An aggregate amount of a little over Rs. five crores has been paid so far either in cash or in the form of allotment of evacuee or Government owned immovable property on quasi-permanent basis.

SHIROMANI GURDWARA PARBANDHAK COMMITTEE, AMRITSAR

(Teja Singh Samundri Hall, Amritsar.)

The Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee is constituted under the provisions of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act, 1925 (Punjab Act VIII of 1925). It consists of:

- (i) 132 elected members;
- (ii) Head Priests of Darbar Sahib, Amritsar and the following four Takhts:—(a) Sri Akal Takht Sahib, Amritsar; (b) Sri Takht Keoghar Sahib, Anandpur; (c) Sri Takht Patna Sahib, Patna; and (d) Sri Takht Hasur Sahib, Nanded (Bombay).
- (iii) 25 members co-opted by the above mentioned 137 members. Out of these co-opted members at least 12 members are co-opted from the area covered by the former PEPSU State and not more than four members from the area covered by the former Punjab.

Every Sikh man or woman, more than 21 years of age, who resides in the Punjab is entitled to have his name registered on the electoral roll of a constituency formed for the election of a member or members of the board provided he does not trim or shave his beard or Keshas except in case of Sahajdhari Sikh and does not smoke or take alcoholic drinks. Every voter is eligible for election provided he is not of unsound mind, is not an undischarged insolvent, is not an apostate from the Sikh religion, does not take alcoholic drinks, is not a Minister of a Notified Sikh Gurdwara, other than mentioned above in clause (ii), is not a paid servant of any Notified Sikh Gurdwara, being a Keshadhari Sikh is not an Amritdhari and can read and write Gurmukhi.

Elections to the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee are held every five years. Dates for the elections are fixed by the State Government and the preparation of electoral rolls and other arrangements are also made by the state Government.

The Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee directly manages some of the important and historic Sikh Gurdwaras situated within the Punjab. All the above mentioned Gurdwaras are administered by a Committee of Management consisting of five members of whom four are elected by the voters of the constituency concerned and one member is nominated by the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee. The S.G.P.C. supervises the affairs of these Gurdwaras.

A Judicial Commission is also constituted under the provisions of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act to settle disputes regarding the management of the Gurdwaras. This commission has the same powers as are vested in a Court by the Code of Civil Procedure, and the Commission has unlimited jurisdiction as regards the value of the suits throughout the Punjab.

Under the provisions of the Sikh Gurdwaras Act, the S.G.P.C. and the Gurdwaras under its control and supervision can spend their funds for religious, charitable, educational or industrial purposes and also for such non-political purposes as are connected with the general uplift and welfare of the Sikhs. Its accounts are annually audited by the Auditors appointed by the State Government.

In the last Gurdwara elections, out of 132 elected members 110 members were elected on the ticket of the Shiromani Akali Dal, four members on the ticket of the Khalsa Dal (a Congress Sikh) and 18 on the ticket of the Desh Bhagat Board, i.e. Communists.

The S.G.P.C. manages about 300 Gurdwaras in the Punjab. Before partition there were about 750 Gurdwaras under the S.G.P.C.

The S.G.P.C. also runs an Arts College, an Industrial College and School and several High Schools, hospitals, and libraries.

GEOGRAPHY

The Aravalli mountains intersect Rajasthan from end to end by a line running north-east and south-west. The heights of Mount Abu, merged into Rajasthan on November 1, 1956, are close to the south-western extremity of the range, while its north-eastern end may be said to terminate near Khetri almost on the borders of Delhi.

There are two main regions, one to the north-west of the hills and the other to the south-east. On the whole the north-west region is sandy, ill-watered and unproductive; it improves gradually as we move from west to east. In the extreme west it is mere desert, while towards the east it is comparatively fertile and habitable. The only river of any consequence here is the Luni. The great desert forming the whole of the frontier between Rajasthan and Sind is covered by sand-hills on which grows a kind of coarse grass in the dry season and a slightly richer vegetation depending upon the scanty rainfall.

The cultivation is everywhere poor and precarious. Along the base of the Aravalli range the land is well cultivated.

The region south-east of the Aravallis is higher, more fertile, and very diversified in character. It contains extensive hill ranges, long stretches of rocky wood and woodland. The region is traversed by many rivers and in some parts there are wide valleys, fertile table-lands and great stretches of excellent soil. The chief rivers are Banas and Chambal.

There are no natural fresh-water lakes in Rajasthan, the only considerable basin being the well-known salt lake at Sambhar. There are, however, numerous artificial lakes in the eastern half of the State. Among the many artificial lakes mention may be made of the Jal Samand, the Raj Samand, the Pichola (Udaipur), the Pushkar and the Anasagar (Ajmer).

Rainfall is very unequally distributed throughout Rajasthan. The summers are very hot and hot winds and dust storms are common. The winters are very cold. The change of temperature between day and night is sudden, excessive and very trying.

MINERALS

Rajasthan is an important mineral and building stone producing State. It produces on an average about 60 per cent of India's total production of scapolite. It ranks next to Bihar in mica which is chiefly found in Ajmer, Udaipur, Bhilwara and Jaipur Districts.

The non-metallic minerals are silica sand, Feldspar, Asbestos Barytes, Clays, Dolomite, Fuller's earth, Bentonite, etc. The metallic minerals are lead, zinc, silver ore and tungsten ore. Lead concentrates and zinc concentrates are prepared at Zawar mines in Udaipur. About 5 ounces of silver is found in a ton of lead, zinc and silver ore of Zawar mines. Appreciable tonnage of iron and manganese ores has also been produced. The State is the sole supplier of gypsum for fertiliser manufacture to Sindri plant.

Lignite coal is mined near Palana in Bikaner Division. There are vast deposits of high quality building stones such as marbles, sandstones and limestones. Limestone is used for the manufacture of cement at Lakheri and Fawal Madhopur and for lime at a number of places. Marble quarried at Makrana in Jodhpur Division is famous as building stone.

Large resources of sodium sulphate and salt also occur at Didwana and Sambhar lake. Thirty different varieties of minerals are worked out.

Production in thousand tons of some important Minerals in 1956: Asbestos, 4.3; Barytes, 20; Bentonite, 30; Calcite, 1.10; Emerald, 91.85 (lbs.); Fuller's earth, 6.03; Gypsum, 797.76; Glass sand, 24.43; Iron ore, 128.39; Lead, Zinc and Silver: (a) Run of Mine ore, 89.36; (b) Lead concentrate, 3.90; (c) Zinc concentrate, 6.88; Lignite (coal), 25.62; Manganese ore, 6.20; Marble, 20.20; Mica (cut), 40.56; Soapstone, 37.18; Selenite, 3.38.

Among the large-scale industries of Rajasthan, cotton textile, cement, glass and sugar are important. There are 11 cotton textile mills, 2 cement factories, 1 glass factory and 3 sugar mills in the State. The industrial production of some commodities during 1957 was as under:—

Cloth 166 lakh lbs. or 576 lakh yds.; yarn 373 lakh lbs.; cement 6.6 lakh tons; glass 695 tons; sodium sulphate 6.8 lakh mds.; salt 75.00 lakh mds.; sugar 15.5 thousand tons. (The last three figures relate to the financial year 1956-57).

The most important cottage and small-scale industries are Tie and Dye Fabrics, Gota Kinari (Silver and Gold laces), Lacquer wooden toys, Handmade paper, Papier Mache toys, Gem cutting, cloth printing, manufacture of tools and implements, Embroidered shoes (Jutiyan) and leather bags, and water bottles (Badlas).

Among the chief exports are salt, wool, woollen fabrics, raw cotton, oilseeds, opium, ghee, marble and sandstone, hides, printed clothes, camels, cattle, sheep and goats. The main imports include food grains, cotton piece goods, sugar, metals, timber and kerosene oil. The principal trade centres are the capitals of the former States.

AGRICULTURE

Rajasthan which used to be a deficit State before the first Five Year Plan period is now a surplus State.

LAND TENURE

Land Tenure Systems in the State:

There are three kinds of land tenure in the State viz., Ryotwari, Jagirdari and Zamindari.

The Rajasthan Tenancy Act aims at introducing a uniform Tenancy Law for the whole of the State and will remove the diversity of conditions prevailing in different parts of Rajasthan in respect of Land Tenures and relations of tenants and landlords or tenants and Government.

The Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagirs Act, 1952 was enacted for the resumption of Jagir Lands, with the exception of jagirs utilized for the maintenance of any place of religious worship or for the performance of religious service. An Amendment Act was enacted in 1954. It contains provisions for allotment of Khudkasat land to Jagirdars and removes the exemption from resumption to Jagirs with annual income below Rs. 5,000. It provides for a scale of compensation including rehabilitation grant.

The Act came into force from 18th February 1952. Resumption of Jagirs was started immediately after the Amendment Act was passed on 15th June 1954.

The present position regarding resumption of jagirs is that all jagirs with an annual income of Rs. 200 or more in the former United State of Rajasthan, and all settled jagirs with an annual income of Rs. 500 or more in the pre-reorganisation State of Rajasthan have been resumed.

The number of jagirs thus resumed is 8,254 with an estimated annual income of Rs. 202 lakhs. Of a total of Rs. 31 crores payable as compensation in 15 years, a sum of Rs. 410 lakhs has been paid as compensation.

About 170,000 petty jagirs, with an aggregate annual income of Rs. 70 lakhs, are yet to be resumed in Rajasthan. Also to be resumed are 5,000 jagirs of minor istamaradars and maufidars in the former Ajmer State, with an annual income of about Rs. 2,00,000.

Source of acquisition of compensation money: From the resources of the State with the assistance of the Central Government.

How the tenants are helped to acquire the land so released: Rules have been framed from time to time for allotment of land with a view to encouraging Grow More Food. These were revised in 1953 to make better provision for allotment of land to landless persons and agricultural labourers.

The State Legislature has passed an Act for abolition of religious jagirs also.

The Land Revenue Act, enacted in 1956, consolidated land laws. It regulated the appointment and powers of revenue courts and revenue officers for the preparation and maintenance of maps and land records, settlement of revenue and rents, and partition of estates.

Among other enactments may be mentioned the Jagirdar's Debt Reduction Act, the Relief of Agricultural Indebtedness Act and the Agricultural Loans Act.

The Agricultural Rents Control Act, limited the rent payable to the zamindar to twice the land revenue.

The Tenancy Act, 1955 ensured security of tenure. The law recognised only three kinds of tenants, khatast tenants, tenants of khatast and ghar-khatast tenants.

The fragmentation of holdings was undone by the Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1954.

The Bhoodan Yagna Act was passed in 1954 and the Bhoodan Yagna Board created by it started functioning in January 1955. The Board has received 411,405 acres of land from as many as 7,160 donors and villages. It has distributed 31,985 acres of land among 5,150 landless persons.

The majority of the holdings in Rajasthan are below ten acres each and, naturally, uneconomical. The number of holdings less than an acre in area is more than 432,000 and of the 268,000 acres these cover, 50,000 acres are cultivated by sub-tenants.

Holdings of 1,000 acres and above number 500 (and account for 1,082,316 acres), those between 50 and 100 acres 149,050, those between 10 and 50 acres 38,283 and those between 100 and 1,000 acres 24,505. The average holding is now estimated at 15 acres.

The Lands Summary Settlement Act, 1953, empowered the State Government to undertake summary settlement in unsettled areas and to fix cash rents for land holdings, as an interim measure.

Unoccupied Government land, comprising culturable waste and land temporarily cultivated, is estimated at 14 million acres and the number of landless cultivators 375,000. There is, thus, enough land with the Government for allotment to landless agriculturists.

Persons to whom this land is to be allotted: The landless peasants for Khudkast.

IRRIGATION

Net irrigated area in the State: 3,335,000 acres (1955-56).

Net irrigated area by sources (1955-56): Canals 702,000 acres; tanks 440,000 acres; wells 2,164,000 acres; other sources 39,000 acres.

Gross irrigated area under crops (1955-56): Food crops 2,984,000 acres; Cotton 301,000 acres; Sugarcane 60,000 acres; others 592,000 acres.

Area irrigated more than once: 602,000 acres. Names of irrigation projects in operation in the respective divisions showing the area irrigated:

Udaipur Division: Madar: 500 acres; Fateh Sagar Lake with channels: 500 acres; Swaroop Sagar and Pichola with channels: 350 acres; Bhupal Sagar Tank: 2,200 acres; Jalsamand Lake: 13,000 acres.

Kankroli Division: Rajsamand: 6,000 acres; Nahar Sagar: 3,800 acres; Unmed Sagar: 4,400 acres.

Kotah Division: Unmed Sagar tank including Ramgarh Canals: 5,300 acres; Eklera Sagar: 2,460 acres; Parvati Canals: 11,580 acres.

Jaipur West Division: Chappewara: 5,200 acres; Kalakh Sagar: 3,400 acres; Tori Sagar: 4,450 acres.

Jaipur East Division: Sainthal Sagar: 1,900 acres; J. Ramgarh: 5,250 acres; Madho Sagar: 2,000 acres; Mansarwar: 1,400 acres; Galal Sagar: 40 acres; Dhol: 5,100 acres.

Jaisal Division: Jaisal: 32,000 acres; Surpura: 600 acres; Jaswant Sagar: 2,000 acres; Sumair Samand: 1,600 acres.

Matya Division: Sikri: 9,000 acres; Jalsamand: 3,760 acres; Jal Sagar: 600 acres; Mangalsar: 830 acres; Boohara: 3,000 acres; Ajan Bund: 2,300 acres; Pichola Canal: 10,600 acres; Ramsagar Tank & Canal: 5,000 acres; Urmila Sagar Tank & Canal: 3,500 acres; Tal-Shahi Tank and Channel: 400 acres.

Ganganagar Division: Gang Canal: 638,000 acres.

Central Sector works in progress: The names of the schemes giving within brackets the cost in lakhs, expenditure upto end of March 1956 and the area to be irrigated on completion: Bhakra (Rs. 484.87 lakhs, Rs. 353.16 lakhs; 570,000 acres); Chambal (Rs. 1,884.80 lakhs; Rs. 208.00 lakhs; 5,50,000 acres).

In 1956-57 two major canals namely Bhakra and Ghaggar irrigated 691,548 acres, 92,556 acres and 12,336 acres of land respectively.

New Works

Statement showing new works proposed to be taken up during the Second Five-Year Plan:

Multi-purpose schemes showing within brackets the location, estimated cost and area to be irrigated on completion: Bhakra Nangal (Ganganagar District: Rs. 2,136.87 lakhs; 570,000 acres); (i) Works in Rajasthan (Rs. 464.87 lakhs); (ii) Share of common works (Rs. 1,872.00 lakhs) Chambal Project (Kota and Bundi: Rs. 1,815 lakhs; 550,000 acres); (i) Kota Parraze, Rs. 307.00 lakhs; (ii) Right main canal, Rs. 762 lakhs; (iii) Left canal, Rs. 186 lakhs; (iv) Rana Pratap Sagar dam, Rs. 360 lakhs.

Major and medium works showing within brackets the cost in lakhs of rupees and the potential annual irrigation in acres: Panas (Rs. 480 lakhs; 225,000 acres); Jakham (Rs. 117 lakhs; 4,000 acres); Mahi (Rs. 315.76 lakhs; 70,000 acres); Berachat Padgaon (Rs. 63.77 lakhs; 18,290 acres); Betach at V. Nagar (Rs. 49.47 lakhs; 10,500 acres); Wagan (Rs. 64.95 lakhs; 20,000 acres); Alina (Rs. 35.45 lakhs; 11,779 acres); Sabli (Rs. 25 lakhs; 40,000 acres); Khari Feeder (Rs. 20 lakhs; 8,000 acres); Khari Storage (Rs. 30 lakhs; 14,000 acres); Baudi (Rs. 26 lakhs; 8,000 acres); Sukli (Rs. 18 lakhs; 8,000 acres); West Banas (Rs. 48.75 lakhs; 13,364 acres); Manohar Thana (Rs. 95 lakhs; 50,000 acres); Sawan Bhadon (Rs. 11 lakhs; 10,000 acres); Narayan Sagar (Ajmer) (Rs. 38.13 lakhs; 8,000 acres); Bharatpur Feeder from Agra Canal (Rs. 14.76 lakhs; 18,000 acres); Pariati in Bharatpur District (Rs. 87.10 lakhs; 37,000 acres); Meja in Bhilwara District (Rs. 59 lakhs; 37,000 acres); Gudha in Bundi District (Rs. 42.35 lakhs; 6,700 acres); Jawai in Pali District (Rs. 300 lakhs; 46,000 acres).

Minor irrigation works: Area to be irrigated: 212,000 acres.

Cost of New Minor Irrigation Works in the agriculture sector financed by the Ministry of Food and Agriculture: Rs. 247.31 lakhs.

Number of wells constructed during the First Five-Year Plan: 25,000.

Scarcity area works: cost Rs. 340.25 lakhs; area to be irrigated 267,600 acres.

Rajasthan Canal

Rajasthan Canal Construction: The Government of India has decided to take up the construction of the Rajasthan Canal from the Harke barrage across the Sutlej. The Governments of Rajasthan and the Punjab have accordingly started making preliminary arrangements for the execution of the scheme.

The Rajasthan Canal, which is a Second Five-Year Plan project, will have a discharge of 18,500 cusecs at the head. About 425 miles in length, it will benefit extensive areas in Ganganagar, Bikaner and Jaisalmer Districts of Rajasthan State. The project will be developed in two stages.

The rainfall in these districts is scanty and varies between three and 12 inches per annum. The region is sparsely populated and frequently ravaged by famine. The construction of the canal will open up a new area for agriculture, improve the economic condition of the people and rehabilitate a large number of refugees from Pakistan.

The main canal will be in two parts (a) Rajasthan Feeder 134.2 miles long (110.8 miles in Punjab and 23.4 miles in Rajasthan); (b) Rajasthan Canal 291.6 miles long lying entirely in Rajasthan territory.

Estimated to cost Rs. 66.47 crores, the canal will provide irrigation facilities to a gross area of 5.11 million acres, with a total culturable commanded area of 3.36 million acres (by flow). On full development the area irrigated annually will be about 2.62 million acres, yielding about one million tons of crops annually valued at Rs. 30 crores.

The building of this canal will involve 6,700 million cft. of earthwork and 180 million sq. ft. of lining for the main canal only and will create employment for over half a lakh of people during construction period. The project will bring under irrigation a large desert area.

Direct revenue from this project after full development of the area in the pre-storage period will be about Rs. one crore by way of water rates only. Betterment levy will bring to the exchequer Rs. 45 crores and sale of Government waste land another Rs. 67 crores. Indirect revenue such as rise in income from income-tax, excise posts and telegraphs, railway, etc. will also be considerable.

POWER PROJECTS

Installed capacity (1956): 43,757 kW.

Position in 1957: (in thousand k.w.h.)

Electricity Generated: Steam or Gas—66,219;

Diesel—27,358.

Electricity purchased from non-electric utilities—166.

Total electricity generated and purchased—93,773.

Electricity sold to ultimate consumer—66,866.

Electricity sold as percentage of electricity generated—71.13.

K.w.h. generated per thousand of population—5.861.

K.w.h. generated per square mile—708.

Names of power stations in operation with their effective capacity in kW and production during 1955-56 in units in brackets: Jaipur (5,200 kW; 25,520,947 units); Bikaner (4,200 kW; 17,758,152 units); Jodhpur (3,000 kW; 12,535,233 units); Alwar (250 kW; 1,111,387 units); Bharatpur (335 kW; 1,078,788 units); Bhilwara (75 kW; 120,000 units); Deeg (40 kW); Dholpur (160 kW; 1,009,000 units); Dungarpur (80 kW; 492,997 units); Jaisalmer (60 kW; 75,028 units); Jhalawar (45 kW; 232,226 units); Karauli (25 kW; 138,641 units); Kishangarh (60 kW; 9,000 units); Shri Ganganagar (900 kW; 2,277,578 units); Kotah (324 kW; 3,519,780 units); Newal (80 kW; 104,786 units); Sagwara (7 kW; 13,500 units); Shahpura (8 kW; 44,164 units); Tonk (100 kW; 457,739 units); Hindaun (30 kW; 24,357 units); Sikar (60 kW; 6,782 units). Total consumers on 31-12-1956—48,466.

The extensions of the existing power stations at Jaipur, Bikaner and Jodhpur have been completed.

In addition to the above 21 Government-owned power houses there were privately-owned power houses at the end of 1956-57 at the following places: Bundi, Udaipur, Pali, Rajgarh, Sirhi, Abu Road, Bhawanmandi, Ladnu,

Nawalgarh, Pratapgarh, Banswara, Hanuman-garh, Surgarh, Garhi, Nathdwara, Pilani, Merta, Phalodi, Kuchaman, Ajmer and Bawar.

Under the development of thermal power stations scheme, diesel generating sets aggregating 1,050 k.W. were erected at four stations during 1956-57.

The scheme of rural and urban electrification provides for the installation of diesel and steam generating sets providing 5,700 kW installed capacity along with transmission and distribution lines.

The plant and equipment for this programme is being obtained under the Technical Co-operation Mission Aid Programme for which 1.06 million dollars have been provided.

Under the urban and rural electrification scheme to provide employment opportunities, 7,100 kW generating capacity is going to be added by 1958-59.

Bhakra Nangal Project: A total firm power amounting to 105,000 kW would be available for Rajasthan in the post-Bhakra Stage. Share of Rajasthan in the Bhakra Nangal Project 15.2 per cent. The canal system of the project will command an area of 9,00,000 acres in Rajasthan.

Summary of the total capital cost upto the end of 1963-64 of the whole project for Rajasthan would be about Rs. 829.026 lakhs.

Estimated rise in output after completion: 15,000 kW by the end of the 10th year of operation. For more details see under "Irrigation."

Chambal Hydro-Electric Scheme: It is a multi-purpose scheme and will serve 29 localities in Rajasthan. The project has been divided into three stages. The first stage will comprise the Gandhi Nagar Dam and the Kotah Barrage and a network of canals on either side of the barrage for irrigating 11 lakh acres in Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan. Power generation in the 1st stage will be 75,000 kW and the total area to be irrigated would be 5.5 lakh acres in Rajasthan.
The revised cost of stage I is estimated at Rs.
63.50 crores. For more details see under "Irrigation."

The project will be financed by the Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan Governments.

MEDICAL & PUBLIC HEALTH

In 1956, the State had about 281 hospitals, 207 dispensaries, 51 maternity and child welfare centres, 94 maternity hospitals, 435 wards in ladies and other hospitals, 2 leprosy hospitals with 80 beds, 3 mental hospitals with 204 beds, 2 isolation hospitals with 74 beds, 243 other hospitals with 5,193 beds. There were 843 doctors, 466 nurses, 537 midwives, 1,009 com-pounders, 185 sanitary inspectors 849 vaccina-tors, 39 health visitors and also malaria surveyors, functioning in the State.

Patients treated in Government hospitals and dispensaries (1956): indoor 140,587; outdoor 8,235,176.

There is only one medical college the Sawal Mansingh Medical College at Jaipur.

ganagar, Sawal-Madhopur, Alwar, Kotah, Jodhpur, Udaipur, (Chambal, Bikaner, Bundi, Bijay-nagar, Tonk, Bawar and Iakheri).

State Insurance was extended on 12th
December 1956 to six Centres: Jaipur, Jodhpur, Pali, Bikaner, Bhilwara, Lakhari.

The Insurance was extended to Sawal-
Madhopur with effect from March 1, 1958.
About 2,500 factory workers in this area will get the benefits of the State Insurance Act.

Medical care at Sawal-Madhopur will be provided by the State Government under the service system, for which one whole-time dispensary has been set up. For payment of cash benefits under the scheme, a sub-local office has been opened.

The employers of factories covered by the scheme will be required to pay their special contribution at 1½ per cent of the total wage bill.

Twelve Employment Exchanges function at Jaipur, Udaipur, Jodhpur, Kotah, Bikaner,

Provision for 1958-59: Rs. 20.00 crores.

Irrigation

Twenty irrigation and multi-purpose projects (other than the Rajasthan Canal) which will irrigate an area of 7.74 lakh acres in Rajasthan have been included in the Second Five Year Plan. The total cost of the scheme, some of which will be carried over to the Third Plan, is estimated at about Rs. 18.01 crores. Of this,
Rs. 10.54 crores are likely to be spent during the Second Plan period and 2.11 lakh acres will receive irrigation benefits during this period.
A sum of Rs. 13 lakhs has been allocated for investigations.

The following are the more important irrigation projects giving the total estimated cost, the area to be irrigated and the amount expected to be spent during the Second Five Year Plan period:

Banas Irrigation Project (Amarapura): cost
Rs. 4.80 crores; area to be benefited 2.3 lakh acres in Bhilwara, Ajmer, Tonk and Bundi Districts. Expected to be completed by 1965.

Mahi Project: cost Rs. 3.16 crores; will irrigate 70,000 acres in Banswara District; Rs. 60 lakhs to be spent during 2nd Plan.

Rampratapagar Dam: cost Rs. 2.02 crores (Rajasthan's share); will irrigate 1.5 lakh acres; Rs. 50 lakhs to be spent during 2nd Plan.
completion 1963-64.

Jakhm Irrigation Project: cost Rs. 117 lakhs; will irrigate 58,000 acres in Udaipur District; completion 1963; one crore to be spent 15,000 acres to be irrigated during 2nd Plan.

Manohar Thana Irrigation Project: cost Rs. 90
lakhs; will irrigate 50,000 acres in Jhalawar
District; completion during 2nd Plan.

Wagan Project; cost Rs. 65 lakhs; will irrigate 20,000 acres in Chittorgarh District; completion during 2nd Plan.

TRIPURA

Capital : Agartala.

Area : 4,032 sq. Miles ; Population : 6,39,029.

The number of refugees was 361,719 as on 31st December 1956. The total estimated population as on 31st December 1956 was 9,06,000.

After the reorganization in November 1956, the State has been a Union Territory.

Tripura Territory is bounded on the north by the Sylhet District of East Pakistan and Cachar District of the Indian Union, on the west by the Sylhet, Tippera and Noakhali Districts of East Pakistan and on the east by the Lushai Hill Tract District of the Indian Union and the Chittagong Hill Tracts of East Pakistan. The major portion of the Territory is hilly and full of jungles.

The agricultural wealth of the Territory consists of paddy, jute, cotton, tea and fruit such as pineapple, jackfruit, etc., while forests yield timber, firewood, bamboo and charcoal. Paddy is the main source of revenue.

There is only one District—Tripura, one municipality and no Panchayats.

The Territory is divided into ten administrative Sub-Divisions—Salar, Khawal, Kailashahar, Dharmanagar, Sonamura, Udulpur, Belonia, Sabroom, Kamalpur and Amarpur.

POPULATION

Salar Sub-Division has a population of 353,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into ten Tahsils—Salar, Purnanagar, Bantia, Mohanpur, Sonu, Ishan Chandranagar, Kanalia-nagar, Takarjala, Bishalgar, Charilam.

Khawal Sub-Division has a population of 75,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into four Tahsils—Khawal, Kalyanpur, Ashrambari and Tibanura.

Kailashahar Sub-Division has a population of 90,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into two Tahsils—Kailashahar and Patkroy.

Dharmanagar Sub-Division has a population of 90,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into five Tahsils—Dharmanagar, Brajchandranagar, Kurli, Kanchanpur and Longal.

Sonamura Sub-Division has a population of 60,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into five Tahsils—Sonamura, Kathalia, Pakshahar, Bhaypur and Matinagar.

Udulpur Sub-Division has a population of 67,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into two Tahsils—Rathakishorepore and Salgarah.

Belonia Sub-Division has a population of 60,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into seven Tahsils—Belonia, Rajanagar, Raikhanagar, Purnanagar, Siddhahar, Kishanmukh and Mahurpur.

Sabroom Sub-Division has a population of 31,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into five Tahsils—Sabroom, Manni, Amlichat, Samantrajan and Gorakaj.

Kamalpur Sub-Division has a population of 40,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into two Tahsils—Kamalpur and Kulai.

Amarpur Sub-Division has a population of 29,000 (31-12-1956) and is divided into three Tahsils—Biryani, Omphi and Dumbornagar.

The Chief Commissioner who is the head of the Territory, is assisted by Secretaries, each in charge of several Departments.

There is also a District Magistrate and an additional District Magistrate, and for each of the Divisions an S.D.O. On the judicial side there is a Judicial Commissioner's Court which is the highest Court in the Territory. There is also a District and Sessions Court, one Court of Subordinate and Assistant Sessions Judge and eight Munsiff Courts.

No. of persons speaking each of the languages prevalent in the State

Total cattle 302,865 ; Total buffaloes 40,477 ; Horses and ponies 746 ; Sheep 6,774 ; Goats 101,332 ; Other livestock 40,114.

The fishing population may be reckoned as 2,500 families.

Road mileage 724. Of this motorable 424, metalled 162, unmetalled 272.

There is no railway or water-way in the Territory. There are however, five aerodromes.

There are no irrigation works in the Territory.

Power position in 1956 : Installed capacity of plants 469 kW. No. of units generated 1,032,144 kWh. No. of units supplied to industry 120,374, for domestic purposes 572,211, for commercial 59,546, for public lamps 24,809.

The source of power is the Agartala Electric Supply in Agartala town. This is proposed to be nationalized and expanded. Expansion was expected to be completed at the end of 1957 when the capacity of the plant was expected to increase to 535 kW.

Average daily number of workers employed in registered factories 1,497 (1955).

Minimum wages are fixed in the following : tea plantations (Rs. 31 15-0 a month), bidi making (Rs. 39 a month).

Total no. of members of trade unions : 6,365

Labour Welfare Scheme : The Tripura Labour Welfare Scheme offers recreational, adult educational and vocational training facilities such as sewing, knitting, basket making etc. to the tea plantation labourers during the Second Five Year Plan. One Labour Welfare Centre was opened on 15-3-1957 at Mannivalley P.O. under Kailashahar Sub-Division. It is located in between 3 gardens and will serve about 30 labourers.

Employment Exchange : One District Employment Exchange was opened on 23-2-1957 at Agartala. In addition to the primary duty of placements, other important functions such as collection of factual information relating to employment situation on a local basis and for particular industries and occupation will be also made.

There are no large-scale industries in the Territory. Cottage industries include handlooms, carpentry, black-smithy, bidi making, soap, basketry, pottery. The total value of the finished goods will be about Rs. 1-40 crores. Most of these are family undertakings. Out of the 5,800 persons engaged in cottage industries about 800 are paid workers.

There are three types of land tenure in the Territory : Kayami Taluks, Takshishi Taluks, Khas Jami or Royati right.

The Acts governing the three systems are : Rajaas Sambandhiya Niyambali for the Kayami, Contract and customary law for the Takshishi, and the Landlord and Tenant Act (Act I of 1298 T.E.) for the Khas Jami.

The Kayami Taluks are held in fixed rent with full and permanent rights of ownership. If the rent is in arrear the taluk can be put up for sale.

The Takshishi are held on settlement, mostly for 20 years with succession right of renewal on enhanced revenue.

The more important provisions of the Landlord-Tenant Law are as follows :

Term of settlement is from 5 to 7 years. But if the tenant continues to pay rent, the settlement remains valid. Under the existing Tenancy Act, a tenant has no legal right to build a pucca house, excavate a tank, or grow or fell a prohibited tree in his holding. He is liable to be ejected if he fails to mutate his name within 6 months after his succession. Pucca structures can be constructed on lands settled in higher right (Kayami or Takshishi right).

No laws have been passed for the expropriation of the non-proprietary rentier class—the so-called Zamindari or Jagirdari abolition Acts.

Area possibly available for further cultivation through reclamation measures: 7,673,300 acres.

Three types of trees are planted in the State: (a) Fruit trees, (b) Fuel trees and (c) Timber trees.

Area of plantation in 1955-56 and new orchards: 18,361 acres.

Number in plantation: Fruit trees 1,444,466; Fuel and Timber trees 1,794,818.

Forest area of State: 10,554,760 acres (1955-56).

LIVESTOCK

The following figures are for June 30, 1954. Number of stud bulls: 6,155 (1955); Buffalo bulls: 1,178; No. of Rams: 873; No. of Bucks: 566; No. of Boars: 171.

Position 1956-57:

Number of stallion stands: 31; Donkey stands: 5.

No. of circle laboratories: 4; Central laboratories: one.

No. of veterinary hospitals: 251. Stockmen centres: 1,209.

No. of asst. surgeons and stockmen: 253 and 1,095 (1954).

No. of State poultry farms: 11 inclusive of Kalsi Farm. No. of poultry extension centres to be established under the Second Five Year Plan during 1956-57: 8.

No. of established poultry units: 7.

Number of sheep and wool research stations: One at Kishikash.

Cattle breeding: Intensive cattle breeding work has been done throughout the State. Nuclear herds of breeding stock of each breed are being maintained at the Government cattle breeding farms in each of the nine cattle breeding zones of the State. Besides, there are 68 artificial insemination centres functioning in the State.

In 1956-57 two new artificial insemination centres with six key village blocks were opened and two villages each were added to six old artificial insemination centres. Two cattle breeding extension centres were also opened where 40 breeding bulls are maintained in selected pockets in each centre for intensive cattle development by natural service. Eight gausalas were also subsidised. Mass prophylactic inoculation of cattle against rinderpest was carried out in five more districts. Five new veterinary hospitals have been started. Five centres for mass treatment of livestock against parasitic diseases were started during the year and 700 stockmen were provided with additional equipment and medicines.

Besides one new sheep farm and two stud ram centres in the hills, six new stud ram centres have been started in the plains so as to supplement the sheep and wool development programme. Five private farmers were given a subsidy of Rs. 5,000 each in order to take up poultry breeding on a large scale. One local body was given a grant of Rs. 10,000 to improve the slaughter house. A grant of Rs. 6,000 each was given to 10 co-operative societies of fayers for establishment of suitable centres for utilisation of carcasses.

Livestock Supervisors' Training: A two year course of training for livestock supervisors was established at the Mechanised State Farm (Chak Ganjaria, Lucknow for a period of six years commencing from 1955. The first batch of 10 students including 20 departmental stockmen has completed training course and two subsequent batches of 100 students each are under training, with effect from August 16, 1955. This batch will complete its course in August 1957. A second batch was admitted from November 1956.

Stockmen Training: In order to provide veterinary aid in the rural areas, training of candidates as stockmen has been introduced and every year 100 candidates are trained for appointment as stockmen. The duration of the course is one year. The candidate should have passed the eighth class examination for getting admission to this course. Nearly 200 candidates have so far been admitted to the course started from June 20, 1956, at Pashuk, Rishikesh, Dehra Dun District. Hostels have been constructed for the students.

Figures for 1956:

Bovine (a) Cattle (i) Adults over 3 years: 17,704,169; (ii) Young Stock (three years and under): 5,317,658; Total cattle: 23,021,827; (b) Buffaloes (i) Adults over 3 years: 6,213,887; (ii) Young Stock (3 years and under): 1,574,000; Total buffaloes: 7,787,887; Total horses: 32,519,721; Sheep: 1,006,314; Goats: 6,272,927; Horses and Ponies: 352,194; Mules: 13,911; Donkeys: 197,717; Camels: 50,898; Pigs: 1,143,522; Total livestock: 42,756,937; Poultry: Fowls: 1,939,036; Ducks: 51,200; others: 89,830.

Variety of fishes in tanks stocked by the Fisheries Department: Labro Rohita (Rohita); Corrhina Mrigala (Nain); Catla (Bhakar); Labro (Carran); Karaunch; Mirror Carp (tor Hill region).

Acreeage of water under the control of the Department for Pisciculture: 24,202; total area stocked: 1,000,199 acres; number of fingerlings stocked: 4,343,857; quantity of fish produced in maunds: 6,204; no. of fingerlings distributed to the public: 727,764.

Five Fishermen Co-operative Societies were organised in the districts of Ballia, Bahraich, Allahabad, Kheri and Meerut and selected for granting financial assistance to the extension of Rs. 10,000 per party. As many as 35 nurseries were improved for rearing fry and fingerlings and the renovation of a trout hatchery at Talwari in Garhwal district was also taken up.

STATE HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

Quantity of improved seeds distributed in 1955-56: Kharif (141,270 maunds); Rabi (637,162 maunds).

Number of seed farms during 1955-56: 29.

Rise in production of different crops owing to Grow More Food campaign: 10 to 15 per cent on the average yield due to the use of improved seeds.

CIVIL SUPPLIES

There is no rationing of foodgrains, salt or sugar. Imported wheat is however being distributed through fair price shops in 45 towns and at subsidised rates in flood affected and climatically deficit hill areas of the State.

Following are the figures of issues for 1957: Through fair price shops in towns: 4,323,000 mds.; Flood affected areas: 1,948,400 mds.; Hill areas: 814,600 mds.; Total: 6,585,900 mds.

Supply of coal dust in U.P. in 1956:

Allotment—53,369 wagons; Actual supply—25,415 wagons.

Supply of cement in 1956: Allotment—418,080 tons; Actual supply—383,962 tons.

Articles in which the State is in surplus and the actual surplus: Gur and sugar which share over 50 per cent of the export trade. Pulses particularly arhar and peas. One to two tons are sent out to deficit States.

LAND TENURE

With the vesting of zamindari, following new legislation, on July 1, 1952 in 48 out of the State's 51 districts, estates of nearly 20 lakh zamindars were taken over resulting in direct contact with 12,800,000 Kisans. The area of land taken over from intermediaries is about 6 crore acres.

Liquidated zamindars retain such of Sir, Khudkast and groves of which they have become Bhumidhars.

The new land tenures under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act are: Bhumidhar, Sirdar and Asami.

The following laws govern the different tenures extant in the State and other matters connected with them:

1. The U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act governs the new tenures; 2. The U.P. Tenancy Act, 1939 governs small pockets where the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 does not apply; 3. The Jaunsar Bawar Zamindari Abolition and Land Reform Act, 1956 and U.P. Urban Area Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1956, govern the new tenures in Pargana Jaunsar Bawar of the Dehra Dun District and the urban areas in the State respectively; 4. The U.P. Land Revenue Act of 1901 as amended from time to time; 5. The U.P. Bhoodan Yagna Act, 1952; 6. The U.P. Land Reforms (Supplementary) Act, 1952; 7. The U.P. Commutation of Rent (Regulation of Proceedings) Act, 1952; 8. The U.P. Land Tenures (Regulation of Transfer) Act, 1952; 9. The Jaunsar Bawar Security of Tenure and Land Records Act, 1952; 10. The U.P. Zamindars' Debt Reduction Act; 11. The U.P. Agricultural Tenants' (Acquisition of Privileges) Act, 1940.

The main features of the Zamindari Abolition, etc. Act are: Extinction of intermediaries' rights; Payment of equitable compensation; Payment of rehabilitation grant to ex-intermediaries who paid land revenue upto Rs. 10,000 per annum; Undisturbed possession of land by actual tillers of soil and conferment of greater rights upon them; Undisturbed possession by every person of his house, well or grove; No landlord-tenant system to be in force in future (i.e. prohibition of sub-letting except in restricted cases); Prevention of uneconomic holdings; Village community to own all common lands and to have powers of land management; The entire body of tenure-holders to be jointly and severally responsible for the payment of land revenue; and facilities for co-operative farming.

Every ex-intermediary (ex-zamindar) is entitled to compensation at the rate of eight times his net assets. In addition, every ex-intermediary, whose land revenue did not exceed Rs. 10,000 would be given rehabilitation grant at the specified scale.

Uttar Pradesh denies landlords the right to evict tenants even for self-cultivation of the vacated holdings.

The end of zamindari released 45,442,000 acres, that is, 96.8 per cent of the total land holdings in this State. Two classes of cultivators, bhumidhars (owners of land) and sirdars (wielders of the plough), enjoying different rights, inherited these lands from the State, which had acquired them from the intermediaries.

Of the alienated lands, nearly nine million acres of waste land were turned over to the villages for collective management. Another 2,400,000 acres of waste land and private forests were made over to the Forest Department for development.

Pastures and pathways, cremation grounds and threshing floors, ponds and village bazars passed, in July 1952, into the possession of the village community. Bhumidars and sirdars continue to pay the same revenue or rent as before, but the sirdar, acquiring bhumidari rights on payment of ten times the rent or revenue, will have his revenue halved.

The final compensation rolls published in 1957-58 amount to Rs. 66.5 crores but only Rs. 18-19 crores have been paid.

In future, no more than 30 acres can be acquired. The corresponding limit in the trans-Yamuna and Mirzapur regions has been fixed at 60 acres.

According to official estimates, 50,000 families, or at least 4,000,000 persons, in this State are landless. The percentage of landless labourers to tenure holders works out at 16.1 against 51 in Bihar, 54.4 in Rajasthan, 71.4 in Madras and 73.2 in Kerala.

Likewise, the cultivated land available for an average family in Uttar Pradesh is the lowest in India and does not exceed 4.8 acres against 13.1 in north-west India, 11.7 in Central India, 6.3 in East India and 5.7 in south India.

There are only 9,976 holdings, each more than 50 acres and totalling 13,19,515 acres. Excluding 2,088 mechanised farms from the operation of ceilings under the Planning Commission's directive, only 523,156 acres will be available for distribution among the landless.

Consolidation of holdings: In 4,217 of the State's 111,772 villages, the consolidation scheme has been finalised. In 3,412 villages, farmers have received their consolidated holdings. These villages consisted of 3,935,710 tiny plots before the scheme was enforced. Now, a total of 365,857 tenure-holders in the same villages have 648,814 well-defined chaks.

Bhoodan: Land gifts amounted to 275,522 acres in 51 districts on June 30, 1957. Bhoodan Committees have, so far, distributed 92,766 acres. Donations continue. But the rate of collection is slow.

IRRIGATION

Area irrigated by State Irrigation works (1956-57): 6,531,906 acres.

Number of tube-wells energised and brought into operation till end of March 1957: 5,196. Total number of tube-wells constructed: 5,163 (1955-56). Area irrigated in 1955-56 by State tube-wells: 1,166,970 acres. Construction of 400 tube-wells was taken in hand during 1957.

Names of dams completed and opened for irrigation during the First Five Year Plan: Lalitpur, Sapra, Bangawan, Arjun, Ahrawa, Sirsi under 'Belan and Tons Canal', Kabrai Lake, Nagwa and Matatila Dam Stage I.

Among the major schemes completed during the first Plan period are also 803 and 1,062 miles extension of Sarda Canal, Pratapgarh Branch, Transkalyani Project, Shaganj Distributary and Banganga Canal. The Ganga, Eastern Yamuna and Agra canals have also been remodelled and their capacity increased.

Names of larger irrigation works with capacity and area irrigated during 1955-56 within brackets:

Upper Ganga Canal (10,000 cusecs, 1,511,067 acres); Lower Ganga Canal (5,170 cusecs, 1,080,496 acres); Eastern Yamuna Canal (2,266 cusecs, 454,170 acres); Agra Canal (1,800 cusecs, 819,509 acres); Sarda Canal (1,800 cusecs, 953,245 acres); Betwa Canal (11,000 cusecs, 210,608 acres); Dhasan Canal

Names of irrigation projects in execution with the area in acres which will be irrigated and total cost in lakhs of rupees within brackets:

803 miles extension of Sarda Canal (1,76,000; 50.00); 1,062 miles extension of Sarda Canal (1,76,000; 110.00); Pratapgarh Branch (Extension of Sarda Canal) (57,000; 71.00); Transkalyani Project (Extension of Sarda Canal) (74,000; 60.00); Sarda Canal Reservoir in Tarai Forest Stage I including Jaunpur Branch and Increasing capacity of Sarda Canal (1,72,000; 479.49); Increasing capacity of Ganga Canal (1,12,000; 16.00); Irrigation Schemes in Kumaon (21,500; 43.50); Banganga Canal (22,000; 36.32); Matatila Dam Stage I (2,64,500; 487.56); Arjun Dam (27,000; 115.00); Belan and Tons Canal (1,01,477; 193.46); Ahaura Dam (22,000; 59.02); Chandraprabha Dam (24,000; 87.71); Shaganj Distributary (20,000; 18.70); Tandia Pumped Canal (1,39,000; 129.00); Naurghat Dam (80,000; 132.97).

A number of minor irrigation schemes have been constructed during the first plan period as a result of which an additional area of 261,000 acres has been brought under irrigation. The total additional area brought under irrigation from the State irrigation works completed during First Five Year Plan period is 2,841,000 acres and the total estimated rise in output is 6.25 lakh tons.

Drainage and floods: 233 drainage schemes were completed and 1,75,000 acres of land was protected. 3,229 villages were raised. Over 300 miles long bunds were constructed and about seven lakh acres of land was saved.

Forest: Total area: 14,930 sq. miles; Private forests: 3,800 sq. miles; Revenue (1954-55): Rs. 4.14 crores; Expenditure: Rs. 1.67 crore.

Community Projects: There are 26 community project blocks covering an area of 5,988 square miles, with a population of 2,009,024.

National Extension Service: There are 135 National Extension Service blocks covering about 29,100 villages with a population of about 1.63 crores.

POWER

Total installed capacity in State: 367,740 kW. (1954)

Total installed capacity of the power houses under Electricity Department till October 31, 1957: 144,065 kW.

Total effective capacity of power houses under Electricity Department till October 31, 1957: 101,145 kW.

Total production during the year 1955-56: 267,286,879 KW.H.

Estimated rise in the installed capacity after completion of the Second Five Year Plan schemes: 379,050 kW.

Units in kW sold under different categories during the year 1954-55 by Electricity Department.

Domestic 17,118,453; Industrial 49,004,520; Railways 6,855,513; Cantonment 7,722,107; Street Light 1,774,551; Pumping 6,713,215; Agricultural 8,577,082; State Tube-wells 70,009,745; Miscellaneous 13,058,900; Total 180,834,061 K.W.H.

The following are the names of power houses in operation in September 1957 showing their location and installed capacity in kW within brackets.

Palra Hydro (Aligarh: 600); Bhola H. (Meerut: 2,700); Nirgaoni H. (Muzaffarnagar: 5,000); Chitaura H. (Muzaffarnagar: 3,000); Salawa H. (Muzaffarnagar: 3,000); Sumera H. (Aligarh: 1,200); Mohammedpur H. (Saharanpur: 9,300); Pathri H. (Saharanpur: 20,400); Tehri H. (Tehri: 20); Khatima H. (Nainital: 41,400);

Bageswar H. (Almoro: 30; Chandausi Thermal) (Moradabad: 9,000); Harduaganj T. (Aligarh: 15,000); Sohwal T. (Faizabad: 4,500); Rampur T. (Rampur: 3,000); Mau T. (Azamgarh: 1,600); Gorakhpur T. On the Rihand project Rs. 13 crores were spent till the end of 1957-58. Rs. 4.5 crores were spent in 1957-58. For 1958-59 Rs. 4.01 crores have been allotted.

* There are three Power Stations at Yamuna and the cost mentioned is for the whole scheme having an installed capacity of 51,000 kW. The scheme will be completed by 1965-66 and the 1st Power Station of 17,000 kW will be ready by 1960-61.

LARGE-SCALE INDUSTRIES, MANUFACTURES

Important large-scale industries in the State are Textile (Cotton, Woolen and Jute), Sugar, Power Alcohol, Glass, Leather and Tanning, Oils, Vanaspathi, Resin and Turpentine, Lantern, Paper and Paper Board, Hosiery, Bobbins, Starch, Agricultural Implements, Catches, Match, Metal Rolling, Engineering, Cigarettes, Precision Instruments and Cement.

The State has promoted a number of such small scale industries as Paints, Varnishes, Chemicals, Bone-Meal, Button, Sand Paper, Tin Container Manufacturing, Plastic, Carbon paper making, Fruit Preservation, Bicycles and Perambulators, Pharmaceutical Products, Soaps, Sports goods, Locks, Glass Bangles, Brushware, Drawing and Survey Instruments, Scissors and Razors.

The State is fairly rich in minerals. Limestone, iron and copper ores are found in the Himalayan districts.

Coalfields exist in the District of Mirzapur in Tehsil Sangrauli. Gold is found in minute quantities by washing the sands in some of the rivers in the hills. Limestone is found in the Himalayas and in the districts of Banda and Mirzapur and stone is largely quarried in the districts of Allahabad, Hamirpur, Banda and Mirzapur. At Churk in Mirzapur District, Government have set up a cement factory with an installed capacity of manufacturing 700 tons of cement per day. This factory utilizes the limestone of Mirzapur. It produced about 1.96 lakh tons of cement during 1956-57. A stockist organisation has been set up in 24 districts in the eastern and central parts of the State for marketing the cement.

The Government Precision Instrument Factory at Lucknow is engaged in the manufacture of water meters and microscopes of the student and research types. It has a capacity of manufacturing 20,000 water meters and 200 microscopes in a year. Till March 1957 the factory produced 53,070 water meters and 260 microscopes and in terms of money saved foreign exchange worth nearly Rs. 32 lakhs.

Kanpur is the chief centre for cotton spinning and weaving mills. According to the latest figures available about 8,000 persons are employed in cotton spinning, cleaning and pressing mills and 72,000 in spinning and weaving Agra, the principal centre of shoemaking, is rightly called the Northampton of India and produces shoes worth over a crore of rupees a year. Kanpur is next to it in importance.

For further development of the leather tanning industry, 20 new tanning centres were opened in 1956-57. There are six training centres and a research and testing laboratory for conducting research and investigation to find out the optimum conditions and proper tanning properties of indigenous tanning material.

The glass industry is important at Bahjoi, Balawali, Naani, Harangan, Shikohabad, Naini (Allahabad), Ghaziabad and Varanasi. Firozabad is the chief centre for manufacturing glass bangles in India.

There are over forty hollow-ware factories, and eighty-eight glass bangle factories in the State. Out of these hollow-ware factories ten are large-scale factories and the others are comparatively small. The total amount of goods produced per year in these hollow-ware factories is estimated at 25,000 tons valued at 4.5 crores of rupees. The bangle factories at Firozabad produce about 10,000 tons of bangles per year, valued at Rs. 6 crores.

There are five factories manufacturing vegetable ghee. Their total output during 1956-57 was about 34,000 tons. The oil crushing industry is well developed in the State since U.P. produces about 2½ crore maunds of oil-seeds. There are over 150 big oil mills registered under Factories Acts and over 250 small oil mills working with power. About half a dozen oil mills are equipped with refining plant.

There are about 25 big soap factories besides a large number of small manufacturers producing in all about 8 lakh maunds of toilet and washing soap annually.

Paints and varnishes industry is being developed with the coming into existence of over a dozen paints and varnishes factories with a production capacity of 5,000 tons of paints and 600,000 gallons of enamel and varnish annually.

Bottled oil is already being manufactured by some firms producing about 450,000 gallons annually.

Allied industries like textile auxiliaries and toiletries are being manufactured at some places.

Tin containers are made at Agra, Hathras, Etawah, Mainpuri and Ghaziabad.

There are Fruit Preservation and Canning Institutes at Lucknow and Kanpur, under the Director of Fruit Utilisation with headquarters at Kanikhet. A fruit processing factory has also been established by the State at Ramgarh.

The sports goods industry in the State is mainly concentrated in Meerut. A centre for the development of this industry is also being set up at Bareilly. About 3,000 persons are employed in this industry. In order to improve the quality of its products, the industry has been brought within the fold of the Quality Marking Scheme.

(For sugar industry see article "Sugar Industry".)

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES

Main cottage industries in the State: Textile, leather, brass and copper (utensils), locks, cutlery and building fittings, iron and steel glass, ceramics and pottery, ghee, oil, soap and gur, wood working, cane and reed furniture and basketry, fibre, essential oils and perfumery, and miscellaneous.

In cottage industries Agra Footwear, Varanasi and Moradabad artistic Brassware, Varanasi Silk and Brocade, Saharanpur Wood Carving, Farrukhabad Prints, Lucknow Bidar and Chikan works and Handloom Fabrics, Carpet and Shellac industries of Mirzapur, are noteworthy.

The Directorate of Industries, U.P. has launched a number of schemes to train educated young men in arts and crafts. A tailoring centre has been established at Lucknow. Other training schemes are being implemented at the Occupational Institute, Lucknow, Government Textile Institute and Government Leather Work Institute, Kanpur. Training in weaving and dyeing is also imparted at the Banaras Central Weaving and Research Institute, Varanasi.

With a view to giving a fillip to the famous Moradabad Brassware industry, a Training-cum-Production centre has been set up at Moradabad to impart training in different manufacturing processes of art brassware, domestic brassware, electroplating and introduction of new designs for artistic wares.

Under the Handloom Development Scheme, 125 sales depots and 25 dye houses had been established till March 1957. A dyeing and finishing factory has also been established at Mau, District Azamgarh.

During 1956-57, the number of production societies rose to 389. These co-operative societies produced 57,508,525 yds. of handloom cloth worth Rs. 4,45,54,806.

In accordance with the recommendations of the Small Scale and Village Industries Board, a training-cum-production centre has been set up at Meerut to give technical advice to the razor and scissors industries.

With the assistance of the Central Government, a designs section has also been opened at the Government School of Arts and Crafts, Lucknow. It creates new designs for the various cottage industries particularly the textile, brassware and pottery making industries.

HOUSING

During the First Plan period, a total expenditure of Rs. 7-62 crores was incurred on housing. The scheme was split up into three parts (i) subsidised Industrial Housing Scheme with an outlay of Rs. 4-39 crores, (ii) Low Income Group Housing Scheme with an outlay of Rs. 3 crores and (iii) Housing for Sugar Factory Labour with an outlay of Rs. 0-23 crores. It is proposed to spend Rs. 1,045 lakhs on the overall programme of housing during the Second Five-Year Plan in U.P.

Work on the Central Scheme of Subsidised Industrial Housing was carried out in four phases with the target construction of 21,600 houses. Of this target, 13,782 houses were completed under three phases by the end of the First Five-Year Plan. The remaining work under phase four is being continued. Nearly 4,632 quarters were completed by November 1957 out of the proposed construction-target of 6,764 quarters. The remaining quarters under this phase were expected to be completed by the end of 1957-58.

During the Second Five-Year Plan it is proposed to construct about 17,750 quarters (including incomplete works of the First Five-Year Plan) in 18 industrial towns of the State under the Subsidised Industrial Housing Scheme. The execution of the project will cost Rs. 561-45 lakhs.

Under the Low Income Group Housing Scheme, a loan of Rs. 300 lakhs was sanctioned by the Central Government to U.P. during the First Plan period. Actual work on the scheme was, however, started towards the middle of 1955 after the State Government had received Rs. 60 lakhs from the Centre.

Under this scheme, 5,675 houses are proposed to be constructed during the Second Plan period and a sum of Rs. 483-55 lakhs has been earmarked for the purpose.

Slum-clearance in the KAVAI towns of the State is another important scheme included in the housing programme. The Central Government have allocated a sum of Rs. 196 lakhs as loan and Rs. 40 lakhs as subsidy. The remaining Rs. 49 lakhs will be contributed by the State Government from the State's resources. The scheme will be implemented by the local bodies of the KAVAI towns. It was proposed to spend Rs. 15-50 lakhs during 1957-58, mainly on the acquisition of land. Appreciable progress has already been made at Kanpur in respect of rehabilitation of slum-dwellers there.

Other housing schemes in the State include Plantation Labour Housing Scheme, Rural Housing Scheme, Sugar Factory Labour Housing Scheme and the scheme of housing municipal sweepers in 37 towns. Work in regard to construction of quarters for sweepers was nearing completion.

Provident Fund Scheme covers 44,660 employees, in 61 factories.

During 1957 the activities of the Labour Department were extended to non-labour sphere by the introduction of Old-Age Pension Scheme and taking over of National Employment Service.

Initially with a fund of Rs. 25 lakhs, the Old-Age Pension Scheme has been enforced from December 1, 1957 and the first instalment of the pension was paid to old destitutes over the age of 70 in the State on Republic Day (26th Jan.) 1958. It is estimated that the number of people to whom old-age pension is paid is roughly between 7,000 and 8,000.

Three industrial tribunals, four labour courts, one conciliation board for State-owned undertakings and three tri-partite committees one each for sugar, textiles and electricity industries were created in 1957. The workers drawn from various trade unions and industries were imparted training in trade union methods and administration.

The three Industrial Tribunals and four Labour Courts together decided 164 cases till November 1957. Compromise was effected between parties in a majority of the cases.

National Employment Service, now re-named as Employment and Training Directorate, launched a number of schemes, which included the expansion of old ones and the introduction of two new schemes. The number of Employment Exchanges during the period rose from 21 to 31 and training institutes from 8 to 13 with provision for 3,852 trainees.

Of the two new projects, the Employment Market Information Scheme has been started at 21 Exchange Offices and the Vocational Guidance Scheme at the Lucknow office.

Amenities are provided to labourers through 49 labour welfare centres.

Social Welfare: The State Social Welfare Department was established in January 1956. The Department runs the women welfare scheme in 30 districts. It has also started a couple of centres for the village youth and is providing financial help to widows' homes, orphanages, schools for the deaf, dumb and blind and other voluntary social welfare organisations.

WEST BENGAL

Area : 33,945 sq. miles ; Population : 29,801,992.

Capital : Calcutta.

There are two Divisions in the State, the Burdwan Division and the Presidency Division.

The Districts in the Burdwan Division with their headquarters in brackets are as follows :

Bankura (Bankura), Birbhum (Suri), Burdwan (Burdwan), Hooghly (Chinsura), Howrah (Howrah), Midnapore (Midnapore), Purulia (Purulia).

The Districts in the Presidency Division with their headquarters in brackets are as follows :

Calcutta, Cooch-Bihar (Cooch-Bihar), Darjeeling (Darjeeling), Dinajpur (Balurghat), Jalpaiguri (Jalpaiguri), Malda (English Bazar), Murshidabad (Berhampur), Nadia (Kriahnagar), 24 Parganas (Alipur).

The boundaries of the present State as between East and West were fixed by the Radcliffe award.

Areas of Bihar merged with West Bengal : As a result of the reorganisation of the States, part of Purnea district in Kishanganj and Katihar Sub-divisions and part of Maanbhum District in Sadar Sub-division of Purulia, both of Bihar, were transferred to West Bengal with effect from November 1, 1956. The total area so transferred is 3,166 sq. miles with a population of 1,446,385.

The transferred area from Purnea District has been amalgamated with the adjoining district of West Dinajpur, with Balurghat as its headquarters. The area carved out of the old Revenue Thanas of Islampur and Kishanganj of Kishanganj Sub-division and Gopalpur of Katihar Sub-division have been reconstituted into four Police Stations, viz., Karandighi, Gopalpur, Chopra and Islampur with their headquarters at Karandighi, Gopalpur, Chopra and Islampur, respectively, all under the existing Raiganj sub-division of West Dinajpur District.

The total area transferred from Purnea District comes to 759 sq. miles, comprising 913 villages with a population of 2,77,288 (1951 census).

The transferred area from Maanbhum District, comprising the Sadar Sub-division of Purulia with the exception of the Revenue Thana Chas and Chandil, and the Police Station Pansanda of the Revenue Thana Barabhum, has been constituted to form a new district in West Bengal under the name of Purulia, with its headquarters at Purulia, in charge of a Dy. Commissioner, under the Commissioner of Burdwan Division.

As no delimitation of the internal jurisdiction boundary was called for, the old thana and Police Station boundaries have been retained.

The total area transferred to West Bengal to form the new District of Purulia is 2,407 sq. miles, comprising 2,725 villages with a population of 11,60,067 (1951 census).

AGRICULTURE

Area and production of principal crops in 1954-55 are as follows :

	Area (acres)	Production (tons)
Aman rice ..	85,44,300	83,41,600
Aus rice ..	12,46,800	3,98,160
Boro rice ..	4,44,000	18,400
Total rice ..	1,02,35,000	87,58,160
Wheat ..	1,41,000	44,900
Sugarcane ..	64,800	1,19,310
Jute ..	5,50,800	14,96,400

About 5-28 lakh tons of manures and fertilisers were produced and distributed. Six improved seed multiplication farms had been established and 8,112 tons of improved seeds had been distributed. 2,401 demonstration centres had been established in rural areas. Land covering 30,490 acres had been reclaimed through tractors.

A State-wide campaign for the Japanese method of cultivation was undertaken during the First Five-Year Plan period and 3-5 lakh acres of land were put under this method of cultivation increasing considerably the average yield of paddy per acre. In the field of animal husbandry, breeding bulls were supplied to villages for upgrading livestock. Nine artificial insemination centres have been opened.

400 maunds of pasteurised milk is sold daily from the Haringhata Dairy. The Greater Calcutta Dairy Scheme aims at the removal of unhealthy khatales from the City of Calcutta to Haringhata, the establishment of a 3,000 acre fodder farm at Kalyani and the construction of a Central Dairy Factory in Calcutta for the bottling and distribution of four lakh pounds of milk daily.

The winter rice crop in 1957 was estimated at 3-52 million tons against 3-94 million tons in 1956. State's annual requirement is 4-1 million tons.

Zamindaris and intermediary interests in West Bengal were abolished on April 15, 1956 corresponding to the 1st of Baisakh in the Bengalee Year.

All rent-receiving interests in agricultural lands vest in the State and the numerous tenants and sub-tenants, as the case may be now hold land directly under the State Government. All forests too are now managed directly by the Government.

Under the Act, each intermediary is permitted to retain in his possession non-agricultural land up to 15 acres, homestead land which together with such non-agricultural land does not exceed 20 acres, agricultural land up to 25 acres, and tanks, fisheries and orchards. Calcutta is a notable exception in the Act.

There are roughly 1-28 million acres of cultivated land in the State, of which, according to preliminary but by no means accurate statistics, only 400,000 acres will be found surplus for redistribution among the tillers of the soil.

The Bihar Land Reforms Act is still in force in the territories transferred to West Bengal after the reorganisation of States, though steps for setting up machinery for the management of vested estates according to the West Bengal pattern are under way.

Compensation is payable on a slab system at rates varying between 20 times for the first and lowest slab of Rs. 500 of net income and twice for the highest slab of over Rs. 1 lakh.

Where, however, the interest of an intermediary is held under a bona fide trustee or other legal obligation for an exclusively charitable or religious purpose, the compensation payable is being assessed as a perpetual annuity equal to the annual net income of the interest.

Up to April 15, 1957, the Government had sanctioned interim payments totalling Rs. 52,21,000 to some 24,000 intermediaries.

Payment is being made partly in cash and partly in non-negotiable annuity bonds at 3 per cent per annum and payable in 20 equal annual instalments.

Sonarpur-Araspach Scheme : The Sonarpur-Araspach-Matla Drainage Scheme of reclaiming water-logged tracts 106 sq. miles in area, with powerful pumping plants, is the first of its kind in India and the biggest in Asia. The first part of the scheme which was started in 1941 and cost nearly Rs. 44 lakh is now complete. The second part of the scheme is in progress. Under the first part of the Scheme, a subarea of 23,840 acres has been reclaimed for cultivation. The total yield of paddy from these large tracts of land was 21,000 maunds.

Bagla Drainage Scheme : Rs. 90-lakh Bagla Drainage Scheme is intended to improve the drainage of 116 square miles of area. The scheme when completed will reclaim 25,000 acres of water-logged lands and render them fit for cultivation, which will result in annual additional yield of 12,001 tons of paddy and 1,119 tons of rabi crops.

IRRIGATION

During the First Five-Year Plan period, the multi-purpose schemes namely the Mayurakshi Reservoir Project, two medium irrigation and two medium drainage schemes and 116 units of minor schemes had been completed. The Mayurakshi Reservoir Project involves the harnessing of the Mayurakshi River. The project will benefit 6,00,000 acres of land. During the First Plan, another 117 small irrigation schemes were completed to irrigate another 11 lakh acres of land. In all 12 lakh acres of land have been benefited since independence by about 200 irrigation schemes big and small.

About 2,49,104 acres of land were irrigated from the Mayurakshi project during the kharif season of 1956. The hydro-electric portion of this project came into operation in December 1956. The installed capacity of this power station is 4,000 k.w.

No. of jute mills: 101 in 1956 (employing a little less than 250,000 workers (1955).

No. of cotton mills: 40 (48,115 workers; total no. of spindles 590,468; no. of looms 10,862) (31st August 1957).

No. of tea gardens: 288 (246,000 workers).

No. of coal mines: 222 (about 99,000 workers daily on an average).

No. of paper mills: 5 (about 9,648 workers).

Jute, cotton and most of the other industries are located in the Greater Calcutta industrial area; there is a growing tendency on the part of the engineering, textile and other industries to move towards the Asansol belt in Burdwan District, where most of the coal mines and the major iron and steel works are located. The tea gardens are located in the Dooars and Terai regions of Northern Bengal.

Main small scale industries: Handloom weaving, sericulture and silk, brass and bell metal, hand-made paper, palm gur and mat industries.

No. of looms engaged in handloom weaving: 1,50,000.

Principal centres of handloom weaving: Santipur (Nadia), Santiniketan (Birbhum), Rajbalhat, Dhanakhal (Hooghly).

Principal silk industry Districts: Malda, Murshidabad and Birbhum.

Facilities for training in various cottage and small-scale industries have been provided for through the major technical institutions namely the Bengal Textile Institute, Serampore, the Berhampur Textile Institute, Berhampur, the Bengal Tanning Institute, Calcutta and the Bengal Ceramic Institute, Calcutta.

Research for the benefit of the cottage industries is carried on in the Industrial Research Laboratory, Calcutta. Marketing and publicity of the products of the cottage industries are canalised through the Government Sales Emporium, Calcutta, Industrial Museum, Calcutta, Moving Exhibition and Exhibition parties.

At Jalpaiguri there is a demonstration centre in sericulture. In Calcutta there is a silk conditioning house. Training in sericulture is given at the Government Institute at Berhampur.

The number of industrial co-operatives is over 900.

In the sphere of large-scale industries, the work on the proposed Iron and Steel Industry at Durgapur is progressing. Considerable work has also been done in connection with the setting up of Durgapur Coke-Oven Plant. Various schemes connected with village industries such as handloom, oil products, bell-metal etc. have been taken up. Under the Howrah Engineering Scheme, 762 small engineering firms in Howrah, near Calcutta, are being brought together to rationalise and accelerate their production. In the rural areas, villagers are being trained and paid in the works-cum-training centres.

WEST BENGAL FINANCIAL CORPORATION

P-11, Mission Row Extension, (5th Floor), Calcutta-1.

The Corporation was established as from the 1st March 1954. The object of the Corporation is to provide financial assistance, chiefly by way of long and medium term loans, to industrial concerns in the State.

DAMODAR VALLEY CORPORATION

The Damodar Valley Corporation Act was passed in March 1948, and the Corporation itself came into existence on July 7.

The Damodar Project is a multi-purpose one, for purposes of flood control, irrigation, power and navigation.

SOME MAJOR DEVELOPMENT SCHEMES

Durgapur Coke-oven and Gas Grid: A coke-oven plant capable of handling daily 1,300 tons of coal and coke breeze (1,235 tons of coal and 65 tons of coke breeze) at Durgapur in the district of Burdwan and auxiliary plants for the recovery of by-products from coke-oven gas (ammonia, sulphuric acid, coal-tar, crude benzene and its rectified products), and a coal-tar distillation plant, with a daily input of 50 tons of coal-tar. The fixed capital investment is estimated at Rs. 5-25 crores. The requirements of working capital have been estimated at Rs. 35 lakhs.

The Ganga Barrage Scheme: The scheme will ensure permanent head-water supplies required for the conservation of the river Hooghly in an efficient condition. In 1948, the West Bengal Government requested the Central Government to investigate the possibility of a barrage across the Ganga. Investigations have already been completed with the finding that a barrage across the Ganga is a technically feasible project. The project is under further scrutiny. The project when finalised will provide direct road and rail communication between the north and south Bengal. It will improve the Calcutta Port by pushing back silt and improving the channel. It will improve the health and economic conditions of the area. The cost of this scheme is expected to be about Rs. 44 crores.

Reclamation of Salt Lakes: The scheme for the reclamation of the swampy northern and southern salt lakes covering about 33 square miles on the eastern fringes of Calcutta aims at liquidating the source of malaria and at reclaiming the water-logged areas, partly for the extension of the City and partly for agricultural purposes. On the basis of the experts' reports, plans in respect of the project, with estimates of cost had been prepared and submitted to the Planning Commission for inclusion in the Second Five-Year Plan.

Gas from Calcutta Sewage: About 1.5 million c.ft. of gas per day will be generated from the sewage of Calcutta. Moreover 250 tons of manure will be available for sale every day. The scheme estimated to cost Rs. 2 crores had been submitted to the Planning Commission for inclusion in the Second Five-Year Plan.

Kalyani: The Kalyani Township scheme was inaugurated in 1950, with a view to relieving acute pressure of population in Calcutta and to help dispersal of industries from the congested city. The total area of the township is 10,000 acres. It has been divided into six blocks, viz., residential blocks, commercial blocks, industrial blocks, etc. Residential buildings have been constructed and are available for purchase or hire by intending settlers. Several parks have been laid out. A Radio and Battery Manufacturing Factory has also been opened by the Government. Thirty miles of water-supply mains have been laid. A total length of 42 miles of underground mains and subsidiary sewers has been completed. About 50 miles of metalled roadways in the residential block have also been completed.

FORESTS

Total forest area: 5,167 sq. miles (pre-reorganization).

Under the First Five-Year Plan, two specific schemes viz. afforestation of Government waste lands by State agencies and conservation of private forests and afforestation of private waste lands were executed with a view to bringing private forests under better management. About 12,438 acres of Government waste lands were afforested to create state forests to check soil erosion and increase the supply of forest wealth and about 7,333 acres of private waste lands were planted and improved through better management and proper control.

INDUSTRY

Principal industries of the State: Jute, tea, coal, cotton, textiles, paper, rubber, engineering, etc.

No. of registered factories: 2,500 (more than 6 lakh workers).

Authorised Capital Rs. 2 crores divided into 2,00,000 fully paid-up shares of Rs. 100 each, of which 1,00,000 fully paid-up shares of the total value of Rs. 1 crore were issued in the first instance and are held by the following classes of shareholders :

	shares	Rs.
a) State Govt.	31,770	31,77,000
b) Reserve Bank ..	20,000	20,00,000
c) Scheduled banks, insurance companies, investment trusts, co-operative banks or other financial institutions ..	45,000	45,00,000
d) Other parties ..	3,230	3,23,000
	1,00,000	1,00,00,000

Gross Income (1957-58) : Rs. 5,28,937-49.

Expenditure : Rs. 3,46,705-08.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Chairman, B. M. Birla.

Managing Director, H. P. Banerjee.

Directors, G. Basu ; C. D. Khanna ; B. P. Singh Roy ; K. K. Roy ; D. N. Mitra ; N. N. Majumdar ; D. N. Bhattacharjee ; S. R. Mitra.

Secretary, B. K. Roy.

CO-OPERATION

From 1943 to 1956 the number of co-operative societies increased from 12,946 to 17,322. The membership increased from 635,000 to 1,191,634.

Number, membership and working capital respectively of other types of co-operative societies : Urban co-operatives (498 : 365,075 ; Rs. 97.6-71 lakhs) ; Consumers' Co-operatives (405 : 49,460 ; Rs. 12.02 lakhs) ; Fishermen Co-operatives (348 : 19,598 ; Rs. 5.42 lakhs) ; Housing and Colony Co-operatives (156 : 17,288 ; Rs. 58.82 lakhs) ; Milk Co-operatives (169 : 12,408 ; Rs. 2.83 lakhs).

Rural credit for agricultural production to the extent of Rs. 1.43 crores was distributed in 1956. The number of co-operatives participating in the work was 11,023 in 1955 against 9,590 in 1948.

There are 1,399 multi-purpose societies, 75 marketing societies and 72 farming co-operatives.

Weavers' Co-operatives form the bulk of industrial co-operatives in the State. There are at present 904 such societies with 65,381 members and a total working capital of Rs. 13.75 lakhs.

There are 486 Urban Co-operative Banking Societies with a membership of 318,006 and a working capital of Rs. 9.82 crores. There are nine Insurance Co-operatives and 412 Consumers' Co-operatives.

ROADS

Total (1956) : 3,178 miles (surfaced 1,235 miles).

There are six national highways in West Bengal : Calcutta-Delhi (182 miles), Calcutta-Bombay/Madras (80 miles—common alignment in West Bengal), Bihār-Azam (181 miles), Siliguri-Gangtok (85 miles), Calcutta-Siliguri (285.5 miles) and Calcutta-Bongaon (45 miles).

During the First Five-Year Plan, the objective was to create a net work of roads connecting each village to the major towns. Nearly 2,000 miles of roads were newly constructed or improved during the First Plan period. In addition 23,000 miles of previously existing roads continued to be directly maintained by the Government. Besides, 295 miles of new roads were constructed in the national highway section.

8,215 rft. of major bridges were laid during the period. The Second Five Year Plan envisages construction of 3,600 miles of roads besides 188 miles of municipal roads.

With a view to the gradual nationalisation of road transport services, a number of bus routes in the City of Calcutta have already been taken over by the Government and other routes would be taken over under a phased programme.

The State Transport owns (1957) a fleet of 400 vehicles in Calcutta and Cooh Behar. By the end of 1960, the State Transport will have a fleet of 700 buses.

The State Transport provides employment for 6,500 persons of whom about 60 per cent are displaced persons.

About 15 lakh passengers are carried every day.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS

The Community Development Projects now cover 15,000 villages. The object of the programme is the development of rural township with a group of 100 villages in a block taken up for intensive development programme.

EDUCATION

Number of primary schools in 1956-57 : over 23,000.

Number of students 22 lakhs.

Number of secondary schools in West Bengal in 1956 : 3,170 ; students : 694,000.

Colleges : 138 ; students : 105,042.

The secondary schools will, henceforth, have a 11-year course as against the ten-year course prevailing before. With the introduction of the 11-year course, preliminary knowledge of some of the subjects previously taught in the intermediate course will be imparted. The students passing out the 11-year school course will be admitted to 3-year degree course direct, the intermediate course being abolished. Some of the secondary schools are being converted into multi-purpose schools which will also train students in various arts and crafts of their choice, thus helping them to choose their professional career according to their aptitude.

(For more statistical information see tables in the article on education).

HEALTH

Birth rate : 22.9 (1958) ; Death rate : 8.2 (1956) ; Infant mortality : 93.7 (1958) ; Maternal mortality : 6.6 (1953).

No. of hospitals : 309 ; no. of dispensaries and clinics : 956 ; Rural Health Centres : 282 (1956) ; no. of beds : 3,300 (1956) ; Total no. of beds in hospitals : 18,645 (end of 1956) ; no. of T.B. hospitals and Sanatoria : 9 ; Mobile Units for domiciliary treatment of T.B. cases : 4 ; no. of T.B. beds : 2,330 ; Rural Health Centre beds : 2,372 ; Maternity and child welfare centres : 96 ; Maternity homes and hospitals : 12 ; Maternity beds : 2,212 ; Medical colleges : 4 ; no. of students in colleges : 691 ; Nursing training centres : 13 ; no. of seats : 857 ; pharmacy training centre : 1 ; no. of students at the centre : 50 ; Mobile medical units : 200 ; no. of beds for treatment of leprosy : 1,354 ; for venereal diseases : 110 ; for treatment of mental diseases : 1,015 (including 757 beds maintained by West Bengal Govt. in two Mental Hospitals at Rancho and 95 beds of Bangiya Unmad Ashram, Dum Dum).

Between 1950 and 1955, 5,604,949 persons were treated with tuberculin and 2,575,645 persons were vaccinated with B.O.G.

Midwifery Training Centres : 6 ; No. of seats 231 ; Assistant Nurses-cum-Midwifery Training Centre (6 months' course) : 1 ; no. of seats : 100 ; Dresser's Training Centre : 1 ; no. of students 60.

Per capita expenditure (1956-57) : Rs. 3-2-5.

REFUGEES AND REHABILITATION

Corrected upto October 31, 1957 unless otherwise stated.

Total number of displaced persons in the State about 32 lakhs.

About 22 lakh refugees received Government assistance by way of house-building loans, small trade loans etc. and nearly half of them have been fully rehabilitated. Of these 96,355 have found employment through Government assistance. For the education of the displaced persons Government spent nearly Rs. 7 crores. Faculty of land for the rehabilitation of refugees in West Bengal has forced the State Government to settle refugees outside the State. Among these schemes for rehabilitation outside the State are a scheme to rehabilitate 27,000 displaced persons at Bettiah in Bihar and the Dandakaranya Scheme under which 80,000 square miles are proposed to be reclaimed for the rehabilitation of refugees.

At a conference of Rehabilitation Ministers of States at Darjeeling in 1957, it was decided that steps would be taken to liquidate refugee camps at an early date so that the refugees might not depend entirely on Government assistance. To find employment and occupation for the refugees it was also decided to set up cottage and small-scale industries.

HOUSING

Big building programmes both by the State and private agencies have been taken up in the city of Calcutta and rural areas. 128 multi-storied tenements and 301 single-storied tenements have almost been completed for housing industrial labour. The Calcutta Improvement Trust has constructed more than 500 tenements for industrial workers under the subsidised scheme. 500 houses have been built under the Kalyani housing scheme. Built houses or lands are available on outright purchase or purchase by instalments. In the flood-affected rural areas, a model village scheme is being executed. Financial assistance and building materials are provided by the Government to the people whose houses had been damaged by flood.

VISVA-BHARATI UNIVERSITY

Santiniketan, West Bengal.

Founded by Rabindranath Tagore in 1921; incorporated as a Central University, 1951.

AIMS AND OBJECTS : To study the mind of Man in its realisation of different aspects of truth from diverse points of view; to bring into more intimate relation with one another through patient study and research, the different culture of the East on the basis of their underlying unity; to approach the West from the stand-point of such a unity of the life and thought of Asia; to seek to realise in a common fellowship of study the meeting of the East and the West, and to strengthen the fundamental condition of World peace.

With such ideals in view to provide at Santiniketan a centre of culture where research into and study of the religion, literature, history, science and art of Hindu, Buddhist, Jain, Islamic, Sikh, Christian and other civilisations may be pursued along with the culture of the West, with that simplicity in externals which is necessary for true spiritual realisation, in amity, good fellowship and co-operation between the thinkers and scholars of both Eastern and Western countries, free from all antagonisms of race, nationality, creed or caste.

Visva-Bharati is a residential University with students and teachers drawn from all over India and there is always a fair mingling of teachers, students and visitors from abroad. Students live a community life, dining in the same halls (with separate arrangements for vegetarians and non-vegetarians), playing in the same spacious play-grounds close to the hostels, organising common socials, picnics, excursions, literary and musical entertainments.

Visva-Bharati maintains the following Institutions :

Patha-Bhavana (School), Siksha-Bhavana (Higher Secondary), Vidya-Bhavana (College of Under-Graduate and Post-Graduate Studies and Research), Vinaya-Bhavana (Teachers' Training College), Kala-Bhavana (College of Fine Arts and Crafts), Sangit-Bhavana (College of Music and Dance). The University maintains also the following Research Departments : (1) Cheena-Bhavana, (2) Indo-Tibetan Institute, (3) Hindi-Bhavana, which organise teaching and Research in Chinese, Tibetan and Hindi respectively.

The Visva-Bharati central library contains about 145,000 volumes. There are sectional and seminar libraries attached to various departments. The University has its own hospital with a Chief medical officer and his assistants. The Guest House, which makes catering arrangements of its own, is open to visitors and guardians.

Besides the academic institutions, the University conducts two Departments: one for Rural Reconstruction and the other for Publication of Books. The Palli-Samgathana Vibhaga (Department of Rural Reconstruction) at Sriniketan is concerned mainly with a comprehensive study of the problems of rural life in its social, cultural, economic and other aspects and extension work in the villages. The department maintains a multi-purpose school with technical stream for rural children.

A two-year Certificate Course in Indian and Foreign languages viz. Sanskrit, Bengali, Hindi, Oriya, Chinese, Japanese, Tibetan, French and German is available to Post-Graduate and Under-Graduate students. Those who have successfully completed the Certificate Course may continue another year's further study for the Diploma in the same languages.

Silpa-Sadana (Cottage Industry Training Centre) provides 2-year Certificate course followed by a further 1-year Diploma course in Weaving and Woodwork.

The Social Education Organizers Training Centre, started under the Community Project Scheme, provides for training of organizers deputed by the different States of the Indian Union.

A scheme of Agro-Economic Research is being conducted at the University under the auspices of the Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India. The scheme has under its purview a considerable area consisting of West Bengal, Bihar, Orissa and Assam.

Under the auspices of the Ministry of Education a Scheme of Educational Extension Services for the improvement of teaching in the Secondary Schools has been introduced at Vinaya-Bhavana. The object of the scheme is to bring new ideas and ideals to bear upon the Secondary Schools.

The Institute of Rural Higher Education, started at Sriniketan in December, 1956, sponsored by the Council of Rural Higher Education (Government of India) offers the following courses: (1) 3-Yr. Diploma course in Rural Services; (2) 2-Yr. Certificate course in Agricultural Science; (3) 1-Yr. Preparatory course.

Budget for 1956-57 :

PONDICHERY STATE

Area : 174.37 sq. miles ; Pop. : 317,253.

The State of Pondicherry consists of :

(1) On the Coromandel Coast : (a) Pondicherry, the capital, together with the adjoining territory, divided into 8 communes, (b) Karikal and the dependent districts divided into 6 communes ;

(2) On the coast of Andhra : Yanam, with the dependent villages ;

(3) On the Malabar Coast : Mahé with the adjoining territory.

De facto transfer of these former French possessions to India took place on November 1, 1954 following an agreement between the Government of India and the Government of France. The instrument of transfer was signed in Pondicherry on November 1, 1954 by Mr. Kewal Singh on behalf of India and Mr. Pierre Landy representing France.

A treaty for the de jure transfer to India of the French establishments was signed on 28th May, 1956 by Mr. Nehru, as Minister for External Affairs and the French Ambassador in India Count Ostrorog. The treaty is awaiting ratification by the French Assembly.

The first general elections after the de facto transfer were held in July 1955 on a basis of universal adult franchise for the 39 seats in the State Representative Assembly and 200 in the 16 Municipal Councils. On an average, more than 85 per cent of the voters voted.

The Municipal Administration in the State is carried on by the Municipal Councils, one in each of the sixteen communes.

The State is directly administered by the Government of India on the pattern of a Union Territory, through a Chief Commissioner nominated by them. There is an advisory body called "the Conseil du Gouvernement" consisting of six elected Councillors roughly corresponding to Cabinet of Ministers in the other States of India. The Chief Commissioner is assisted in the day-to-day administration of the State by a Chief Secretary, five Secretaries and the Inspector-General of Police.

Chandernagore in West Bengal was the first French India possession to become de jure a part of the Indian Union after the treaty for its cession was signed in Paris in 1951 by the representatives of the two Governments. The Treaty was ratified by the French Assembly on April 11, 1952.

PONDICHERY

Area : 113.42 sq. miles, Population : 222,566.

Pondicherry is the chief of the former French settlements in India and its capital is the seat of the Government. The town is an enclave in the district of South Arcot in Madras State, about 89 miles from Madras.

There is no harbour, but only a roadstead which is the best on the entire coast. Ships lie at a distance from the shore and contact with land is maintained by means of the usual manula boats peculiar to this part of South India.

Since November 1, 1954 sea customs have been introduced in Pondicherry and a new department has been created under a Collector of Customs.

KARIKAL

Karikal is an enclave in the Tanjore District and consists of a single tract of territory stretching along the east coast between Tranquebar and Nalore. It is at a distance of 90 miles from Pondicherry. It covers an area of 52.18 sq. miles and is divided into 6 communes containing 110 villages. The establishment has a population of 70,541, according to the 1948 census. Karikal is the terminus of a line from Peralam on the Tanjore District Railway.

YANAM

The town is situated in the delta of the Godavari covering an area of 5.52 square miles and is an enclave of the District of East Godavari in Andhra State. The soil is fertile and supports a population of 5,853.

MAHÉ

The territory of Mahé on the west coast consists of the town of Mahé on the left bank of the river of the same name ; and the isolated district of Maluthara on the right bank containing the 6 villages of Chambra, Chalakara, Palour and Pandaquel. It is an enclave in the District of Cannanore in Kerala State, and covers an area of 3.25 sq. miles.

The present population is estimated at 18,298. Rice is grown where water is plentiful.

INDIAN TERRITORY UNDER PORTUGUESE OCCUPATION

Area: 1,537 sq. miles; Pop.: 637,591 (1950 Census); Capital: Cidade de Goa (Panjim).

The Hindu population is estimated at 388,489 and the Christian at 234,275. There are 14,162 Muslims and 1,079 Europeans and Eurasians.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICIALS

Governor-General, General Paulo Benard Guedes, who is also Commander-in-Chief.

Military Commander, Gen. Rodrigues Pacheco.

Elected Members of the Governor's Council (Conselho do Governo), Vitola Vinsum Sinal Dempo; Dr. Domingos Roque Souza; Amadeu Praxeres da Costa, Rev. Father Castilho Noronha; Quenlin.

The last two have been appointed Deputies in the Portuguese National Assembly of Lisbon. They represent Portuguese India.

Governor of Diu, Capt. Paiva Couceiro.

H. E. the Patriarch of East India, D. Jose Alvernas.

Indian territory under Portuguese rule is made up of: Goa, Daman, Diu.

All the three territories are situated practically within the area covered by Bombay State. Goa is on the Konkani Coast; Daman, lies on the Gujarat coast at the entrance to the Gulf of Cambay; and Diu is a tiny islet and along with the isolated spots, Gogola and Simbor lies on the southern fringe of the Kathiawad peninsula.

The enclaves of Dadra and Nagar Haveli, which formed part of Daman, have been taken over by Goan nationalists who have set up their own administration.

GOVERNMENT

The Governor-General is the head of the administration and is stationed in the capital Cidade de Goa formerly known as Nova-Goa and also Panjim.

Associated in the task of government is the Conselho do Governo possessing restricted legislative and advisory powers. The Governor-General is its ex-officio president.

Daman and Diu have each a District Governor.

In each district there is a District Council for the supervision of the various municipalities and other local bodies in its jurisdiction. For administrative purposes the district is divided into Concelhos, each Concelho being in the charge of an official styled the Administrador, and for judicial purposes it is divided into circuits or Comarcas each having its own court of original jurisdiction.

An appeal lies from the decisions of these courts to the Tribunal de Relacao or High Court sitting in the capital and side by side with the latter there is also a Tribunal Administrativo to dispense justice under droit administratif.

A striking feature of the rural administration is the continuance of the ancient Indian institution of the village community. In places where resistance to Portuguese domination has continued almost to our own day, as in the southern communes of Goa, Assolna, Cuncoim and Vellin, the village communities were suppressed and their estates confiscated by the Government.

The village community is an autonomous institution, socialist in its organization under which land is held in common by the original settlers of the village here called the Comunidades, thus preventing concentration of land in the hands of a few and promoting a rough equality, while preventing the domination by a privileged few. The management is vested in a committee elected by the constituents.

The advent of Dr. Oliveira Salazar to power and the establishment of his Estado Novo led to increasing centralization in the administration of Portuguese India. All measures of importance are now initiated by and carry the sanction of the home government in Lisbon. The Governor's Council, Conselho do Governo which assists him, is shorn of what little legislative powers it formerly possessed. There are no elected municipalities and local boards in the villages. Each municipality is in charge of an administrative committee nominated by the Governor-General, who also appoints the presidents of all charitable and cultural associations in the country.

A stringent censorship controls the freedom of the press, and every article, book or pamphlet has to be submitted to the board of censors before it appears in print. Infringements of the press laws are severely dealt with and newspapers are required to keep security deposits with the Government before being licensed for publication.

Freedom of association is likewise controlled. No public meeting or assembly, be its purpose ever so innocuous, may be convened without previous permission of the authorities, and every intended talk and speech must bear the censor's visa.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRIES

The chief agricultural products of Goa are rice, coconuts, cashew-nuts, betel-nuts, mangoes, and sugar-cane. Of these cashew-nuts, betel-nuts, coconuts and mangoes which were exported in considerable quantities to the Indian Union, have been banned by the Government of India. The rice grown is not sufficient for local consumption and lasts for only four months in a year. For the remaining eight months rice is imported from Pakistan, Mozambique (Portuguese East Africa) and Brazil. Other exports include copra, bamboos, salt, salt-fish and manganese and iron ore, the exports of which have enabled the Goa Government to earn foreign exchange, specially in dollars, enough to finance all its imports. The imports consist of rice, textiles and other manufactured goods.

Owing to controls imposed by the Indian Union, trade and commerce between Portuguese possessions and India are at a standstill and the economy of these pockets is deteriorating from day to day. Prices of local products like paddy and coconuts have slumped. Those of articles imported from India have correspondingly rocketed. The tourist traffic, which put as much as Rs. 5 lakhs each month into the pockets of local traders, is non-existent with Portuguese Customs revenues down to a tenth of what they were before. To add to the miseries of the people, the Portuguese and African troops, which are regularly being reinforced, take away most of the available stocks of vegetables and meat. The local population is at the mercy of black marketeers.

There are no banks operating in Portuguese territory with the exception of the Banco Nacional Ultramarino which has offices in the major towns. No Indian bank can open branches in Goa as the Banco Nacional has a monopoly. The Indian Government in its turn compelled the Portuguese Bank to close its branch in Bombay because Indian banks were not allowed to do business in Goa.

A railway line maintained and run by the West of India Portuguese Guaranteed Railway, once a subsidiary of the former Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway, joins the port of Marmugao with the junction of London on the Southern Railway. It fulfilled a very important role by providing an outlet to the sea for the products of this part of the Mahratta country.

The Southern Railway which administered the railways in Goa on behalf of the W.I.P.R. did not renew the contract at the end of Dec. 1955 with the result that Goa has now no rail link with India. Most of the staff of the Southern Railway in Goa opted for service in India. But shuttle services inside Goa were maintained by Goan authorities.

The air service between Goa, Daman and Diu has been resumed after making adjustments in the route. The Portuguese maintain that they do not violate Indian air space by following the new route.

There is a bi-weekly air service between Marmugao and Karachi.

Marmugao, which is the chief port, is also geographically one of the major ports on the west coast of India and is open to ocean-going vessels of every size from all parts of the world. But, as we have mentioned, there is neither trade nor communication between India and the Portuguese-held territory. But ships from Japan, America and Europe call at Marmugao to take cargo of iron ore and manganese, which are the chief exports of Goa.

There is now no restriction in the matter of travel between India and Goa for Goan citizens. A traveller can take Rs. 50 into Goa or bring Rs. 50 with him. But restriction on trade continues. Indians have to take a visa from the Brazilian Consulate for travel to Goa.

The restriction on Goan citizens about travel between India and Goa was removed on April 3, 1958.

EDUCATION AND CULTURE

Primary education is free and compulsory in schools maintained by the State of which there is at least one in every village. There are at present over 200 primary schools controlled and administered by a Board of Primary Education, Conselho da Instrucao Primaria with offices in the capital.

In Cidade de Goa there is a Lyceum for the study of Portuguese, a Teachers' Training School, and a Medical School.

A Theological Seminary trains young men for the priesthood at Rachol.

Over and above these, there are a number of English teaching High Schools run by private enterprise and by religious orders preparing students for the S.S.C. examination of the Bombay Government and the Entrance Examination of the University of Bombay.

The Biblioteca Nacional houses what is perhaps one of the best libraries of rare books and manuscripts on the west coast of India while the Arquivo contain an inexhaustible wealth of hitherto unexplored historical material.

DAMAN

Daman in Gujarat has a total area of about 33 square miles and a population of some 21,000 inhabitants, mostly of Gujarati extraction.

It is easily reached from Bombay by the Western Railway: 4½ hours' journey.

There are some very interesting historical relics here such as the old fort and a few surviving churches reminiscent of the old times.

DIU

About 150 miles to the north-west of Daman lies the tiny islet of Diu off the southern coast of Kathiawad. It is a small town separated from the mainland by a narrow arm of the sea. Dependent on it and surrounded by the territory of Junagadh is the enclave of Gogola and also the island and fort of Pali Cota in the bay of Simbor.

Diu is reached from Bombay by the Western Railway via Viramgam and Delwada. Access by sea is easier and more rapid but there is no harbour. There is an excellent roadstead where ships can safely anchor in two fathoms of water.

Area: 413 sq. miles. The population is estimated at 19,781.

PRO-MERGER MOVEMENT

With the merger of French territory in India, the pro-merger movement in the Portuguese pockets was intensified by the people of Goa, Daman and Diu. The Portuguese Government adopted severe repressive measures to put down this agitation with the result that over 3,000 Goan Satyagrahis were arrested and put in Goa jails and were always in danger of being deported to Mozambique. Many Goan nationalist leaders have now fled from Goa and have taken refuge in Belgium and Bombay.

Indian Satyagrahis, who were sentenced by the Portuguese military tribunal to various terms of imprisonment in 1955, were released by the Lisbon Government. About 35 of them returned to India in February 1957.

It is now reckoned that there are only about six or seven Indian prisoners in Goan jails.

The Goa Action Committee, which is composed of all Goan parties in Bombay, has appointed an administrator, Dr. Antonio Furtado, to administer the liberated areas of Nagar Haveli and Dadra. These enclaves are situated near Daman.

A Rs. 32-lakh development plan has been prepared for the 191-square-mile enclave of Nagar Haveli. Among the construction activities included in the plan are three bridges over the two rivers, costing Rs. 10 lakhs, 75 miles of roads, schools and village water system.

Handmade paper industry, catechu (Ratia used in pan) manufacture, tanneries and tile and brick factories, a public library and a maternity home have also been constructed. Over 3,000 students are now attending schools, on which the administration spends about Rs. 88,000. Spinning and carpentry are taught in the schools.

In December 1956 Portugal filed a claim before the World Court at the Hague to a right of passage to the two Portuguese enclaves.

India contested the jurisdiction of the World Court.

The case came up for hearing at the World Court in November 1957. Four of India's six preliminary objections were rejected by a majority vote of the Court. The court deferred its ruling on the remaining two points, and declared that they would be linked with the dispute itself which would be judged on its merits.

The Court invited the two parties to file written statements and fixed a time limit for the purpose—Feb. 25, 1958 for the Indian counter-memorial, May 25, 1958 for Portugal's reply and July 25, 1958 for India's rejoinder. An extra month was given and India filed her counter-memorial on March 25, 1958.

The two Indian objections on which the Court was still to give a ruling were that the right of passage fell exclusively within Indian jurisdiction and that the dispute arose before 1930 when India was not independent and could not therefore have accepted the jurisdiction of the Permanent Court of Justice at the Hague, the predecessor of the present International Court of Justice.

According to present arrangement the case is to be heard towards the end of 1958.

ANDHRA PRADESH

Capital: Hyderabad.
Area: 1,05,963 sq. miles; Population: 3,12,80,183 (1951).

No. of Districts: 20.

No. of talukas: 183.

The total number of District Boards in the State: 20. The number of Municipal Corporations: 2. The number of City and Town Municipalities in Telangana: 79; Municipal Councils in Andhra: 36; number of Panchayats in Telangana: 1,057; number of towns and cities in the State: 293; number of villages in the State: 29,450.

The total national income of the State for 1955-56 is estimated to be Rs. 823.10 crores. Strength of legislature (Legislative Assembly): 801.

The strength of the Legislative Council: 90.

No. of members from Andhra Pradesh to the Rajya Sabha: 18.

No. of members from Andhra Pradesh to the Lok Sabha: 48.

Regional Committee: A Regional Committee for the Telangana area called the Telangana Regional Committee was constituted at Hyderabad on March 31, 1958 in accordance with the provisions in the States Reorganization Act by an order of the President of the Indian Union in February 1958. All the 106 members elected from the Telangana region to the State Legislative Assembly are members of the Regional Committee.

The Committee advises the State Government on all matters pertaining to the Telangana region. The Government is normally expected to undertake measures or introduce reforms and other legislative measures in consultation with this committee. The Telangana region comprises nine districts of the former Hyderabad State, namely Adilabad, Nizamabad, Karimnagar, Medak, Warangal, Hyderabad, Nalgonda, Khammam and Mahbubnagar.

There is no regional committee for the Andhra region of the State.

Chairman, Regional Committee, K. Acharya Reddy.

Madras-Andhra Border Dispute: The Pataskar report on the Madras-Andhra border recommended the transfer of parts of Chingleput and Salem Districts to Andhra and a part of Chittoor District including the Taluka of Tiruttani to Madras.

DISTRICTS

Districts with District headquarters in brackets:

(Khammam), Karimnagar (Karimnagar), Adilabad (Adilabad), Nizamabad (Nizamabad), Medak (Sangareddy), Nalgonda (Nalgonda).

TALUKAS

Names of districts showing within brackets the talukas in each district.

Vishakhapatnam District (Narsipatnam, Ellamanchilli, Anakapalli, Vishakhapatnam, Srinagarapukota, Vijayanagar, Bhimuniatnam, Chodavaram and Chintapalli).

Srikakulam District (Tekkali, Sompeta, Ichchapuram, Srikakulam, Patapatnam, Narasannapeta, Bobbili, Parvatipuram, Palakonda, Salur and Chipurupalli).

East Godavari District (Rajahmundry, Ramachandrapuram, Rajole, Kakinada, Tuni, Bhadrachalam, Amalapuram, Peddapuram, Pithapuram, Rampa Chodavaram, Yellavaram, Nagur and Kothapeta).

West Godavari District (Bhimavaram, Tadepalligudem, Eluru, Kovvur, Polavaram, Narasapuram, Chintalapudi and Tanuku).

Krishna District (Masulipatnam, Vijayawada, Nazvid, Nandigama, Kalkalur, Gudivada, Divi, Jaggaipeta, Gannavaram and Tiruvuru).

Guntur District (Guntur, Ongole, Bapatla, Tenali, Repalle, Narasapur, Palnad, Vinukonda and Sattenapalli).

Nellore District (Gudur, Kavali, Kovur, Nellore, Udayagiri, Kanigiri, Rapur, Atmakur, Kandukur, Daral, Sullurpet, Podili and Venkatagiri).

Chittoor District (Chittoor, Madanapalli, Vayalpad, Kalesasi, Punganur, Tiruttani, Palamneru, Chandragiri, and Patticor).

Cuddappah District (Cuddappah, Proddutur, Rajampet, Jammalamadugu, Pulivendla, Badvel, Rayachoti, Siddhavattam and Kamalapuram).

Kurnool District (Kurnool, Dronachalam, Nandyal, Pattikonda, Nandikotkur, Siravella, Kamam, Markapuram, Kollukunta, Banganapalli, Adoni and Aloor).

Hyderabad District (Hyderabad West, Hyderabad East, Shahabad, Medchal, Ibrahimpatnam, Tandur and Vikarabad).

Mahbubnagar District (Mahbubnagar, Wasepalli, Atmakur, Mahthal, Fargi, Shadnagar, Kalvakurthi, Achampet, Nagarunool, Kollapur, Gadwal, Akampur and Karganur).

Warangal District (Warangal, Fakhal, Mulug, Mahabubabad, Faridul and Jangana).

Khammam District (Khammam, Madhira, Yellanda, Burampet and Palvancho).

Karimnagar District (Karimnagar, Shukla, Motpally, Jagtial, Sultanabad, Mahdover and Huzurnagar).

Adilabad District (Adilabad, Utnoor, Khanapur, Nirmal, Boath, Chinnor, Sirpu, Lakshmetipet and Asifabad).

Nizamabad District (Nizamabad, Kamareddy, Yellareddy, Banavala, Bodhan and Arnur).

Medak District (Sangareddy, Andole, Medak, Siddipet, Gajwel, Narsapur, Zaherabad and Narayankhed).

Nalgonda District (Nalgonda, Miryalguda, Deverkonda, Ramannapet, Bhongir, Suryapet and Huzurnagar).

A white paper published in Nov. 1957 envisages the abolition of District Boards and the formation of block and District Councils.

POPULATION

Population of districts based on 1951 census: Anantapur 1,483,591; Chittoor 1,810,377; Cuddappah 1,161,731; Godavari East 2,414,808; Godavari West 1,697,727; Guntur 2,549,996; Krishna 1,779,484; Kurnool 1,618,621; Nellore 1,795,632; Srikakulam 2,123,136; Karimnagar 1,428,168; Warangal 1,325,994; Nalgonda 1,252,810; Khammam 700,006; Hyderabad 1,511,336; Mahbubnagar 1,536,337; Adilabad 902,522; Nizamabad 773,158; Medak 1,245,265; Vishakhapatnam 2,072,699.

GEOGRAPHY

The shape of Andhra Pradesh is rather curious. A short neck with protruding belly would be an apt description. It has a chain of mountains, the Eastern Ghats, running over its entire length on the eastern and northern borders.

In the far north too the country is hilly.

There are huge forest areas in Srikakulam, Vishakhapatnam, Godavari, Kurnool, Warangal and Adilabad Districts.

The landscape is varied and rich. It ranges from the smiling ever-green plains of the Godavari and Krishna deltas, the rocky drought-stricken plateau of Rayalaseema, the undulating uplands of Northern Chitras to the flat sandy downs in Nellore and Guntur.

The climate is warm and humid or hot and humid according to the season.

The average annual rainfall is highest in the north varying between 45 inches and 50 inches. It gradually decreases to the south and south-west down to about 20 inches.

Two-thirds of the rain is from the south-west monsoon.

The rainfall is erratic both in time and quantity. The smaller the rainfall the more erratic it is.

Srikakulam, Vishakhapatnam, parts of Godavari and Nellore suffer from periodic floods and droughts, while the others are more liable to suffer from droughts.

There are no mountains of the type of the Sahyadri range, but there are hills and tablelands scattered throughout the State. Some of the hills are high and are covered with useful forest, some carry scrub jungle, while many are quite bare.

The soil in the area covered by the former Andhra State consists of the alluvial of the deltas and littoral tracts, red, black and brown soils.

The agricultural value depends on the textures. The interesting point is that while the top-soil is being washed away year after year, the remaining soil at the bottom continues to produce in the same measure as before. The average yield of rice per acre in Andhra region is 1,293 lbs. while in Telangana area it is 679 lbs. (The all-India average is 729 lbs.).

There are two major rivers in the area of the former Andhra State, the Godavari and the Krishna, three medium rivers with a large number of tributaries, and twenty-nine minor and small rivers. It is estimated that together they carry annually 150 million acre ft. of water into the Bay of Bengal.

The Godavari flows for the major part through the State before it falls into the Bay of Bengal. Its main tributaries are the Manjira, the Pranahita, the Indravati, and the Sabari, some of which flow partly in the Telangana area.

The main tributaries of the Krishna are Tungabhadra, Yerla, Warma and Dudhganga.

The medium rivers are the Pennar, the Nagavalli, the Vamsadhara.

The river system of Telangana consists of two great basins, that of the Godavari and the Krishna. The former with a length of more than 600 miles in the area has a number of tributaries, the chief of which are the Palnuganga, the Wardha and the Pranahita from the north, and the Manjira and the Maner from the south. Among its tributaries the most important are the Bhima, the Musi on which the capital stands, and the Tungabhadra, which forms the southern boundary of the Raichur-Mudgal Doab. The Telangana region, abounds in tanks and artificial lakes constructed mainly for the purpose of irrigation.

In Telangana the soil has granitic and calcareous formation. It is the land of rice and jowar. The hills are bare of vegetation and the land is covered with huge fantastic tors and boulders. Also as the soil is sandy, the rivers dry up in hot weather, necessitating the storage of water in tanks and artificial lakes for purposes of irrigation.

AGRICULTURE

The total geographical area of the State is 664.32 lakh acres.

Net area sown in 1955-56 was 270 lakh acres or 40.6 per cent of the total geographical area.

Barren and uncultivable land: 72.38 lakh acres.

Land put to non-agricultural uses: 33.33 lakh acres.

Cultivable waste: 41.09 lakh acres.

Permanent pastures and other grazing lands: 28.78 lakh acres.

Land under miscellaneous crops, trees and groves not included in the net area sown: 6.23 lakh acres.

Current fallows: 54.88 lakh acres.

Forests: 140.26 lakh acres.

Area sown more than once: 303.85 lakh acres.

Total cropped area: 293.81 lakh acres.

The following are the acreage figures of the main crops in 1955-56.

Cereals 174.19 lakh acres: (a) Rice 58.12 lakh acres; (b) Jowar 65.07 lakh acres; Pulses 23.96 lakh acres; Oilseeds 47.0 lakh acres; Chillies 3.47 lakh acres; Sugarcane 1.71 lakh acres; Tobacco 3.21 lakh acres; Cotton 9.69 lakh acres; Bajra 16.12 lakh acres; Maize 4.19 lakh acres; Ragi 7.71 lakh acres; Minor millets 22.61 lakh acres; Bengal gram 2.57 lakh acres; Tuar (red gram) 3.61 lakh acres; Green gram 9.23 lakh acres; Black gram 2.10 lakh acres; Horse gram 9.83 lakh acres; Onions .48 lakh acres; Sesamum 6.77 lakh acres; Castor 6.99 lakh acres; Mesta 1.01 lakh acres.

Production figures (estimates) for 1955-56 of some of the main crops are as follows: (Cereals 51,20,000 tons); Rice 80,59,000 tons; Jowar 10,78,000 tons; Maize 64,000 tons; (Pulses 2,46,000 tons); Tuar 42,000 tons; Green Gram 63,000 tons; Sugarcane 4,78,000 tons; Chillies 1,01,000 tons; (Oilseeds 1,14,000 tons); Groundnut 1,02,000 tons; Castor 65,000 tons; Cotton (Bales) 1,33,000; Tobacco 1,09,000 tons; Bajra 3,09,000 tons; Ragi 2,18,000 tons; Minor millets 3,23,000 tons; Bengal gram 31,000 tons; Black gram 21,000 tons; Horse gram 78,000 tons; Onions 1,87,000 tons; Sesamum 58,000 tons; Mesta 1,09,000 tons.

Position 1956-57:

Total area under crops in 1956-57: 30 million acres.

Production of cereals and lesser millets (1956-57): 55,20,000 tons.

Area under cereals and millets (1956-57): 18,964,000 acres.

Area and production respectively within brackets for 1956-57 of rice and jowar: Rice (7,104,000 acres; 3,304,000 tons); Jowar (6,180,000 acres; 1,052,000 tons).

The more useful species of timber produced are Koaum, Toon, Rosewood, Irul, Teak. Bamboo suitable for the manufacture of paper pulp also occur in abundance.

Total Forest area: 14 mln. acres.

LAND REFORMS

According to the census of land holdings conducted in 1954 in the Telangana region and in 1955 in Andhra region, the total number of holdings in Andhra Pradesh is 42,43,655 comprising an area of 3,41,91,769 acres. The average size of a single holding is 8.1 acres. 39.87 lakh holdings are under the personal cultivation of the owners wholly or partly and the remaining 2.56 lakh holdings are completely leased out. The area leased out is 39.29 lakh acres or 11.5 per cent of the total owned area in the holdings. The remaining 84.5 per cent or 302.63 lakh acres are under the personal cultivation of the owners, and they include lands put to non-agricultural uses.

The Tenancy Acts in force are the Hyderabad Tenancy and Agricultural Lands Act, the Hyderabad Prevention of Fragmentation and Consolidation of Holdings Act, the Estates Land Act, the Rent Reduction Act, the Inams Abolition Act and the Andhra Tenancy Act.

An ordinance was promulgated in 1957 calling upon those owning more than 20 acres of land in the former Andhra region to furnish details of their holdings to the Government.

The definition of 'estate' under the Estates Land Act was enlarged in 1956 so as to include within its scope inam hamlets and inam Khandrigas in inam villages, thereby ensuring the application of the Rent Reduction Act and to some extent the Abolition Act to these inams. Legislation for the abolition of all 'inams' other than 'estates' and for their conversion into ryotwari tenure, was undertaken. With a view to completing the scheme for the abolition of intermediaries proposals are under Government's consideration for legislation for the abolition of the post-1936 inam estates also. The Andhra Tenancy Act was enacted in 1955 providing mainly for the regulation of grants payable by tenants to landlords and for the prescription of a minimum period for agricultural leases. The Hyderabad Tenancy Act was amended so as to confer the right of protected tenancy on a larger class of tenants than had hitherto enjoyed such benefits.

All those who had cultivated land continuously for six years within a prescribed period were classified as protected tenants. They numbered, according to a census taken in 1953-54, about 620,000 in the entire State and about 260,743 in the nine districts of Telangana. So long as the tenant paid his rent—which in case of dispute was determined by the Government according to a formula linked with the land revenue—he enjoyed absolute rights of cultivation.

The Government promulgated an ordinance to ban all evictions retrospectively from March 21, 1953. Some 600 suits were stayed and more than 5,000 tenants restored to their lands.

The protected tenants were given special privileges, including the right to purchase land held by them on easy terms. There was a limit to the extent of land they could thus purchase.

The tenant's total extent of land, including his own, should not exceed one family holding, which is defined as the extent of land capable of yielding a gross annual income of Rs. 1,600.

The ceiling on present holdings of a landlord was fixed at 4.5 family holdings, while that on future holdings was scaled down to three acres.

Any protected tenant can notify his desire to purchase the land under his occupation provided the landowner does not own more than two family holdings in all. In case the landowner fails to concede his request, an application is made to a tribunal, which will decide how much of the land should be sold to him and at what price.

The Act fixed the maximum limits of the reasonable price which the tenant should pay. They were computed in multiples of land revenue—for dry, chalka lands 60 times the land revenue and for wet lands irrigated under flow water or wells 24 times the land revenue.

The price is payable in 16 instalments spread over not more than eight years.

Of the 260,743 protected tenants in Telangana, only 13,125 exercised their right of purchase and bought 142,417 acres.

Towards the end of 1955, it was decided to apply section 38-E of the Tenancy Act in certain selected areas, by which the protected tenants automatically became the owners of the lands, whether or not they made any application in writing to that effect, and it was up to the landlord to prove that this or that particular plot of land was required by him.

This was applied throughout Khammam district and in the Mulug taluka of Warangal district.

By the end of 1957 11,426 protected tenants in Khammam and 1,900 in Mulug had become 'owners' of their lands.

It was estimated that throughout Telangana, there were about 5,400 substantial landholders, that is, those who owned more than the statutory limit of 4.5 family holdings (this would yield an annual gross income of Rs. 7,200). In terms of acres, though they vary from district to district, it is estimated that on an average, a family holding ranges from six to nine acres of wet land and 21 to 60 acres of dry land.

The substantial landholders in Telangana together own about 3,958 acres of dry land (assuming six acres of dry land as equivalent to one acre of wet land). The surplus land available for distribution among the landless will be in the neighbourhood of 536,000 acres.

Consolidation of land holdings and prevention of fragmentation was being worked out on an experimental basis in 50 selected villages.

LIVESTOCK

The figures (latest available, 1956) for livestock are in thousands.

Total Cattle 11,276

1. Males over 3 years 4,842 including 23.34 breeding bulls.

2. Females over 3 years 3,762.17 including 1,431.34 in milk.

3. Young Stock under three years 1,200.24. Total males 6,130.98; total females 5,145.56.

Total Buffaloes 17,243.18

LARGE-SCALE INDUSTRY

The main industries are Sugar, Paper, Cement, Cigarettes and Textiles. There is a big sugar factory at Bodhan in Nizamabad District and there are other factories in different places. Paper mills are at Sirpur in Adilabad District and Rajahmundry in East Godavari District. Cement factories are at Vijayawada and other places. Cigarette factories are concentrated in Hyderabad City. Textile Mills are in Hyderabad, Warangal and a few other towns. Others worth mentioning are the Government Ceramic Factory at Gudur, Block Glass Factory at Gudur and the proposed Sri Venkateswara Paper and Strawboard Mills, Tirupathi.

In the Telangana area there are eleven textile factories which employ 8,030 persons, 111 tobacco units employing 8,300 persons, two cotton and spinning factories employing 600 persons. Then there is the ship-building yard at Vishakapatnam.

Production figures of the various industries are given below :

Commodity	Unit	Production, 1955	Value 1955 (In lakhs of Rs.)
Sugar	000 tons	118	740.90
Paper	"	15.2	180.95
Cement	"	204	166.51
Cigarettes	Crores	448	348.86

The chief minerals produced in the State are coal, iron ore, limestone, manganese and asbestos. The coal industry is situated at Kothagudem, Tandur, Yellandu and Sasti in Telangana region. Other minerals are widely distributed. According to the Geological Survey of India, two large deposits of iron ore containing an estimated reserve of nearly 389 million tons of ore have been located in Guntur and Nellore districts.

Production figures for 1955 are as follows :— (The first figure within brackets shows the output in tons and the second figure indicates the value in lakhs of rupees): Coal (1,682,000* tons; Rs. 369.95* lakhs); Manganese (101,000 tons; Rs. 156.15 lakhs); Mica (4,150 tons; Rs. 114.54 lakhs); Iron Ore (663,000 tons; Rs. 48.81 lakhs); Limestone (244,000 tons; Rs. 35.82 lakhs); Asbestos (321 tons; Rs. 3.09 lakhs); Barytes (4,342 tons; Rs. 0.78 lakhs).

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES

The number of workers employed in small-scale and cottage industries, according to the 1951 census, was 1,107,368 and these were distributed over 355,010 establishments. The most important industry is that of handloom. There are about 4 lakh handlooms in the State; besides, there are 14,000 looms for woollen fabrics. The State has thus the largest number of looms in India and this industry provides employment for about 323,000 persons and livelihood for 1,615,000 persons. Assuming that the overall production per month per weaver is 100 yards, the annual output of handloom cloth per annum works out to about 39 crore yards of cloth.

Other important cottage industries are Kambli-weaving which employs about 39,000 persons, coil making employing about 12,000 persons and basket making which employs about 40,000 persons.

Certain handicrafts of Andhra Pradesh are world famous. Notable among these are the silver filigree articles of Karimnagar, the exquisite toys of Nirmal, Kondapalli, Nakkapalli and Tirupathi, the carpets of Warangal and Eluru and the lac goods of Narasapur.

TRANSPORT

The total railway route mileage open for traffic in Andhra Pradesh is 2,902 miles out of which 1,633 miles are Broad Gauge, 1,244 miles Metre Gauge and 25 miles Narrow Gauge. The total road mileage including National Highways, State Highways, major district and other district roads is 14,466 miles.

The Andhra Pradesh Road Transport is a nationalized service now largely serving Telangana area. In 1955-56 the road mileage covered by it was 3,577; its total fleet strength 442. Its total earnings from the Telangana area stood at nearly Rs. 1,82,33,000 in 1954-55 and Rs. 1,79,82,000 in 1955-56 while the expenditure was Rs. 1,65,09,000 and Rs. 1,71,28,000 respectively. The number of passengers carried in 1954-55 was 44,815,888 and in 1955-56 it was 47,308,052.

The Government has decided to nationalise road transport in Krishna District as a first step towards extending the principle to the whole State.

There is a well-developed airport at Begumpet in Hyderabad city; there are landing grounds near Vijayawada and Vishakapatnam.

Many canals in the Andhra area are used for boat transport.

There are two broadcasting stations in the State—at Hyderabad and Vijayawada. There were 2,384 community listening sets in the State on 1st August 1957. It was proposed to install 1,400 more during 1957-58.

The City of Secunderabad is the headquarters of the Secunderabad Division of the Central Railway and is the junction of the Broad Gauge and Metre Gauge systems. From here lines radiate east, south, west and north. The total mileage open for traffic which now constitutes the Secunderabad division of the Central Railway is 1,461 miles.

Hyderabad City is connected by air with Bombay, Nagpur, Madras and Bangalore. Hyderabad City is served by Begumpet aerodrome. Hyderabad is also linked by air to Delhi and Calcutta.

POWER PROJECTS

Installed capacity of State : 192,876 K.W. (1955).

Actual production in State : 246,903 million units (1956-57).

† This is a joint venture of the Andhra Pradesh and the Orissa States. The cost and power generated are to be shared in the ratio of 70 : 30. This project was started in 1946.

‡ This scheme is under the control of the Tungabhadra Board constituted by the President of the Indian Union consequent on the formation of the Andhra State, from 1-10-1953 and the transfer to the Mysore State from that date of 7 taluks of Bellary District in which the project is located. The expenditure and the benefits of power are to be shared by Andhra and Mysore Governments in the ratio of 80 : 20. This project was started in 1953. The installed capacity is that of two generators.

 A number of stations were progressively stopped with the advent of hydro-power from Tungabhadra Dam.

Chittoor, Hindupur, Warangal Yellandu :

For Chittoor and Hindupur, the installed capacity is 8,162 kW. and the production in 1956-57 was 23-653 million units.

Bulk supply of hydro-power is being purchased from (1) Mettur Project at 7 points of supply in Chittoor area. The maximum demand recorded 2,779.4 kW. as against the original agreement of 3,400 kW. (2) Mysore Jog Power at Bellary. Maximum demand recorded 2,830 kW. as against 2,000 kW. (3) Mysore Shivamudram Power at Hindupur. Maximum demand recorded 553 kW. as against 700 kW.

For Warangal the installed capacity is 800 kW. and production in 1956-57 was 3-151 million units. For Yellandu the installed capacity is 160 kW. and production in 1956-57 was 336 million units.

For Warangal and Yellandu power is being purchased in bulk from the local mills and distributed by Government.

SECOND PLAN

Investigations on the following power projects are being undertaken during the Second Plan period. (1) Nagarjunasagar Hydro-Electric Scheme; (2) Lower Sileru Hydro-Electric Scheme; (3) Nagarjunasagar Canal Power House; (4) Srisaikalam Hydro-Electric Scheme; (5) Sangareddy Hydro-Electric Scheme; (6) Laxmipuram Hydro-Electric Scheme; (7) Pulichintala Hydro-Electric Scheme; (8) Siddeswararam Hydro-Electric Scheme.

The targets of power production proposed during the Second Plan period are as follows: Installed capacity 1,44,100 kW.; Transmission lines to be constructed, H.T. and L.T. 2,330 miles; Total load to be connected 3,77,100 kW.; Aggregate peak demand 1,27,000 kW.; Consumers that will be served 30,000; Agricultural Services 5,400; Villages and towns to be electrified 340; Per Capita consumption 20 units.

IRRIGATION

Statement showing the net area irrigated by different sources, gross area irrigated and area sown more than once in Andhra Pradesh during 1955-56 : Govt. canals 3,039,453 acres; Private canals 62,729 acres; Tanks 2,566,634 acres; Wells 753,977 acres; Other sources 254,083 acres.

Total net area irrigated 6,676,876 acres.

Total gross area irrigated 7,834,235 acres.

Area irrigated more than once 1,157,359 acres.

A sum of Rs. 14-57 crores was spent on major and medium size irrigation projects in the Andhra region during the First Plan period. Six major irrigation projects, viz., the Tungabhadra, Krishna regulator-cum-road bridge, P. V. P. Fennar, Romperu Drainage, Ballapadu (second stage) and Bhairavani-tippa Projects, were taken up for execution to benefit an area of 290,675 acres in the districts of Krishna, Guntur, Nellore and Anantapur. On these alone Rs. 11-14 crores was spent during the First Plan period. Seventeen medium projects to provide irrigation facilities to 379,678 acres of land were taken up for execution and four of them were completed during the First Plan period. On these a sum of Rs. 343-22 lakhs was spent. Four of the medium projects are located in Srikakulam district, three each in Nellore and Chittoor districts, two each in Cuddappah and Anantapur districts and one each in Vishakhapatnam, West Godavari and Kurnool districts.

A sum of Rs. 718-00 lakhs was spent during the First Plan period on two major irrigation projects in Telangana, viz., the Rajollabanda Diversion Scheme for providing irrigation facilities to about one lakh acres in the Mahbubnagar district and the Kadam Project benefiting an area of 67,000 acres in the Adilabad district. They are continued as spill-over schemes in the Second Plan and a sum of Rs. 270-05 lakhs is provided for them. Also during the First Plan period a sum of Rs. 115-81 lakhs was spent on five medium irrigation projects, viz., Kollasagar and Sarlasagar Projects to benefit 60,000 acres in Mahbubnagar district, the Musi and Bhlmanpally Projects benefiting 43,860 acres in Nalgonda district and the Sirala Project benefiting 3,000 acres in Adilabad district. In the Second Plan these schemes get a provision of Rs. 64-80 lakhs. The total area benefited by these major and medium projects is 273,860 acres.

A unique achievement with regard to the Musi project in Nalgonda District is that without damming the river or building a reservoir, irrigation water for 2,000 acres of land has been given already through the right flank canal. The reservoir, when completed, will be an 8-1/2 mile sheet of water. Irrigation water for 10,000 acres was expected to be given by June 1958 and the complete development of 38,000 acres will be over in two years.

All the major and medium irrigation projects except the four medium projects completed during the First Plan period are included as continuing schemes in the Second Plan. The Vamsadhara Project is a new major scheme included in the Second Plan. A sum of Rs. 19-95 crores is provided in the Second Plan for the Nagarjunasagar Project which is common to both the regions of Andhra Pradesh.

The major and medium irrigation projects included in the Second Plan for Andhra are expected to bring 4-49 lakh acres more under irrigation during the Second Plan period while the area ultimately expected to benefit from these, amounts to 27-30 lakh acres.

Nagarjunasagar Project. The project in its first Stage comprises the construction of a masonry dam 302 feet high above the foundation level, across the Krishna river near Nandikonda about 90 miles below Siddeswararam, and two canals taking off from the reservoir, known as the left and the right bank canals. The dam is situated about ten miles from Machera railway station in Guntur district. Large areas extending between the Krishna and Godavari in the north and the Krishna and the Pennar in the south can be commanded by the reservoir.

The project will have a gross storage capacity of 5-44 million acre feet and is expected to be completed in 1965.

The right bank canal which will be 135 miles long will carry a discharge of 11,000 cusecs in the first Stage. The left bank canal will be 108 miles long and will lead up to the river Muneru in the first stage, and will flow through Telangana.

The cost of the first Stage of the project, namely, construction of the dam and the two canals is estimated to be about Rs. 86-57 crores.

The present scheme which forms the first Stage of the project will irrigate about 2-06 million acres of land spread over the districts of Guntur, Kurnool, Nellore, Warangal and Nalgonda.

The second Stage of the project which will be taken up later on will provide for the generation of electric power.

CO-OPERATION

The total number of Co-operative Societies in the State (1956-57): 18,982; membership: 22,50,000. Share capital: Rs. 46,78,00,000.

The number of agricultural credit societies is 9,697 with a membership of 7,48,298.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Plague, Cholera, Small-pox, Tuberculosis, Malaria, Filaria, and Yaws are among the common diseases in the State, but Government efforts to fight these have produced remarkable results in the case of some. Plague used to be almost an annual visitation to Hyderabad City but drastic preventive measures taken in recent years have practically eliminated it. Cholera, Small-pox and other seasonal epidemics continue to attack people but Government steps to reduce their incidence are also proving effective. The B.C.G. vaccination campaign against tuberculosis is in full swing and by the close of the First Plan period nearly 18,00,000 persons were vaccinated and 6,23,000 vaccinated in the former Andhra State. In Telangana region also the scheme is being extended.

Organised assault on malaria is going on, regions vulnerable to the disease claiming priority. An anti-malaria unit was organised at Lakhnavaram in Warangal district during the First Plan period. Ample provision has been made in the Second Plan to provide equipment for the existing three Malaria Control Units functioning in the Telangana region. In the Andhra districts the establishment of four Malaria Control Units covering about 4 million population is contemplated. A Central Malaria Laboratory and Museum are planned.

With a view to intensifying the control of filariasis in the endemic zones of Nizamabad, Mahbubnagar, Medak and Karimnagar districts, three control units are proposed during the Second Plan period under the National Filaria Control Programme. In the former Andhra State two survey units and one Filaria Control Unit were established in 1955 and the survey of endemic areas and control of endemic filariasis have registered considerable progress at the close of the First Plan period.

Number of hospitals, dispensaries and institutions for special treatment in the State excepting Khammam District (1953-54): 280; No. of beds available 11,549; No. of Govt. doctors 617; No. of out-patients treated 71,50,435.

EDUCATION

There are three Universities in the State: The Andhra University at Waltair, the Omania University at Hyderabad and the Sri Venkateswara University at Tirupati.

Elementary education is free in Government Schools. The system of compulsory primary education is being extended progressively. Approximately, there is a school for every 800 of the population.

Besides a large number of Colleges offering general education, two Agricultural Colleges, four Medical Colleges, two Science Colleges, two Women's Colleges, a Law College and four Engineering Colleges exist in the State. There are 11 Colleges giving higher education in

The following tables show particulars about some irrigation projects under the First Five-Year Plan (former Andhra area) :

Sanskrit. One novel experiment is a Janata College in Warangal district where rural youth are given training in better methods of agriculture, rural social service, health and hygiene, rural surveys and crafts.

As for training facilities, there are 4 B.Ed. Colleges, besides a number of Secondary Grade Training Centres and Basic Training Centres. The old type of adult schools are being replaced by Social Education Centres.

No. of primary schools: 27,537; enrolment about 22,90,036.

No. of secondary schools: about 953; enrolment about 4,53,312.

No. of Colleges: 85; enrolment about 50,000.

THE SECOND FIVE-YEAR PLAN

OSMANIA UNIVERSITY
Hyderabad 7.

The Osmania University was established in 1918 under Royal Charter which was revised in 1947. It is a residential, teaching and affiliating university. It comprises ten Faculties, namely, Arts, Science, Commerce, Medicine, Engineering, Agriculture, Veterinary Science, Education, Law, and Religion and Culture. There are 6 University Colleges, 7 constituent degree Colleges (including one exclusively Women's College), 3 constituent Pre-university Course Colleges, 22 Affiliated Colleges (including 3 Medical Colleges, 11 degree Colleges and one Women's College), 7 Pre-University Course Colleges, 2 (Constituent Evening Colleges (one Degree and one Pre-University Course) for those in employment.

In the Arts and Science Faculties, English and Hindustani, the latter with Persian and Devanagari Script, are the media of instruction. In all professional courses English is the only medium of instruction. The course of study in M.Sc. Technology has been abolished and a new degree course B.Chem. Technology and B. Chem. Engineering has been instituted. It is of four years' duration after Intermediate Science, or pre-professional course. The courses of study in Oriental learning in Sanskrit for entrance test, Dip. O. L. and B.O.L., have been framed. One private Oriental Institution has been recognised to coach students for these courses. In 1944-45 two new courses of study, the Certificate of Proficiency in Journalism and Diploma in Journalism, were introduced. Diploma and Certificate in Public Administration also introduced in 1956-57.

The University is completely autonomous though it is wholly financed by the Government. The University Council, consisting of 16 members is the governing body. The Vice-Chancellor is the chief administrative officer. The other bodies of the University are the Finance Committee, Academic Council, Senate, Faculties and Boards of Studies and the Equivalence Board.

Budget (1956-57) : Rs. 87,51,045.
Contribution by State Government :
Rs. 52,73,200.

Library : 118,696 Volumes (English 30,804 ; Urdu, Persian, Arabic 16,932 ; Oriental 17,575, Gift 16,959 ; Salarjung 30,426). There are 6,360 MSS and 1,244 Palm Leaf MSS.

MARKETS AND SLAUGHTER HOUSES DEPARTMENTCrawford Market, Dr. Dadabhai Naorji Road, Bombay 1

There are 61 markets in Greater Bombay out of which 37 are the property of the Municipal Corporation while the rest are owned by private individuals and licensed by the Corporation.

These markets are called upon to handle enormous quantities of daily necessities of life like fruits, vegetables, meat, fish, poultry, provisions, etc., etc., for the local consumption as well as for trade purposes.

A cold storage plant is maintained at the Arthur Crawford Market which is one of the biggest markets in the city. A lift is also provided in the Fish Section of this market for conveyance of fish consignments.

The scope of Municipal control extends to general supervision, sanitation, food-inspection, collection of rents and fees, licensing, repairs, replacements, etc., etc.

The Corporation also maintains a number of slaughter houses, the prominent being the Bandra and Kuria Slaughter Houses, the Fork Slaughter House and the licensed Jhatka Slaughter House at Arthur Road. Meat is conveyed to city markets by Municipal motor meat convoys.

An elaborate system of meat inspection, which includes ante- and post-mortem examination, grading and stamping of carcasses, rejection and destruction of unwholesome meat, etc. is regularly carried out by the Meat Inspection Service, consisting of qualified Veterinary officers engaged by the Corporation.

There is a special staff employed to detect the smuggling of animals and contraband meat and unauthorised slaughter.

Superintendent of Markets and Slaughter Houses, Vacant.

Asst. Superintendent of Markets (Suburbs), V. G. Sukhtankar.

Senior Assistant, Bandra Slaughter House, Dr. S. A. Malankar.

Total	33,81,285	100.0	37,37,830	100.0	89

Note: In both Saurashtra and Gujarat, parties other than the Congress and the P.-S.P. polled under two per cent of the total votes in both elections. The Jan Sangh polled 24,252 votes in Saurashtra-Kutch in the 1957 elections. In Guja at the Communists polled 37,862 votes and the S.C.F. a little over 36,000 votes.

The 1957 totals for the Independents include 45,740 and 11,60,344 votes polled by candidates sponsored by Mahagujarat Janata Parishad in these two areas respectively.

The Parishad polled about 13 lakh votes in all the Gujarati-speaking areas of the State. It won 30 seats in Gujarat and none in Saurashtra. The Congress won 97 out of the 130 seats in the two Gujarati regions.

Party 115 against 49 and the Jan Sangh 103 against 91. The P.-S.P. put up 175 against 256 on the last occasion.

The number of independents was, however, about the same. It was 524 in 1952 and 522 in 1957.

The maximum number of contestants for an Assembly seat was 11 in a single-member constituency and 16 in a two-member one, the corresponding figures for Lok Sabha being eight and 11 respectively.

The single-member Assembly constituencies of Gaya in Bihar, Jodhpur City I and Fatehpur in Rajasthan, Chhijpur in Uttar Pradesh and Sandeshkhali in West Bengal had 11 candidates each, while the two-member constituencies of Jahana'ul in Bihar and Sirsa in the Punjab had each 16 contestants in the field.

In the elections to the Lok Sabha, there were eight contestants in the Rewa (Madhya Pradesh) single-member constituency and 11 in the Navana (Bihar) two-member constituency.

Repolling had to be ordered in 30 polling stations. The number of constituencies affected was 22 in six States. The re-polling arose because of the mistakes of the polling staff.

PARTIES, SYMBOLS

Four parties were recognized as all-India parties:

The Indian National Congress, the Praja Socialist Party, the Communist Party, the Bharatiya Jan Sangh. These parties had the same symbols as in the previous general election. Congress (two bullocks with a yoke), Communists (ears of corn with sickle), P.-S.P. (hat), Jan Sangh (oil lamp with wick).

The State parties and their symbols:

(1) All-India Scheduled Castes Federation (Andhra Pradesh, Bombay, Madhya Pradesh, Mysore, Punjab, Delhi and Himachal Pradesh—Elephant). (2) All-India Forward Bloc—Marxist (West Bengal—standing lion). (3) All-India Ganatantra Parishad (Orissa—bow and arrow). (4) Akhil Bharat Hindu Mahasabha (Bombay, Madhya Pradesh and West Bengal—horse and rider). (5) Akhil Bharat Ram Rajya Parishad (Bombay, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh—rising sun). (6) Chota Nagpur and Santhal Paraganas Janata Party (Bihar—cycle). (7) Jharkhand Party (Bihar—cock). (8) Prasthita and Workers' Party (Andhra Pradesh, Bombay and Mysore—cycle). (9) The People's Democratic Front (Andhra Pradesh—human hand). (10) Revolutionary Socialist Party (Kerala—spear and stoker). (11) Tripura Ganatantrik Sangha (Tripura—ladder).

The standard for recognition as a party was a minimum of three per cent of the valid votes polled in the Assembly or the electoral college elections.

Out of 474 election petitions filed before the Election Commission after the general elections, 269 were disposed of upto January 31, 1958. Out of these 16 were dismissed by the Election Commission, two were withdrawn before the Commission, 194 were dismissed by the Tribunals, 38 were allowed by the Tribunals and 17 were withdrawn before the Tribunals, while two other petitions abated due to the death of the petitioners.

Ninety-four Tribunals were functioning in the various States at the end of January 1958.

Uncontested returns were:

Lok Sabha: Twelve, all Congressmen. (Andhra Pradesh four, Assam two, Bihar two, Madhya Pradesh one, Mysore two and Madras one).

State Assemblies: Andhra four Congressmen, Assam four Congressmen and two others, Bombay three Congressmen, Kerala one Independent, Madhya Pradesh six Congressmen, Madras three Congressmen, Mysore seven Congressmen and one Independent, Orissa one Congressman, the Punjab one Congressman, Rajasthan five Congressmen and Uttar Pradesh five Congressmen.

Twenty-seven women were elected to the Lok Sabha and 195 to the various State Assemblies in the second general elections as compared with 21 and 80 respectively in the first general elections.

Note: The Famyukta Maharashtra Samiti contested all the 23 seats in the elections. It won 11 seats and polled 6,08,405 votes.

The following table shows the number of seats won by the Congress and the Samiti respectively in each of the 12 districts of Maharashtra:

Total	84	100

Twenty-three women elected to the Lok Sabha belonged to the Congress Party, two to the Communist Party and two to the Chota Nagpur Santhal Parganas Janata Party.

Of those elected to the State Assemblies, 11 belonged to the Congress, four to the Communist Party, one to the People's Democratic Party, two to the Chota Nagpur Santhal Parganas Janata Party, three to the Ganatantra Party and the remaining six are Independents.

The Bihar Assembly had 32 women, the largest for any State, followed by Madhya Pradesh with 27, Uttar Pradesh with 20, Bombay with 25 and Mysore with 18.

Seventeen Scheduled Castes and Tribes candidates were elected to general seats.

Of these four were elected to the Lok Sabha (one each in Andhra, Kerala, W. Bengal and Tripura) and 13 to the State Assemblies (one each in Andhra, Bombay, Madras, Orissa and U.P.; two in Assam and three each in Kerala and W. Bengal).

A COMMENTARY

Below we give brief notes on points brought out in the tables.

ASSAM

With one exception in the Mikir and Naga Cachar Hills, the Congress failed to win a single tribal seat in the Hill districts of Assam. This is perhaps the most significant aspect of the elections to the State Assembly.

In an unbroken chain from the Garo in Khasi and Jaintia Hills, through the Naga Hill to the Lushai Hills, the tribes largely voted for parties that favour a separate eastern Hill State, a demand examined and rejected by the State Reorganisation Commission. The Congress lost the Shillong seat which it held previously.

The following was the position in the various Hill areas which return 18 members.

Lushai Hills: United Mizo Freedom Organisation (2), and Mizo Union (1).

Garo Hills: Garo National Council (1) and Independent (1).

Khasi and Jaintia Hills: Eastern India Tribal Union (3), and Independents (2).

Naga Hills: Independents (2 both unopposed) and there were no aspirants for a seat.

Mikir and North Cachar Hills: Independents (2) and Congress (1). The Congress has lost a seat here.

In addition the Congress contested and won the tribal seat in Paucry (Darrang district).

The Congress however, won some half a dozen tribal seats in the plains and foot hills at Morigaon, Jorhat, Kokrajhar (Goalpara district), Laharighat (Nowgong district), North Lakhimpur and Patacharkuchi (Kamrup district).

The unexpected defeat of the then Deputy Minister for Public Works Mr. Joybhadracharya in the North Cachar Hills was a blow to the Congress as a source of strength in the hill area. This left the Congress with only one successful ally, Mr. Chattrasingh Teron in the Mikir Hills. He joined the Congress leaving the Revolutionary Communist Party.

The leftist opposition in the State Assembly comprised 13 members—eight Pina Socialist, four Communists and one Revolutionary Communist.

The Hills representatives in the opposition consisted of four Garo National Conference members, four Eastern India Tribal Union members (all from Khasi Jaintia Hills), two United Mizo Freedom Organisation members, one Mizo Union representative and 10 Independents from Mikir, North Cachar Hill were expected to join the tribal opposition group.

The Congress secured a very comfortable majority in the 108-member House, but its prestige suffered in comparison to the 1951 elections. Not only did it secure a lesser number of seats, but also lost several prestige seats.

Note: The 1951-52 figures have been adjusted for the territories comprising the present State of Madras (i.e. less Andhra, Malabar and South Kanara and plus Nagercoil). There was an increase in the electorate for the State over the five years, the figure for 1957 being nearly 1.8 crores.

The P.S.P. vote for 1951 includes those secured by the Socialist Party and the K.M.P.P.

Two Ministers, one Deputy Minister, two members of Parliament, including Mr. Bimala Prasad Chhabra, now Chief Minister, then President of the Assam Pradesh Congress Committee, were defeated.

BIHAR

Though the Congress returned to power its strength dropped from 241 in a House of 320 to 210 in a House of 318.

Had it not been for the fact that different opposition parties pulled one another down, the Congress majority would have been further reduced. In a very large number of constituencies, multi-cornered contests did help the Congress.

At least 20 seats came as a gift to it on account of the neck to neck race between the Praja-Socialists and the Socialists. These seats were won narrowly.

Another favourable factor was the presence of 524 Independents in the field. 370 of them forfeited their deposits, having helped to split the anti-Congress vote.

The Jharkhand Party retained its block of 32 seats, losing some safe seats reserved for Scheduled Tribes and making up the loss in the general constituencies.

The Janata Party, which functioned only in Hazaribagh, emerged as a new force in the State and captured all the 16 seats there and seven more in the districts of Patna, Saran and Palamau.

BOMBAY

The Samyukta Maharashtra Samiti polled just under 53 per cent of the total votes cast and captured 100 of the 134 seats in Maharashtra proper according to a regional analysis of voting to the Bombay Assembly.

The Congress poll in this area declined from 27.4 lakhs or 56 per cent in 1952 to 22.5 lakhs or 39 per cent. The party did not gain a single seat in Kolaba or Kolhapur district, and secured only one seat each in Poona, Ratnagiri and Ahmednagar districts.

In Bombay City, the Samiti polled just over six lakh votes or 51.5 per cent of the total votes cast. The Congress, however, improved its position from 39.7 per cent to 46.5 per cent by polling over one and a half lakh votes more than in 1952. Of the 23 seats from Bombay city, the Congress won 12 and the Samiti 11.

The Congress rout in Maharashtra was, however, partly offset by gains in the other two Marathi-speaking areas of Marathwada and Vidarbha. In the former, the Congress won 35 out of 42 seats and increased its poll by over one lakh votes from 43.5 to 52 per cent.

In Vidarbha, the Congress increased its poll by about 3.5 lakhs from just under 50 per cent to 52.3 per cent and won 55 of the 63 seats.

In neither region was the Samiti able to make very much of an impression.

Taking the Marathi-speaking region as a whole, the Congress won 124 seats out of 248 as against 105 by the Samiti. The Congress vote, however, declined by a few thousand (on account of the losses in Marathwada) while the ratio of the party's vote to the total dropped from 52.6 per cent to 45.3 per cent.

A possible conclusion would appear to be that the bilingual formula for Bombay was endorsed by Marathwada and Vidarbha but repudiated by Maharashtra. The Marathi speaking people of the State as a whole approved the status quo.

On balance, the conclusion could also be drawn that the bilingual formula was accepted by the people of Bombay city notwithstanding the fact that the Samiti polled a majority of the total votes cast.

It must be remembered that the Congress polled a minority of votes in the city even in 1952. The fact that it was able to improve its position both in terms of the number of votes cast and the proportion of this to the total would not indicate a rejection of the bilingual formula which the party sponsored.

Note: The 1951-52 figure represents the total for the new Rajasthan, including Ajmer.

There were many straight contests in the State and a considerable portion of the Samiti vote was interpreted as a vote against the Congress or in favour of the other parties rather than as a pro-Samiti vote as such.

Analysing the voting partywise the Communists and the Scheduled Caste Federation gained ground in Bombay city while the Praja lost ground.

The most striking features of the voting in the three Marathi-speaking regions was the improved performances of both the Praja and Workers' Party and the Scheduled Caste Federation. The P.W.P. appeared to be dealing with its leadership going to the Congress. For both this party and the S.C.F. showed an unexpected resilience which is perhaps accounted for by the impetus given them by the S.M.S. alliance in Maharashtra.

The P.-S.P. lost ground in all three zones although it remained the second party after the Congress taking the State as a whole. The Communists were possibly the biggest beneficiaries of the Samyukta Maharashtra movement. They improved their position considerably in Maharashtra and also in Vidarbha. They, however, lost ground in Marathwa (now in Telangana, another constituent unit of the Hyderabad State), where they contested the elections as part of the P.D.F. in 1952.

As for the Congress, the ruling party could have faced a deep crisis in the Marathi-speaking region. Lack of leadership combined with the Maharashtra P.C.C.'s equivocal position over the States reorganisation proposals was partly responsible. The police firings over the political agitation riots and the refusal of the Government to hold an inquiry into them had their share.

Despite the Mahagujarat agitation the Congress was able to improve its position in the elections to the Bombay Assembly from the Gujarati-speaking areas of the State.

The Party polled over five lakh votes more in Gujarat and Saurashtra-Kutch than it did in 1952 and secured 55 per cent of the total votes cast as against 50 per cent in the previous elections.

The Mahagujarat Janata Parishad took practically no impression whatever in Saurashtra-Kutch. Even in Gujarat it polled a little over 13 lakh votes or about 34 per cent of the total votes cast as against over 51 per cent secured by the Congress.

The M.G.J.P.'s success was essentially limited to the four northern districts of Gujarat State. It captured 26 out of 43 seats. It won two out of four seats in Sabarkantha, 11 out of 12 seats in Mehsana, eight out of 14 seats in Ahmedabad district and five out of 13 seats in Kaira.

In addition, it won one seat in Banaskantha, two seats in the Panch Mahals and one seat in Broach district. In all the Parishad won 15 seats out of 89 in Gujarat and none in Saurashtra-Kutch.

The conclusion that emerged from this analysis was that the Gujaratis were still strongly pro-Congress. In Saurashtra-Kutch the Congress polled over 72 per cent of the total votes cast, the best that it did anywhere in the country — and won 40 out of the 41 seats in that area.

KERALA

The elections in Kerala were closely contested. Over 70 per cent of the electorate of 7,42,948 exercised their franchise. This is probably the highest poll in any State.

The Muslim League improved its position somewhat in Malabar largely on account of its alliance with the P.-S.P.

A significant feature of the election was the marked inclination of the electorate to support the smaller parties or independents. Of the six independents who were elected, five were supported by the Communists. On the other hand, 27 of the 65 independents who contested lost their deposits.

Note: The 1951-52 figures include those for the area transferred from Bihar to West Bengal.

The record of the P.S.P. and the R.S.P. was even poorer. The former put up 62 candidates, of which as many as 27 lost their deposits. The party's influence was limited to the areas around Trivandrum and parts of Malabar and largely rested on the personal prestige of its leader, Mr. Pattom Thann Pillai. It won only one seat.

The R.S.P. fielded 25 candidates of whom 20 lost their deposits including the Party leader, Mr. Sreekantan Nair, who in 1952 topped the polls to the Lok Sabha from the State.

The Communists broke into the Congress strongholds in Trichur and Ernakulam Districts (largely comprising the former Cochin State) and Kottayam District. The Christian vote in the State, which was in the past more or less solidly Congress, went probably in part to the other non-communist parties and Independents this time, at any rate in certain areas.

MADHYA PRADESH

While the Congress secured a steam-roller majority in Madhya Pradesh, the general elections exposed the weakness rather than the strength of the organisation which in the past five years provided the Government in all the four constituent units of this newly integrated State.

The Congress party in Mahakoshal won 134 of the 161 seats, as against 129 in the previous elections. But this gain did not truly reflect the strength of the organisation when one took into account the inclusion of nine big ex-laudibros and five former rulers, who, though not truly Congressmen, hitched their fortunes to the Congress star. Maharaja Pravin Chandra Rao of Jaisar, a late inclusion in the Congress list for the Jagdalpur Assembly seat, was alone responsible for the victory of all the ten Congress candidates from the Jaisar district. In the previous general elections, when the Maharaja was not with the ruling party, the Congress lost almost all the seats to the Maharaja's independent nominees.

In Madhya Bharat the number of Assembly seats were reduced from 99 to 89. Congress losses there stood at 24.

But the Congress could have little sense of satisfaction, when even after a last-minute inclusion of the Maharani of Gwalior in the Congress fold, the organisation could not effectively contain or curb communal forces in the State. Though the Mahasabha this time won only seven seats as against 12 in the previous elections, the annexation of ten seats in place of three formerly held by the Jan Sangh maintained the hold of the two communal organisations at the pre-election level in this area.

The results indicated that either the Maharaja and Maharani of Gwalior, who toured part of their old territory, did not command the influence credited to them before the Maharani's nomination, or communalism was too deep-seated in this area to be dislodged by half-hearted attempts made at election time.

The only redeeming feature was the defeat of all the R.K.P. candidates from this area. In the last Assembly they held two seats. But even this slight gain was erased by the election of four Independents in place of the two in the old House.

The Communists, too, infiltrated into the politics of this area, winning two seats. Mr. Sarwate from Gwalior came under his own party label and Mr. Homi Dajee, General Secretary of Madhya Bharat Trade Union Congress, came into the new House in the garb of an independent candidate.

The annexation of eight of the nine seats by the Congress in the former Bhojpal State gave on paper a much more rosy picture than it actually was. The loss of the Bhojpal city seat to the Communist candidate, Mr. Shakti Ali Khan, and the defeat of the Congress candidate here, who all but lost his deposit as a bad third to a Communist and Mahasabha candidate, was perhaps a reflection of the lost prestige of the Congress in this State, where old Congress workers and leaders had been eliminated.

MADRAS

The Communists lost ground while the P.S.P. took a severe beating.

On the other hand, the Congress improved its position considerably.

The main opposition came from the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam and the Congress Reform Committee comprising an influential group of rebel Congressmen.

The D. M. K. is a parochial and communal party. It stands for a separate Dravidanatan, is anti-Hindi and claims to be a social reform movement in an inverted sense insofar as it is anti-Brahmin. Paradoxically, its parent body, the Dravida Kazhagam, with which it broke in 1948, and which has a broadly similar platform, campaigned for the Congress.

Caste once again proved to be a dominant factor in Madras politics and all parties were guilty of exploiting caste considerations.

The Commonwealth Party and Tollers Party, both of them caste groups, captured a number of seats in 1952. But they subsequently disappeared and were partially absorbed into the Congress. The Forward Bloc Marxist polled a little over a lakh of votes in 1952 and about maintained its position in 1957.

The Communists did not poll many fewer votes than in 1952, but the proportion of votes cast in their favour showed a more distinct drop

MYSORE

Myore along with Madhya Pradesh was the most solidly Congress State

The opposition was weakly organized. The main challenge came from the P S P. But the P S P did not appear to have consolidated the position it established in the 1952 elections. The total votes polled by the party (inclusive of the Kisan Mazdoor Praja Party vote in 1952) declined from 11,00,000 to 8,90,000. The ratio of votes cast has correspondingly declined from 22.4 per cent to 15.6 per cent.

The Communists were still not very significant. But they improved their position and would, no doubt, seek to capture the P S P vote as they did in many other states.

PUNJAB, RAJASTHAN

The emergence of the Communist Party as the main, though still modest, challenge to the Congress in the Punjab and the growing influence of the right wing communal parties in this state as well as in Rajasthan were, perhaps, the most striking features revealed by an analysis of the voting to these two State Assemblies.

The Communists polled over ten lakh votes in the Punjab or more than 14 per cent of the total votes cast. This constituted a remarkable increase over the four lakh votes secured by the party during the previous elections. An increase not fully reflected in the six seats the party was able to win.

On the other hand the Jan Sangh too doubled its vote from just under three lakhs to nearly 6.5 lakhs. But most of this was polled in the Hindi speaking areas of the State and reflected an accession of strength to the party following the agitation over the reorganisation of the Punjab and the regional formula.

Much of the Akali vote went to the Congress with which the party merged. The dissident Akalis under Master Tara Singh were not able to find much support.

Two other factors of interest in the Punjab were the decline of the Praja Socialist Party and the resurgence of the Scheduled Castes Federation. The Communists appeared to have eaten into the P S P vote.

The most noteworthy feature of the Rajasthan elections was the improvement in the poll over 1952 when about 30 per cent of the electorate turned up to vote. There appeared to have been a considerable development of political consciousness over the previous five years.

The Ram Rajya Parishad remained the strongest organised opposition party in the State. Together with the Jan Sangh it polled a little over six lakh votes or 17 per cent of the total in 1952 and 7.5 lakh votes or just over 15 per cent of the total poll on this occasion.

The P S P in Rajasthan showed little signs of growth. The Communists, however, established themselves and, as in many other States, bid fair to capture the Socialist vote.

TELANGANA

The Congress was able to "contain" the Communists in Telangana while itself polling over five lakh votes more than in 1952.

The Communist and People's Democratic Front secured 9.7 lakh votes or 31.2 per cent of the total votes cast in Telangana in 1952. In 1957 they polled only 9.4 lakh votes, which was 25.6 per cent of the total poll.

The Congress on the other hand, was able to better its position from 37.5 per cent to 46.5 per cent of the total number of votes cast.

The Congress ate into both the Communist and the P S P vote the latter of which were halved. The P S P obviously suffered a serious reverse in the south, having fallen down badly in Kerala, Madras and the former Andhra area.

Although the Communists lost ground proportionately to the Congress in Telangana, it must be noted that it retained a solid core of support. But at the same time the stranglehold it enjoyed in certain districts was definitely broken. In 1952, the P D F captured all the 12 seats in Nalgonda district. This time however it lost three Assembly seats and a Lok Sabha seat to the Congress. The Communist vote in the district also declined from 3.4 lakhs to 2.6 lakhs while the Congress vote nearly doubled at 2.2 lakhs.

If the Communists lost ground in Telangana they bettered their position in the old Andhra proper where elections were held early in 1955.

The Communists improved their position in this area from 14.7 lakh votes or 19.6 per cent of the total in 1952 to 26.9 lakh votes or 31.13 per cent of the total in 1955. The Congress vote rose from 22 lakhs to 34 lakhs while the P S P lost heavily its vote having declined from just under 15 lakhs to just under five lakhs in 1955.

In Andhra proper the Congress gained from the return to it of the bulk of the Krishikar Lok Party and part of the K M P P section of the P S P. The P S P was in its turn weakened on account of breakaway of the Lohia group which had some influence in Vishakhapatnam district.

The voting pattern for the Lok Sabha to which the entire State returned 43 members gives the overall picture for Andhra Pradesh. Nearly 95 lakh votes were polled. Of these the Congress got just under 48 lakhs or a little over 50 per cent. The Communists (including the P D F) secured 21 lakhs, the P S P 3.5 lakhs and the Lohia Socialists 1.7 lakhs.

UTTAR PRADESH

The political monopoly so long enjoyed by the Congress in Uttar Pradesh was effectively challenged in the 1957 elections.

The Congress still enjoyed very substantial support but the lesson of the poll was that the electorate would not necessarily long continue to vote for a party machine and the party bosses who controlled it.

The fact that some rebel congressmen were able to win a few seats was also a pointer in the same direction.

Uttar Pradesh was one of the few States in which the ratio of votes polled by the Congress to the total number of votes cast declined. It dropped from 48 per cent in 1952 to 42.7 per cent in 1957.

The Praja Socialist Party emerged as the largest opposition group with 44 members. It might well have captured a hundred seats were it not for the break with the Lohia Socialists who managed to secure 25 seats.

The P S P secured more votes than before, but it too moved down proportionately to the total poll.

Further to the left, the Communists improved their position with a poll of nearly 4 per cent of the total as against a little under one per cent in 1952. They polled about 5,43,000 in 80 constituencies and won nine seats. In 1952, they put up 43 candidates, 40 of whom lost their deposits.

On the right, the Jan Sangh too forged ahead and doubled its vote at 21,50,000. But the Hindu Mahasabha was wiped out, while the Ram Rajya Parishad lost much ground.

BYE-ELECTIONS

Since the General Elections of 1957 bye-elections took place for six seats in the Lok Sabha and for 46 in the State Assemblies up to the end of June 1958.

Of the six Lok Sabha bye-elections, one each was in Bihar, Bombay, Madras, Punjab, U.P., and West Bengal. Of the six seats three were won by the Congress, and one each by the P.S.P., the Samiti and an Independent.

Of the bye-elections for 46 seats in the State Assemblies, elections for six seats were in Andhra, four in Assam, five in Bihar, eight in Bombay, one in Kerala, three in M.P., three in Madras, four in Mysore, four in Orissa, two in the Punjab, four in U.P., and two in W. Bengal.

WEST BENGAL

The Congress Party was firmly back in power but with slightly less than the two-thirds majority which it had enjoyed in the previous Assembly.

The stout bid by the five major leftist parties—the Communists, the Praja Socialists, the Forward Bloc and the Revolutionary Socialist Party—to oust the Congress and form an alternative Government failed, but it fulfilled its claim to be the only real opposition alliance captured slightly more than 34 per cent of the total votes cast as compared to 40 per cent by the Congress.

The Congress Party's 46 per cent represented a not inconsiderable increase over the number of votes the party secured during the 1952 elections when its percentage was 39 per cent.

With the complete rout of the Hindu Mahasabha and the Jan Sangh who jointly in the National Democratic Party had 13 members in the old Assembly and with the success of two members of the other leftist combination (comprising eight small parties) the five party alliance had 85 members in the House. The support of several of the 11 independent members of the House was also secured.

The Communists with 46 seats were the largest opposition party in the new House. In the previous elections this party had 25 seats.

The Praja Socialists, with 21 members, were the second largest opposition party. In the elections the Kisan Mazdoor Praja Party (now part of the P S P) secured 11 seats in the House.

A remarkable feature of the election in West Bengal was the unseating of as many as 111 members of the Assembly. These included 10 Ministers, two Deputy Ministers, the Chief Whip and 46 other Congressmen. 134 Communists, one member each of the Samiti and the Forward Bloc, four of the Jan Sangh, two of the Hindu Mahasabha and one Independent were also elected.

Even more interesting and in the long run certain political circles of significance was the future was the Congress defeat in the election. Out of the total of 46 seats the Congress secured only 8 as against 16 in the last elections.

The pattern was similar in other areas. Industrial labour was concentrated in the hill regions of North Bengal too the Congress flopped miserably. The best it could do was to support a successful Independent candidate.

On the other hand Congress claims for a firmer foothold in rural West Bengal were set out. The abolition of the zamindari system, the introduction of various measures for cultural improvement were listed as reasons for the Congress success in the rural areas.

Restlessness born of growing unemployment, particularly among the hard-pressed middle classes, was the principal factor responsible for the Congress reverses in industrial and urban areas. Equally operative was the general bitterness over the high prices of food and other essentials.

Another highlight of the elections in West Bengal was the high percentage of the electorate who exercised their right of franchise. Out of the 15 million eligible voters, over 10 million cast their votes. (In the 1952 elections the figure was slightly over 7 million). The votes cast by the newly-acquired area of Purulia, formerly Bihar, numbered roughly 850,000.

Still another interesting point about the election in West Bengal was the anti-Congress vote of displaced persons from East Pakistan. 11 refugees voted overwhelmingly against the Congress.

Of the 46 seats 23 were won by the Congress, 11 by Independents, four by the P.S.P., two by the Samiti and one each by the Socialists, P.W.F., Communists, Jan Sangh and Ganatantra Parishad.

All the six Lok Sabha seats were held by the Congress and 25 of the 46 State Assembly
